Kidnaping Discouraged.

By ARTHUR BRISBANE

LOS ANGELES, May 16. FIRST DAY in California, devoted to motoring 150 miles over the Mojave Desert, the same distance north along the edge of the Pacific from Ventura and back again this morning.

William M. Packer meets the train, and does the driving, and has suddenly become indifferent to high speed. A sedate average of one mile a minute contents him, while he demonstrates car features, rather than speed.

M. E. Coyle and W. E. Holler, who supervise from afar, would be interested in the Packer methods. He seeks out stones half as big as his head and drives one front wheel over them. Then he finds bigger stones and drives the other front wheel over them.

Next, at full speed he dashes off the main road into the roughest, bumpiest kind of desert, with chuck holes, sage brush, clumps, sailing along at full speed. He winds up, his youthful face beaming:

"You didn't feel a jar, did you?"

ON EVERY possible occasion, putting on his gloves, or dark eye glasses, he takes both hands off the wheel and leaves them off. Says he:

"This is shockless steering. No whipping of the wheel."

IT'S A PLEASURE "to visit" with the inhabitants of the desert, all so friendly. In the Victorville drug store when you ask for root beer without any ice, the lovely girl with yellow hair replies "you bet" and beams. That is all her vocabulary, "you bet," and beaming.

You stop at "The Green Spot" half a block from the drug store. The purveyor of the "T-bone" steaks, a young lady with jet black hair as permanently waved as the fur on a cast iron Newfoundland dog, with beautiful eyebrows that run almost down to her ears and out-size grey eyes, says:

"Well, hello, boys. How are you all? I sure am glad to see you."

A sign back of her reads, in large letters:

"Steaks as tender as a woman's heart."

And another sign:

"Pies like mother tried to make."

IT'S A FINE cool day in the desert, temperature only 96, not quite hot enough for maximum speed in alfalfa growing.

But recently the heat has been 105 to 110, which is better, and already Robert Hodge and his brother Gilbert Hodge have harvested and baled their first hay crops of the season and the alfalfa is hurrying toward a second crop.

They don't watch for rain, for there isn't any, except perhaps half an inch in a year. They pump the water from the desert soil and expect eight crops this year, a hot enough desert sun permitting.

ROLLING ALONG the edge of the Pacific's gentle surf, its small waves scarcely breaking, you are reminded that the biggest man usually does little talking.

Back of that quiet stretch of surf that runs a thousand miles along our Pacific Ocean front door, there lies seven thousand miles of water. A little of it, falling as rain on the mountains to the east, will form streams and cataracts, of which the smallest will make more noise than that whole ocean.

The imagination is held by Byron's line:

"The mountains look on Marathon and Marathon looks upon the sea."

That is poetry, here is reality. You could bring those mountains and Marathon and that little Greek sea and all that part of Greece, dump them down on the edge of this ocean, and motorists would only say:

"Hello, another little real estate development. Who started that?"

WILLIAM F. GETTLE, recently kidnaped, is back with his family. Three of those that managed his kidnaping are in jail, have pleaded guilty and already have been sentenced to life in prison.

As they inflicted physical injury on their victim, causing him to fall from the top of a seven-foot wall, the penalty, according to law, might have been death had they stood trial.

California does not like kidnapers, and the three gentlemen in jail would have been surprised and not pleased to learn of the sentiment in favor of NOT waiting for any official hanging.

THE LITTLE girl, June Robles, Heaven be praised, is back with her family. She was found "in a shallow hole covered by cactus, chained by her ankles, her clothes filthy and her body emaciated." She was too weak to walk or answer questions, and could only say, "I want mama," to those that found her, nine miles from her home in Tucson, Arizona.

Her kidnapers have not been caught as this is written. There is, however, NO speculation whatever as to what will happen to THEM if they are caught.

THE MEN OF Arizona like kidnaping as little as do the men of California. And if they come within reach of those kidnapers, the latter will be taken care of so thoroughly that they will never need any care, at any later time, on this earth.

It is your duty to hope, piously, that there will be no

Jim Reed Leads Fiery Protests Against 'European Trap'

WASHINGTON, May 16. — A distinguished array of witnesses appeared before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee today and protested against American adherence to the World Court.

Ex-Senator James A. Reed, of Missouri, was the first of the witnesses, and he charged that the campaign for American adherence is a move financed by the Carnegie Foundation "to force the United States into the League of Nations through th back door."

Spectators jammed the largest hearing room in the Capitol.

Reed told the committee:

"This is the most important question before the Congress of the United States. If a mistake is made, there is no mind capable of prophesying the results of that mistake."

"The proponents of this measure are the proponents of the League of Nations.

"This is the back door through which they hope to seek an entrance into the league."

The Carnegie Foundation had "financed the propaganda," both for the League and for the Court, Reed said.

SEES PERIL TO U. S. FLAG

Reed declared friends of the Court were spending huge sums to influence the Senate. He said:

"With the money at their command, anyone could get up 10,000 organizations to oppose the World Court. You know how easy it is to send telegrams with somebody else's money.

"There is a well-financed effort to pull down the American

AERIAL FIGHT BALKS SUICIDE

MUNCIE, Ind., May 16.—(AP.)—A fight 2,000 feet in the air halted the attempt of Regis L. Schwer, 19, to commit suicide by jumping from an airplane late yesterday. Raymond Williams, pilot, left the controls of his plane to beat Schwer into unconsciousness.

Noticing the youth with one foot on the wing of the ship, Williams set his ship in a glide, grabbed a fire extinguisher and struck Schwer on the head. The pilot struggled for three minutes to get the inert body into the front cockpit.

The plane was but 500 feet up when Williams again took the controls.

Landing at the airport, Schwer told officers he had been brooding over low scholastic marks. Police, however, said they believed the youth was despondent over a love affair.

21 Die as Steamer Sinks Close to Shore

HELSINGFORS, Finland, May 16.—(AP.)—Twenty-one passengers were drowned yesterday when the steamer Louhi sank in Lake Kallevesi. Three of the dead were children.

Survivors said the boat sank 100 yards from shore within two minutes after the captain swerved the ship to avoid a rock, causing a shifting of deck cargo and a heavy list.

MARGIOTTI LEADS IN COUNTY

Governorship Contest Feature of Local Balloting

By MARK SHIELDS

Attorney Charles J. Margiotti, Republican, and George H. Earle, Democrat, as gubernatorial candidates, held the lead this afternoon in returns from yesterday's primary election in Allegheny County.

Joseph F. Guffey, Democrat, easily defeated Roland S. Morris for the Democratic senatorial nomination, while the Republican senatorial contest was practically a toss-up between Senator David A. Reed and Gov. Gifford Pinchot.

The margin which Margiotti held over Attorney General William A. Schnader, Lieutenant Governor Edward C. Shannon and former Congressman Thomas W. Phillips, of Butler, was one of the surprises of an amazing primary, returns from which were slowed up by the number of candidates whose ballots election boards had to tabulate.

VOTE FOR GOVERNOR

In 763 districts out of 944 in the county, the following were the totals for Governor:

REPUBLICAN.

Margiotti	39,027
Shannon	33,515
Schnader	35,788
Phillips	17,839

In 393 districts the figures were:

DEMOCRAT.

Earle	19,431
McNair	7,828
Bonniwell	6,246
Copeland	5,311

The battle between Reed and Pinchot for the Senatorial nomination furnished a surprise in the manner in which the Senator for a time matched votes with the Governor, always a favorite in Allegheny County. Later returns in this contest from 754 districts gave:

REPUBLICAN

Reed	57,143
Pinchot	67,163

In 449 districts the totals were:

DEMOCRAT.

Guffey	34,315

MARGIOTTI'S DRIVE

The vote of Margiotti, fighting a combination of county officeholders and the Pinchot organization, supporting Shannon, and the Herron-Coyne organization behind Schnader, was easily the feature of the balloting in Allegheny county. In boroughs, townships, Pittsburgh and the third-class cities, Margiotti outdistanced his competitors. The Punxsutawney attorney had in

One of them, Congressman Henry Ellenbogen, was overwhelmingly nominated on both Republican and Democratic tickets, which insures his re-election in November.

PINCHOT HINTS FIGHT IN FALL

Prospects of a three-cornered Senatorial contest in November were hinted at by Gov. Gifford Pinchot today when he conceded his defeat for the Republican nomination by Senator David A. Reed, but countered:

"I'll be in good shape in the fall."

Observers interpreted this assertion to mean that the 68-year-old Governor hoped to enter the campaign in November as an independent against Senator Reed and Joseph F. Guffey, the Democratic nominee.

Senator Reed, in acknowledging his victory, said he interpreted the outcome of the primary as a triumph for neither the New Deal nor the Old Deal, "but the Square Deal."

He explained:

"It is not a personal victory, but one of principle. It means that Pennsylvania supports the integrity of the Constitution. I believe the party will now go

'NEW DEAL' FOE LEADS SENATE RACE BY 115,000 VOTES

Pennsylvania Primary Highlights:

Senator David A. Reed, seeking Republican renomination on an anti-New Deal platform, is holding a commanding lead over Gov. Gifford Pinchot. The Governor has conceded defeat.

Attorney General William A. Schnader won the Republican Gubernatorial nomination with an irreversible lead over Lieut. Gov. Edward C. Shannon and Attorney Charles J. Margiotti.

In Allegheny County Attorney Charles J. Margiotti astounded politicians by leading in incomplete returns for the Republican Gubernatorial nomination. The fight between Senator David A. Reed and Gov. Gifford Pinchot for the Republican Senatorial nomination was close in the county, with Joseph F. Guffey far in front of Roland S. Morris for the Democratic place.

Joseph F. Guffey, State Roosevelt leader, won the Democratic nomination for Senator, and George H. Earle, his running mate, the Gubernatorial nomination by an overwhelming vote.

Governor Trailing Opponent Blames Health in Defeat

PHILADELPHIA, May 16.—(AP.)—After Senator David A. Reed had rolled up a majority of more than 100,000 in two-thirds of the state, Gov. Gifford Pinchot today conceded defeat in his effort to win the Republican nomination for Senator.

Blaming his defeat largely on his health, which prevented him from making a personal tour of the state, the Governor, who twice before had been defeated in his effort to enter the Senate, left what political observers looked upon as an intimation that he may try again at the general election in the fall.

If he runs it will be on an independent ticket against Reed on the Republican ticket and Joseph F. Guffey, the Democratic nominee. The Governor said:

"I shall go right on fighting for the interests of the people against concentrated wealth, just as I have done all my life."

FUTURE IN DOUBT

He was asked whether this meant he would run in November, and replied:

"This must not be taken to imply any decision as to my future political action."

He said he would pay strict attention to his health between now and the fall.

Schnader Wins Easy Victory in Governor Race

BULLETIN.

PHILADELPHIA, May 16.—(AP.)—Returns from 5,345 of 7,936 districts for nomination as Republican candidate for Governor: Margiotti, 129,097; Schnader, 441,715; Shannon, 151,419.

PHILADELPHIA, May 16.—(AP.)—Supported zealously by two factions of his party, William A. Schnader, Pennsylvania's Attorney General, has won the Republican nomination for governor.

An appointee of Gov. Gifford Pinchot and running with Pinchot support, Schnader nevertheless became the favorite in mid-campaign of the Governor's bitterest foes, the state organization.

The downtown wards of Philadelphia, long controlled by William S. Vare, whom Pinchot once barred from a United States Senate seat, sent Schnader far into the lead soon after the polls closed.

G. O. P. TO FIGHT ROOSEVELT 'FREE HAND' IN RECOVERY BILL

STORM SIGNALS RAISED IN SENATE

Democratic Leaders In Drive to Speed Congress' Close

WASHINGTON, May 16.—(AP.)—Clear-cut legislative lines were traced today by President Roosevelt and Democratic leaders to guide the new-surging Congressional rush toward adjournment.

House pilots began consideration of the last of the Roosevelt legislative proposals—the $1,322,000,000 emergency recovery bill. Storm signals were raised in Republican quarters over his request for discretionary authority in spending part of the money.

The Senate squared off to tackle the administration's reciprocal tariff bargaining bill tomorrow. The leadership confidently predicted passage within five days.

LABOR BILL IN DOUBT

Members of the House Banking Committee reassembled today after a conference with Mr. Roosevelt in which he called for passage of the bill to continue the temporary insurance of bank deposits only up to $2,500.

Despite continued White House parleys, a question mark hung over the Wagner Labor Board bill and the Wagner-Lewis unemployment insurance measure. The later has the strong backing of the President.

DIFFICULTIES FACED

In a conference last night with congressional chieftains and Secretary Perkins, however, Mr. Roosevelt heard about difficulties in the way of these administration measures. These may forestall his approval in favor of an early June adjournment program.

The House Banking Committee also had definite presidential word today that quick action is wanted on the Senate bill to authorize loans to industry by the Federal Reserve system and the RFC.

NRA CODE CUTS PROTESTED AT CAPITAL

Substitutes Ordered For Minor Pacts To Be Scrapped

By EDWARD O. MAYL
International News Service.

WASHINGTON, May 16.—Service and minor industry codes will not be scrapped without satisfactory substitutes, despite Recovery Administrator Hugh S. Johnson's announcement, it was indicated today as protests were recorded at the White House and the NRA.

In addition to receiving complaints from Democratic primary candidates now giving 100 per cent lip service to the NRA, the administration is concerned with the complaint of the American Transit Association.

TROLLEY, TAXI ROW

Street railways have been operating since September under the transit code without much trouble to the Recovery Administration, mainly because of the expectation that the taxicab industry would be placed under a code as well. When Johnson announced his plan to scrap the service codes, the association asked it be relieved of its responsibility unless the taxicab industry is placed under a code.

Democratic candidates in many states are being subjected to much quizzing by political rivals. They have been parrying such questions temporarily, hoping for a definite stand by Johnson, but so far Johnson has failed to clarify his original statement.

From sources close to the White House it was learned Johnson has been advised that a definite plan for abolishment of his so-called "pestiferous" codes will not be fashioned on a hard and fast rule.

SERVICE CODES

On various occasions Johnson has termed the service codes as "lousy," but he has not offered a substitute except the President's re-employment agreement of early last summer.

Johnson's complaint is that many codes govern but several hundred employes and that these same codes give the administration "85 per cent of the trouble." Union leaders admit this contention, but demand that allied and interrelated activities be placed under a blanket code governing similar industrial pursuits.

TRICK CHARGED TO SIDETRACK M'LEOD BILL

Universal Service.

WASHINGTON, May 16.—Slick parliamentary maneuvering by House Majority Leader Byrns to ditch the McLeod bill and two other measures precipitated a riotous session in the House.

Amid cries of "trickery," "I resent that," "Let's stand by our leaders," the body broke up in confusion last night after trying vainly for an hour to consider private calendar bills for the relief of various individuals.

With only a handful of members present, Byrns, in tones scarcely audible, moved to adjourn until Thursday and from Thursday until Monday next. The motion carried.

ONE DAY LEFT

This left only one day—Thursday—on which to file petitions to insure a vote May 28 on the McLeod bank depositors payoff bill, the Connery 30-hour week labor bill and the Frazier-Lemke farm mortgage refinancing bill.

Outraged at this move, backers of the three bills determined to object to all private bills at last night's session. These measures require unanimous consent for passage.

These tactics led to the confusion which caused the riotous adjournment. After incessant bickering, Rep. Goss, (Rep.) of Connecticut, rose to plead with the members to overlook the leader's action and pass the pending private bills. He said:

"There are plenty of ways in which the minority can command respect for its wishes. We can block adjournment until these three bills get to the floor."

Immediately, Rep. Blanton, (Dem.) of Texas, resenting the criticism against the leadership, moved to adjourn. While members laughed, jeered and demanded order, Byrns entered and repeated the motion to adjourn. Rep. Parsons, (Dem.) of Illinois, in the chair, ruled the motion carried after a standing vote.

All three bills sidetracked by Byrns would be brought up for a vote May 28 if the petitions should have 145 names by Friday night.

Connery Bill—53 signers—92 needed.

Frazier-Lembke Bill—136 signers—9 needed.

BATTLE PLANNED

Advocates of each bill met immediately to outline plans of procedure to circumvent the leadership's action, and Representative Zioncheck, (Dem.), of Washington, at once urged the members to sign the Connery petition.

The American Federation of Labor promised Representative Connery (Dem.), of Massachusetts, author of the 30-hour week bill, all the strength at its command to get his petition completed Thursday.

Declaring the Byrns move was designed to forestall action on his bill Representative McLeod (Rep.), of Michigan, said:

"We are far from giving up. I am sure we'll have the 145 names by Thursday night."

MRS. NANCY H. WILSON

EX-WIFE SUES BRIDEGROOM

LOS ANGELES, May 16.—(AP.)—Testifying their two children recently needed costly medical attention, Mrs. Nancy H. Wilson today went to court seeking an increase in her allowance from her former husband, Carey Wilson, film writer, who has just returned from his yacht honeymoon with Carmelita Geraghty, motion picture actress.

Mrs. Wilson asserted her $250 a month allowance was insufficient to meet medical and other bills for the children, Nancy Hope, 13, and Carey, Jr., 7, and asks for $1,000 a month.

The screen writer, who married Miss Geraghty a few days ago and took a boat trip along the Mexican coast, said he now earns $1,000 a week from Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer studio. He testified his earnings reached a peak of $101,000 in 1928 and had dropped to $45,000 last year.

BLOCK UTILITY RATE APPEALS

WASHINGTON, May 16.—(AP.)—The end to a long Congressional struggle was written yesterday to prevent public utilities from taking rate orders of state commissioners into federal district courts and thus delay their effectiveness.

The utilities, however, may appeal the final decisions of state courts to the United States Supreme Court.

The measure was introduced by Senator Johnson (Rep.), of California, in the first session of the seventy-second Congress and was favorably reported over the opposition, among others, of the American Bar Association.

Heretofore, public utilities could appeal decisions of state rate making bodies to federal courts on two grounds: that the orders violated the Fourteenth Amendment to the Constitution or on diversity of citizenship.

Home Loan Bank Cuts Interest Rate

The Pittsburgh Home Loan Bank today announces a cut in interest rates from 5 to 4½ per cent, according to Ralph H. Richards, executive vice president. The lower interest rates are expected to spur loans for home construction and repairs.

ROOSEVELT FOR STOCK MARKET 'POLICE'

President for House Measure Proposing Rigid Control

WASHINGTON, May 16.—(AP.)—President Roosevelt declared emphatically today for regulation of the stock exchange by the Federal Trade Commission as proposed by the House.

Mr. Roosevelt also sent word to the Senate and House conferees that he wanted the stringent marginal requirements for stock exchange deals provided in the House bill. The House set up a 45 per cent marginal requirement as a standard.

These are the two principal points of difference between the Senate and the House in their stock exchange control measures.

Meanwhile the wrath of Senator Carter Glass, of Virginia, appeared likely to influence strongly the final form of the measure.

The Virginian's anger at his exclusion from the list of Senate conferees on the measure led to an impetuous resignation from the Senate Banking Committee.

Although Senator Robinson, the Democratic leader, refused to accept the resignation, Senate conferees today headed for a meeting with House managers on the legislation with Glass' protest ringing in their ears.

It drew from the Senate conferees assurances they would stand for the Virginian's amendments.

Most important of these was the Glass amendment to place the stock exchanges under a new and special commission instead of the Federal Trade Commission.

Morgantown Youth Reported Kidnaped

CLEVELAND, May 16.—(AP.)—Abduction of Joseph Mitchell, 14, of Morgantown, W. Va., was reported today to suburban Maple Heights police by his brother, Lawrence Mitchell, 24.

The older youth said his brother was about to enter a store when an old sedan containing three men stopped. Two of the men, Lawrence said, grabbed Joseph and threw him in the car, which headed toward Akron.

Weather Conditions

The low pressure that caused the showery conditions over this section yesterday is now out over the Atlantic Ocean, and the high that covered the plains states yesterday is now centered over Western Pennsylvania and Ohio. This high caused a marked drop in temperature over the Middle Atlantic states, and is attended by clear skies this morning. Light frost was general this morning over Ohio, Michigan, Western Pennsylvania and Western New York. A low centered over North Dakota (lowest barometer, 29.60 inches, at Devils Lake and at Bismarck) is causing rising temperatures over the plains states and the Upper Mississippi Valley. It is causing some cloudiness over the Upper Mississippi Valley, but the rainfall so far was very light and was limited to the vicinity of Lake Superior.

River Conditions

The rivers are about stationary. Stage at Franklin is 1.2 feet; Lock No. 7 (Mon.), 11.4; Pittsburgh, 10.7; Dam No. 4, 9.0; No. 6, 7.5; No. 10, 8.6, and No. 12, 7.0. The dams are up.

LIQUOR SLEUTH TESTS LIKELY

WASHINGTON, May 16.—(AP.)—Favorable action on a resolution requiring reinstated prohibition service employes to stand merit tests was predicted after Congressional Democratic leaders and Secretary Morgenthau had discussed assertions that all or the bulk of 1,310 put back on the payroll were Republicans.

Chairman Bulow (Dem.), of South Dakota, head of the Senate Civil Service Committee, said he thought the McKellar resolution requiring those reinstated to take new examinations would be approved by his committee.

Senator McKellar (Dem.), of Tennessee, author of the resolution, said a "Republican clique" of five government officials prepared the list of former employes and that from them agents for the treasury's beverage alcohol division were chosen.

QUESTIONS SELF AS ATTORNEY

MILWAUKEE, Wis., May 16.—(AP.)—With his own wooden leg as the subject of his monologue, Joseph F. Studnicka, an attorney suing the manufacturers of the artificial leg, took the stand and asked himself questions, which he proceeded to answer.

He alleged the company from which he bought the leg in 1930 agreed to keep it in condition for five years, but recently refused to make adjustments necessitated by his increased weight.

Defense counsel insisted Studnicka ask himself questions as he would a witness so they might interpose objections.

Thrifty Postmaster Saved 45 Lbs. Twine

OMAHA, Neb., May 16.—(AP.)—When C. L. McEntaffey became postmaster at Emerson, Neb., he read the rules of his office. One was that all twine coming into the postoffice should be saved and reused.

As a result, Postmaster F. C. Patton, of Omaha, has received 45 pounds surplus twine, the difference between the incoming and outgoing twine at the Emerson office since 1926.

Farley to Quit as Party Chief, Washington Hears

By WILLIAM K. HUTCHINSON
International News Service.

WASHINGTON, May 16.—Early retirement of Postmaster General James A. Farley as Democratic national chairman in favor of either Guy T. Helvering, of Kansas, or Joseph C. O'Mahoney, of Wyoming, was rumored today on Capitol Hill.

Helvering and O'Mahoney have served as vice chairmen of the Democratic National Committee.

Farley's resignation has been predicted ever since President Roosevelt expressed opposition to national committeemen serving in government posts. The President gave a number of them the choice of quitting the committee or resigning their government positions. Most of them retired from the committee.

Farley was exempted temporarily from this rule so he might consolidate the party gains recorded in the Roosevelt landslide. That work has been completed, and he is expected to retire shortly after Congress adjourns.

FATAL FIGHTING MARKS STRIKES

Associated Press.

Guns, dynamite and flames struck at both life and property as strike violence flared with renewed vehemence in a dozen sectors yesterday.

Most deadly and spectacular was the outbreak of the previously peaceful striking longshoremen of San Pedro, Cal., which culminated in the storming of a stockade in which 400 nonstrikers had been housed.

In the hand-to-hand combat and rain of fire from rifles and pistols of guards, one man was killed, two men were so seriously wounded they may die and scores of others were injured.

Along the entire Pacific Coast, where thousands of longshoremen are on a strike for union recognition and better hours and wages, discontent seethed, but for the main part, with the exception of the San Pedro riot, there was no actual violence.

The third bridge to be destroyed in the Alabama coal fields since 21,000 miners went on strike April 6 was blown up by a dynamite blast between Oakman and Coal valley.

London Shipping Faces Strike Tieup

LONDON, May 16.—(INS.)—Threatening 90 per cent of London's vast perishable food imports, 3,000 dock workers went on strike at Bermondsey today in protest against the unemployment of clerks displaced by the introduction of office machines.

CLEANERS' CODE JUNKING DENIED

Denial that abandonment of the NRA code for cleaners and dyers is contemplated in Washington was made today by William J. Mooney, executive secretary of the Pennsylvania Association of Dyers and Cleaners.

Gen. Hugh S. Johnson yesterday wired the national code authority for the industry that reports of abandonment of its code were incorrect.

Mooney said:

"Ninety-nine per cent of all the industry want this code and has made progress under it. Labor, the consumer, and the plant operator have all materially benefitted as a result of this code of fair competition."

Gas Station Strike In Cleveland Ends

CLEVELAND, O., May 16.—(AP.)—Gasoline flowed in Cleveland again today after a drouth of four weeks.

The major oil companies accepted a proposal for compulsory arbitration of disputes presented by Secretary of the Interior Harold Ickes and Dr. W. M. Leiserson, chairman of the Petroleum Labor Policy Board. This acceptance automatically ended last night the strike of 2,000 gasoline station attendants who had accepted the proposal earlier.

NRA AND WIRES OPEN BATTLE

WASHINGTON, May 16.—(AP.)—A formidable fight involving the vast wire networks of the nation broke into the open today.

NRA called on the telegraph industry to show cause, in a hearing opening here, why the Blue Eagle should not "crack down" and impose a code.

The American Telephone and Telegraph Company, Western Union and an imposing array of their clients gathered to voice strong opposition. On the other side of the fence was Postal Telegraph, only petitioner for a code.

NRA, although not finally committed to forcing a code, has taken the line that if labor cannot obtain better wages, shorter hours and more jobs the way things are, perhaps drastic action will help.

The proceeding came at a time when legislation to put all forms of communication under thoroughgoing federal regulation was half way through Congress. A bill to that effect passed the Senate yesterday.

RESERVE BOARD HEAD TO QUIT

Universal Service.

WASHINGTON, May 16.—Eugene R. Black, governor of the Federal Reserve Board, is planning to resign shortly after Congress adjourns, it was learned today.

Before taking up his present duties, Black was head of the Federal Reserve Bank at Atlanta and he has been anxious to return there for some time. He has remained on at the request of President Roosevelt.

Adolph C. Miller, a member of the board, is regarded as a likely successor to Black as chairman of the board. He has been a close friend to the President and adviser on financial matters for many years.

Pittsburgh Linked In New Air Service

Service on the new air mail, express and passenger line between Pittsburgh, Detroit and Washington was inaugurated today by the newly organized Central Air Lines.

The new company, awarded the new airmail contracts by the Postoffice Department, will operate a fleet of 11 planes.

'Jittery' American Girl Calmed by Queen Mary

Universal Service.

LONDON, May 16.—The sweet smile of Queen Mary and the kind words of King George calmed the fright of an American debutante who was presented to their majesties in the first royal court of the London season.

The American girl, who must remain nameless because of the edict of the American Embassy that the debutantes and matrons should say nothing about the presentation yesterday for publication, said that the "terribly real" scene in the ornate throne room of Buckingham Palace thrilled and frightened her. She added:

"But my fright was calmed by the Queen's smile and the human words of the King.

"It was all over so swiftly that I could hardly believe the days of rehearsal could result in such a brief but memorable performance.

"Before we were presented, the calm, critical eyes of the Lord Chamberlain and other court functionaries saw to it that we conformed to court etiquette. This was by no means the easiest part of the ordeal, yet it was accomplished speedily and efficiently with a cheery and encouraging smile by Lord Granard, Lord Chamberlain.

"The most encouraging part of it was the fact that Lady Granard, who stood beside him, is an American. She was friendly and sympathetic."

Prexy Denies He's Sexy Flaying College Dances

MONTICELLO, Ark., May 16.—(AP.)—Students' charges that he had made "crude allusions to sex problems" in chapel talks were denied by Frank R. Horsfall, president of Monticello A. & M. State College.

He testified at an investigation ordered by Gov. J. Marion Futrell after 17 students, including a number of girls, had taken the stand to charge Horsfall had referred to modern dancing as "a sex orgy" and a violation of all the Ten Commandments; that "the dance hall was next door to hell" and that those who indulge in the pastime "would go to hell."

The middle-aged president of the institution for 25 years, prefaced his testimony with this statement:

"I have been making these lectures for 30 years without objection. In all this time I could not quote any part of the lectures verbatim, but the students (those who testified today) apparently misunderstood my words. I may have used statements similar to the ones they quoted. I do not think I made objectionable statements."

He denied he made the statement that those who dance violate all of the Ten Commandments, and said his words were on that occasion, "in some public dancing places, there are people who violate all of the Ten Commandments."

President Horsfall also denied he had made any objectionable remarks to girls in reprimanding them for violating the school's rule against students attending dances.

GETTLE KIDNAPERS GET LIFE TERMS ON GUILTY PLEAS

3 TAKE PRISON RATHER THAN RISK DEATH

Victim's Hurts Slight, Prosecutor Gives Men Choice

LOS ANGELES, May 16.—(AP.)—Three kidnapers of the wealthy William Gettle will begin serving life sentences for that crime before nightfall.

Hardly more than 24 hours after Gettle's delivery from his kidnap prison, and less than a week after he was snatched from a party at his Beverly Hills home, the three kidnapers—Ray Williams, Jimmy Kirk and Larry Kerrigan—were rushed to court last night, permitted to plead guilty and quickly sentenced to life imprisonment.

A county grand jury indicted the trio of kidnaping for ransom and robbery charges at 7:50 p. m., after hearing Gettle's story.

At 8 o'clock the men were taken before Superior Court Judge Charles W. Fricke for arraignment.

Fifteen minutes later they had pleaded guilty, Gettle had testified briefly and the three kidnapers had been sentenced to life terms in San Quentin Prison.

Because Gettle testified the three had not inflicted grievous bodily harm, they will be eligible for parole after serving three and one-half years.

District Attorney Buron Fitts had given the members of the gang the alternative of pleading guilty or standing trial and facing the possibility of the death sentence.

In view of Gettle's testimony that he suffered no bodily harm, court attaches pointed out the District Attorney would have had no power to demand the death penalty. However, his threat apparently had the desired result as the men pleaded guilty with little hesitation.

With the three men in the case ready for San Quentin, authorities were undecided what to do with two women who were arrested when found in company of Kirk.

The women, Lauretta Woody, 23, alias Ann Williams, and Mona A. Gallighan, 21, alias Joan Ward, are being held for suspicion of kidnaping.

'SLAVE' KIDNAP TRIO JAILED

HOT SPRINGS, Ark., May 16.—(AP.)—Three men pleaded guilty yesterday to charges of kidnaping a 16-year-old youth they were accused of having held as a slave on a farm, and were sentenced to three years each in prison.

The men, Homer Markham, 26; his brother, Albert, 19, and Ruben Vonmarsh, 28, had been held while officers investigated the disappearance of Jabo Fox. They told officers they had put Fox on a freight train bound for Oklahoma.

Prosecuting Attorney Houston Emory said the men had held the boy as a virtual slave, forcing him to work, then kidnaping him after he had been summoned as a witness to appear against them on charges of disturbing public worship, and on liquor accusations.

Girl Quadruplets Born, Three Living

BATHURST, N. B., May 16.—(AP.)—Three of four girls born Monday to Mrs. Yvonne Roy Doucett, of Petit Rocher, were clinging to life today. The surviving babies were christened Marie Raymonde, Marie Theresa and Marie Jennica.

Both the father, Roy Doucett, and the mother are 25 years old.

LOVE THEFT SUIT SETTLED

David K. Walters' $20,000 alienation of affections suit against Arthur Storey was settled out of court today for $300.

Walters, a mechanic, of Neville Island, sued Storey for winning the love of Mrs. Alice Walters, his wife.

The case had gone to trial before Judge William H. McNaugher on Monday but today the judge called opposig counsel in chambers and when they emerged the settlement was announced.

Walters sued his wife for a divorce some time ago but was denied a decree by Judge Sylvester Snee.

Brown Had Moving Mania, Wife Says

LOS ANGELES, May 16.—(AP.)—Nacio Herb Brown, song writer and composer, forced her to move 20 times in their 22 months of married life, Jeanne Berlin I. Brown said in a suit for divorce.

She said he called the movers one time at 1 a. m. and informed her he was moving and she was welcome to join him if she cared to.

Belgian Mine Blast Life Toll Feared 43

BRUSSELS, May 16.—(AP.)—Forty-three miners were feared today to have lost their lives in an explosion and fire which made an inferno of a coal mine at Paturages Au Fief last night.

Ten bodies had been recovered and five men were brought to the surface in a critical condition. Hope was abandoned for the remaining 33.

4 LIVE TO TELL OF SHIP CRASH

NEW YORK, May 16.—(AP.)—Only four members of the Nantucket Lightship's crew of 11 lived to tell today of the fog-bound crash that sent the little sentinel craft to the bottom of the sea.

The mighty prow of the White Star liner Olympic ripped through the steel lightship off the Massachusetts coast yesterday. The small vessel sank quickly.

The liner put out lifeboats and rescued seven of the lightship's crew, but three of them died shortly afterward in the ship's hospital. The four missing men were given up for dead.

The four survivors, too ill to talk much about the disaster, were brought to New York today aboard the Olympic. One of them was Capt. George W. Braithwaite. His first request after regaining consciousness was for a cigaret. He said:

"This is my first since the war."

He was not told that seven members of his crew had perished.

BRICK SHATTERS CLUB WINDOW

Police of the Penn Avenue Station today held two men in connection with the throwing of a brick through a window in the Cocoanut Grove Club, 5125 Liberty avenue, shortly after midnight. The glass was valued at $1,000.

The prisoners gave their names as Louis Shelter, 28, of 921 North Murtland avenue, and Harold Hartman, 23, of 7043 Monticello street. They were charged with disorderly conduct. Both denied throwing the brick.

'Keep Busy,' Life Philosophy at 'Army' Home

The philosophy of life at the Social and Industrial Home for Men, operated by the Salvation Army at 1514 Nixon street, is that work makes life worth living.

Carl Wossley, one of the residents of the home which will share in the proceeds of the county-wide appeal for $108,500, now in progress, says:

"It don't matter much whether a fellow is a millionaire or broke. If he can't keep busy, he can't enjoy life. It's keeping busy that makes life worth while. The hardest thing to do is loaf. We are a big family out here. We all work, every day, doing something or other worth while."

GIRL WAYLAID, RESCUED

Waylaid by two men who leaped out of the darkness near her home Miss Anna Opel, 23, today was thankful to her brother for his vigilance and courage.

Anna and a friend, Joseph Cygrymus, 21, of 174 Pius street, were on their way to her home at 200 South Twenty-first street when two men suddenly sprang out of the dark shadows not far from there.

Routing her escort, the men started to drag the girl away, according to a police report. Anna's screams for help were heard by her brother, Thomas, who ran to her aid and seized one youth, who later identified himself as Joseph Rose, 21, of 2004 South Eighteenth street extension.

Rose was held for investigation in Morals Court by Magistrate J. W. McGowan.

MILLEN 'BUST' AS ROMEO

International News Service.

DEDHAM, Mass., May 16.—Irving Millen was pretty much of a washout as a boy friend, Frieda Siegan, 24-year-old blonde, testified today at the murder trial of Irving, his brother Murton and Abe Faber.

The defendants are pleading collective insanity against the charge they killed two policemen during the holdup of the Needham Trust Company.

Miss Siegan, called as a defense witness, said she had known Irving three years and had seen him "at least once a week. She testified:

"I always thought Irving was childish."

Frieda Gouterman, a slim, young dark-haired miss, testified how the Millen brothers "annoyed" her until finally she permitted them to flirt with her.

COREY'S WILL OMITS EX-WIFE

NEW YORK, May 16.—(AP.)—Containing bequests totaling $193,000, the will of William Ellis Corey, former United States Steel Company head who died May 11, was filed yesterday.

The residuary estate, including the principal of trust funds set aside for annuities for Corey's sister, is left to a son, Alan Lyle Corey.

No mention in the will was made of Mabelle Gilman Corey, the actress whom the steel magnate married in 1906 within a year of his first wife's death, and later divorced.

LYNCH THREATS SPUR ROBLES MANHUNT

June Regains Health As 1,000 Possemen Hunt Kidnapers

By EDWARD LABOWITCH
International News Service.

TUCSON, Ariz., May 16.—While threats of "lynch law" for the kidnapers of June Robles mounted, a vast manhunt for those who tortured their little victim in a desert hole today spread out over mountain and waste land.

Little 6-year-old June, childishly throwing off the evil memory of 19 days in a "torture coffin" buried in the sizzling desert sands, rapidly regained her usual health and high spirits even as the forces of the law, numbering more than 1,000 men, were believed fast picking up a "hot trail."

The finding of what was believed to be the kidnapers' hideout close to where June was buried alive in an iron cage no bigger than a coffin, served to spur on the great manhunt.

A personal business card uncovered in the debris near the buried "torture coffin" was also regarded as an important clue.

Watching reports from the "front" were scores of cowboys, prospectors and ranchers who have publicly announced that the only punishment for the kidnapers of June will be found at the end of a hempen rope swung over the branch of an oak tree.

Police are secretive as to developments in the case, but rumors persisted that one or more suspects are already being questioned.

Primitive and ultra-modern methods were combined in the manhunt. Overhead airplanes droned while on the desert men plodded on foot or saddled up their horses to press the search.

Gun-toting cowboys joined forces with the Sheriff's deputies and Department of Justice agents.

LAWYER'S WIFE SEEKS DIVORCE

Charges of cruelty and indignities against Joseph B. Weddell, Pittsburgh attorney, were heard by Judge Thomas M. Marshall today in Mrs. Annette Weddell's suit for divorce from the attorney.

Mrs. Weddell, of 1308 Murtland avenue, testified that when she married the lawyer in 1906, when she was 15, he endeavored to conceal his marriage and presented her as his housekeeper.

Bride On Honeymoon Dies in Auto Crash

EDINBURG, O., May 16.—(AP.)—A honeymoon which started in Cumberland, W. Va., ended in a death here when Mrs. Cora Ellen Brown of Cuyahoga Falls, the bride, was killed in a collision of two automobiles. Another woman, Mrs. Mildred Kurtz of Akron, also was killed.

Raymond Brown, who was driving the car in which his wife was killed late yesterday, is in a critical condition at a Ravenna hospital.

Court Getaway Of Dillinger's 'Gun Moll' Fails

Universal Service.

CHICAGO, May 16.—Evelyn Frechetti, accused of harboring her sweetheart, John Dillinger, here, was within 15 feet of freedom in a break for liberty as selection of a jury to try her and two others got under way.

At a recess yesterday the half-Indian girl walked from the heavily guarded courtroom of Federal Judge Gunnar Nordbye, escaping the eye of Deputy U. S. Marshal Bernard Anderson, who was assigned to watch her.

Sauntering leisurly down a hall toward a stairway she was on the point of making her escape when Bailiff Edward Picha walked from the adjacent court room of Federal Judge M. M. Joyce and stopped her. Picha returned her to the courtroom where federal agents, U. S. marshals and police had set up a heavy guard.

Evelyn had been able to escape observation by mixing with the crowd leaving the court room.

Officers and others made a hurried investigation of the grounds surrounding the postoffice building where the trial is taking place, on the suspicion that Evelyn might have had friends waiting to aid her.

The girl is being tried with Dr. Clayton May and Mrs. Augusta Salt, a nurse. A jury of 11 men and one woman was seated to try the case.

Dillinger was wounded in a shooting here March 31. He was later treated by Dr. May and the nurse, the government claims.

The Frechetti girl is being defended by Louis Piquett, Chicago attorney, who has heretofore represented Dillinger in several instances.

'DILLINGER' CAR BOUND HERE

A report that a man resembling John Dillinger was headed toward Pittsburgh from Indiana, Pa., in an automobile equipped with a machine gun caused Allegheny County detectives to broadcast an alarm last night.

Two men in a car with a Texas license were seen cruising about the streets of Indiana by William Stancombe, a highway department laborer.

Noting that the men were acting in a suspicious manner, Stancombe observed that the one had red hair combed straight back and answered the general description of Dillinger.

He followed the car out the Benjamin Franklin Highway toward Kittanning, and declared there was a machine gun or rifle set up in the back seat. He was unable to keep up with the car, which was traveling at high speed.

Kentucky Governor Gets New Threats

FRANKFORT, Ky., May 16.—(AP.)—A cordon of heavily-armed steel-helmeted national guardsmen had been thrown about the Governor's mansion today after it was reported Gov. Ruby Laffoon had received another threat against his life.

State officials did not reveal details of the new threat. A small guard has been on duty since two weeks ago when Adjt. Gen. H. H. Denhardt announced the governor had received letters threatening him if he did not pardon Neal Bowman, escaped Ohio convict accused of two Kentucky murders.

2 ROME FLIERS PLAN RETURN HOP TO U. S.

Forced Down on Irish Coast, They Will Resume Flight

LAHINCH, Ireland, May 16.—(AP.)—Plans for a round-trip flight to Rome and then a return trans-Atlantic hop from Ireland to New York were announced today by Capt. George Pond and Lieut. Cesare Sabelli.

They hope by this performance to retrieve any honors that may have escaped them through their forced landing on the attempted nonstop flight to Italy.

Early this afternoon such progress had been made on the repairing of their plane that they believed there was a good possibility of getting away from Rome within 48 hours.

Shortly before the New York fliers landed on a sandbank near here last night, the main connection between the gasoline tank and the motor of their plane broke. The undercarriage was damaged in landing.

Mechanics were rushed from the Baldonnel Army Airdrome at Dublin today to aid in repairing the plane in which the fliers had hoped to make the first non-stop New York to Rome hop.

32-HOUR FLIGHT

The aviators covered the distance from New York in 32 hours and 6 minutes. They brought their craft down at 8:30 p. m., local time (3:30 p. m. E. D. T.). They took off from Floyd Bennett Field, New York, at 7:24 a. m., E. D. T. Monday.

The pair appeared in good spirits and health after a sound sleep in a Lahinch hotel. Lahinch is two miles from the small field, about an acre in size, where the landing was made near the tiny village of Moy.

Lieut. Sabelli told of the horrors of the ocean crossing. He said:

"After about 23 hours of blind flying, trouble developed with the engine. We lowered the plane and at first thought of attempting to alight in the sea. Fortunately, the trouble was cleared up. This was about 400 miles from Ireland."

The lieutenant credited Pond with saving their lives on another occasion. He said:

"The gasoline choked, but Pond left the cockpit, climbed out to the reserve tank and cleared the flow. Otherwise, we would have been forced down in the Atlantic."

Capt. Pond frankly said it was the "worst experience" he ever had. He said:

"We saw absolutely nothing from the time we left Newfoundland until we reached Ireland. We encountered much fog and very strong, veering wind."

POND AT CONTROLS

Pond bore most of the flying burden owing, he said, to the fact his air mate had had no experience in blind operating.

The aviators said they had a brief glimpse of Harbor Grace, N. F., from which they received a signal, and also glimpsed one solitary ship.

Otherwise, they saw nothing except fog and rain the whole trip.

It was the sight of thatched roofs on humble Irish cottages that convinced them of their whereabouts when seeking a landing place. Their reckonings already had indicated they were nearing Ireland.

Irish farmers and fishermen gathered about the craft immediately after it zoomed down out of the fog which hugged the shoreline.

PHILLIPS' KIN ENDS HER LIFE IN BUTLER

A bridesmaid's happy smiles had been supplanted today by mourner's tears as Clarinda Phillips, Butler society girl, wept at the bier of her mother, who last night shot and killed herself.

Long suffering from ill health, Mrs. Undine Phillips, 48, wife of the vice president and general manager of the Phillips Oil and Gas Company, locked herself in a closet in her palatial Butler home and sent a bullet through her temple.

Their daughter, Clarinda, was to serve as maid of honor at the wedding of her friend, Miss Helen Mossman, to Elmer A. Diebold, Jr., in Fox Chapel, today.

The ceremony will be held at 5:30 p. m., at the Mossman home, as scheduled, but a shadow of gloom had been cast over the last-minute preparations.

Rolland Ehrman, son-in-law of Mrs. Phillips and a senior at Pitt Law School, heard the shot. He crashed down the door and found her body.

Mrs. Phillips was a sister-in-law of Thomas Phillips, Jr., defeated Republican gubernatorial candidate in yesterday's primary election.

She leaves besides her husband, Clarinda and Mrs. Ehrman, another daughter, Undine, and three sons, Benjamin D., Jr., Victor, a student at Culver Military Academy, Culver, Ind., and Donald, a student in Asheville, N. C. She had recently returned from a visit with the latter.

ONCE WEALTHY MAN ENDS LIFE

International News Service.

OVERBROOK, Pa., May 16.—Financial troubles were blamed by relatives today for the suicide of Andrew Crawford Bartlett, 33, once a wealthy sportsman.

Bartlett, police said, shot himself through the head in the palatial residence of his mother, Mrs. Anna Crawford Bartlett, last Friday, but a report of the tragedy was withheld by police until last night.

Bartlett was a former resident of Terre Haute, Ind., where his family gained prominence. Although he inherited $275,000 from an uncle recently, Bartlett was reported to have died penniless.

JUSTICE STONE QUITS POLITICS

WASHINGTON, May 16.—(AP.)—Harlan F. Stone, associate justice of the Supreme Court, let it be known today that he is "out of politics" and "not interested" in published reports connecting his name with the 1936 Republican presidential nomination.

The reports were coincident with a visit here by W. Kingsland Macy, New York State Republican chairman, who was said to favor a candidate of Justice Stone's "type."

Justice Stone announced through his secretary that he was out of politics and not interested in the stories.

Macy came to Washington for conferences preliminary to a meeting of Republican leaders in Chicago June 5 to select a successor to Everett Sanders as national chairman. He talked with Senators Borah, of Idaho; Hastings, of Delaware, and Vandenberg, of Michigan.

violence. But you are not advised to bet on it.

CALIFORNIA, a single state much bigger than all of Italy or England, ten times as fertile and forty times as rich in undeveloped wealth, destined one day to have double Italy's forty million population, should be visited by every American.

Even the people of Florida should come here and look at this ocean on one side, those mountains on the other.

The ocean is the biggest thing on earth, and they would like the mountains, with smooth fields sloping back for miles, the fat cattle on them looking as small as mice, golden grain piled in neat mounds dotting the fields along the highway, other fields growing young green vegetables planted with the perfect accuracy of a silversmith's work.

This is truly a great country, and every part of it should be proud of every other part.

THE HAPPIEST man in California stands this afternoon at the corner of Wilshire Boulevard and Westlake Park. He is about twenty-seven, neatly dressed, and holds before you a big white paper sign that reads:

"WORK WANTED, CAN DRIVE."

His idea attracts so much friendly attention, so many faces turning his way, so much public interest, that he is happier, probably, than a majority of the gentlemen working farther west in Hollywood and Culver City.

No doubt he will get a job, and when he does he will be sorry to lose his "public." It is so gratifying to attract attention.

Former U. S. Senator Lea and his son pictured at Raleigh, N. C., as they started to serve 6 to 12 and 2 to 6 years in prison—two years and nine months after they were convicted in a $17,000,000 bank failure. This is a Wide World News Photograph Service picture.

CLERK DEFENDS HARRIMAN

NEW YORK, May 16.—(AP.)—A bookkeeper testifying to alleged false entries amounting to more than a million and a half dollars in the books of the Harriman National Bank and Trust Company today told a federal jury that Joseph W. Harriman, accused president of the bank, had no direct connection with instructions for the entries.

Louis Klein, the witness, said he made the entries mostly on instructions from Albert M. Austin, executive vice president, who is on trial with Harriman before Judge John C. Knox.

Klein said while being cross-examined by George S. Leisure, Harriman's attorney:

"I never had anything to do with Mr. Harriman in all my days in the bank."

The alleged false entries were for sales of bank stock to depositors of the bank, the depositors knowing nothing of the transactions.

Cuba Orders Coins From U. S. Mint

PHILADELPHIA, May 16.—(AP.)—Edouardo I. Montolier, director of the Cuban public works fund, is in Philadelphia to supervise the coining of 10,000,000 silver pesos for his government at the United States mint. The United States government loaned the silver to Cuba.

U. S. Has 53 Per Cent Of World's Phones

BOSTON.—(INS.)—Of 32,941,570 telephones in the world 53 per cent are in the United States, according to figures released by the American Telephone and Telegraph Company.

The figures revealed that New York City has more telephones than France.

4 CARD SHARPS FACE COURT

Four Negro card sharps from Lexington, Ky., passed the time playing solitary in jail here today, facing charges of stealing $10 from a gasoline station proprietor in a card game last night.

The four were captured by County Detectives Thomas Calig and Walter Monoghan after Charles Cramer, of theGrentree Gasoline Station called for aid following a card game with the Lexington visitors.

Cramer appeared against them before Alderman Thomas Geary, who held the foud for court on charges of larceny by trick, after hearing how they had fleeced the filling station owner playing high-low-jack and the game.

BABCOCK GIVES W. VA. BIG PARK

E. V. Babcock, former county commissioner and president of the Babcock Coal & Coke Company, has turned over to the West Virginia Conservation Commission for park purposes a tract of 3,000 acres of mountain land near the New River valley, Fayette County, W. Va.

The contract was signed Monday by Babcock and H. W. Shawhan, of the Conservation Commission, in Babcock's office in the Frick Building.

A site near the tract has been leased by Babcock to the federal government for a camp for the Civilian Conservation Corps which will develop the land as a state park. Reforestation, building of trails and construction of a dam to create a two-acre lake are planned.

Babcock, while county commissioner, was active in providing the North and South Parks for Pittsburgh.

Human Side of the News

Mahatma Gandhi's Influence Is Waning — Nudism Fad Unlikely to Survive Long

By Edwin C. Hill

NOTHING in the news is more astonishing than the mobbing of Mahatma Grandhi by Hindus who had been among his own followers. At Buxar, in India, he narrowly escaped a bad beating and serious injury which might, for one of his frail physique, have resulted in death. The mob was venting its hostility to Gandhi's pet project of freeing the untouchables, the lowest of all castes in that land of castes, India.

Hurt and humiliated, the Mahatma told his intimates that if the Hindus generally were against his reforms he would drop them. And so he seems to be fading out of the picture, this extraordinary little man who, only a year ago, was nothing less than 95 pounds of dynamite ready to blow up the whole British Empire in the Far East.

Two reasons For Failure

WHY has he failed, or seems to have failed, in overcoming the traditions of thousands of years that have bound this people to their caste system as the feet of Chinese women are bound from babyhood? There are two main causes. One is the subtle resistance of the priesthood of the Brahmin faith. The other is the powerful influence against him of the kings and princes of the native states. These gentlemen, ruling in the last stronghold of despotism, have never had much use for Gandhi, not even the Hindu princes.

The Mohammedan rajahs detest him and all his works. And practically all of them are strong for the continuance of British rule in India. Nowhere in the world do monarchs enjoy such power, such luxury and splendor as in these native states of India. The largest and richest of all these states is Hyderabad. Its picturesque ruler, the Nizam, might have stepped out of the Old Testament.

As for the Nizam's riches, it is only necessary to recall that he inherited a vast treasure which had been accumulated by his predecessors for centuries, the loot of war and the spoil of a people, and to this he has been adding all his life.

It is a common sight to see wagonloads of gold and silver in his courtyard, on their way to his treasury. He is probably the only man in the world who is actually a billionaire.

Most Human Bodies Not Beautiful

THERE will be nudists abroad in no less than 18 states this summer, so we find in the news. Certainly, one excellent reason for congratulating the other 30. For the objection to the nudist cult is not on the score of immorality, but squarely on the ground of good taste.

The matter is aesthetic, rather than ethical. The fact of the matter is there is rarely anything beautiful about the human body, the average, run of the mill, human body. There are too many protuberant stomachs, too many bowed or bandied legs, too many knotting and bony knees, far too many other unsightly defects to establish much of a standard for beauty in the modern human race, a race which has almost forgotten what made beauty, use of the outdoors, as the Greeks used the outdoors, and which hires men to play for it instead of doing its playing itself.

But the cult of nudity is undoubtedly spreading, just as any fad seems to be able to spread in this fad-loving country of ours. There are said to be 150,000 nudists in the country, and there is even an official nudist magazine.

It managing editor, the Rev. Ilsley Bone, who does his managing-editing clothed only in the skin that Nature gave him, says there will be a million in another year. Maybe so. But there are certain reasons why one doubts it. The woman doesn't live and breathe who doesn't like to wear pretty clothes, and even if they are not pretty there is some strange and kindly magic of the gods which transmutes her vision and makes them, to her at least, seem pretty. Will the ladies give up their fine fixings? "Jamais," as we say in that dear Paris.

Two other reasons are frost and sun. The human hide is not suited to complete and continual exposure to American winters and American summers. And there is an innate shyness in most people which, in the end, will baffle all this nudist faddism.

INSULL IN COURT AS JUDGE SETS TRIAL DATE

CHICAGO, May 16.—Samuel Insull's trial on two state charges of embezzlement today was set for June 11.

The date was approved by Criminal Judge James A. Fardy during a brief visit of the fallen utilities magnate in court. At the same time Assistant State's Attorneys John O'Hora and Robert Wright were given until June 4 to answer a petition of Insull's counsel challenging the jurisdiction of the court on the ground that Insull was illegally extradited from Turkey.

Martin J. Insull, who entered the same court with his brother on identical charges, obtained a continuance until 11 a. m. tomorrow of a hearing on his plea in abatement.

Samuel Insull, who came to court directly from St. Luke's Hospital, showed slight signs of his illness as he entered the Criminal Courts Building wtih his lawyer, Floyd E. Thompson.

He seemed to be in good humor, conversing with newspapermen for some time before entering the courtroom.

BROTHER SORRY FOR SAM

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., May 16.—(INS.)—Joseph Insull, 76-year-old brother of Samuel Insull, indicted former public utilities "king," is living quietly at Pittsfield, Mass., and following his brother's case through the newspapers.

He said today that he is sorry his brother ever went abroad, adding:

"It would have been better had he stayed in the United States."

He didn't want to discuss his brother's plight, saying:

"I have had no direct communication with my brother since he went abroad, and I don't know anything about what is happening in Chicago.

"I am just a private citizen in no way involved in this matter. All I ask is that I be left alone."

DEB TO MARRY FILM WRITER

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS
Universal Service.

HOLLWOOD, May 16.—A Hollywood marriage that is different and which comes as a complete surprise is that of Elizabeth Young and Joseph Mankiewicz, scheduled to take place next Sunday. I say different because it is one of the sweetest romances that has ever blossomed in the much-marrying Hollywood colony.

Miss Young is the daughter of Judge and Mrs. William Young. She came to Hollywood a New York society debutante and, although she has made very few appearances at Hollywood social events, she met young Mr. Mankiewicz and it seems to have been a case of love at first sight.

Joseph is the younger brother of Herman Menkiewicz, both of them well-known scenario writers. He is the son of Prof. and Mrs. Frank Mankiewicz. His father is professor of education at the College of the City of New York and both the parents of the bride and bridegroom have sent their blessing.

Borie, Noted Artist, Dies in Philadelphia

Congressman Swick Trailing in Butler

BUTLER, Pa., May 16.—Congressman J. Howard Swick, of Beaver Falls, was trailing on the basis of incomplete returns from Butler County in the Republican primary in the Twenty-sixth District today. Returns from 19 of the 85 precincts in Butler County gave Swick 425 votes against 1,429 for J. Campbell Brandon.

PICCARDS TEST STRATOSPHERE BALLOON

DETROIT, May 16.—(AP.)—Provisioned with oranges, bananas, rolls and an angelfood cake, a racing balloon was somewhere over Michigan or Canada today, carrying Prof. and Mrs. Jean Piccard on a training flight for their ascent into the stratosphere this summer.

The balloon, which took off at 5:15 a. m., was piloted by Edward J. Hill, its owner, a veteran of the international balloon races. The trio expected to stay up for about 12 hours and Hill said that, if possible, he would stay over Michigan. The big bag drifted slowly to the northeast at the takeoff.

Today's flight primarily is for the benefit of Mrs. Piccard, who hopes to earn a balloonist's license in time to pilot the stratosphere balloon for her husband. It was her first balloon ascension and Piccard's second.

Prof. Piccard is the twin of Prof. Auguste Piccard, of Brussels, Belgium, the first man to pilot a balloon into the stratosphere.

Second Cloudburst Strikes in Holy Land

JERUSALEM, May 16.—(INS.)—A second cloudburst yesterday deluged the ancient city of Tiberias on the Sea of Galilee, where 20 persons were drowned Monday, and it is feared many more lives were lost.

The inhabitants, panic-stricken, fled to a suburb higher in the hills. Rescue work is proceeding under the most difficult conditions.

Sea of Dead Fish Sighted by Ship

CORNER BROOK, Nfld., May 16.—(AP.)—A new phenomenon of the sea—waters "literally covered with dead codfish" is recorded in the log of the steamship North Voyager.

Capt. Trembley reported he had encountered the fish for a distance of about 20 miles off the western coast of Newfoundland. It was believed an oceanic disturbance was the cause.

Pays $3,000 Bill With Silver Dollars

SALT LAKE CITY, May 16.—(AP.)—Reminiscent of the old days of western mining, an express truck rolled down Main street today with a load of 3,000 silver dollars, payment by a Colorado merchant of his monthly bill to a wholesale hardware company.

Beet Saves Linesman From Death Plunge

PUEBLO, Col.—(INS.)—John Sabin, 51, a lineman, was saved from falling when his safety belt held him to the top of a power pole near Fowler, Col., after 13,000 volts of electricity passed through his body. Other workmen found him hanging, head downward, and brought him to a Pueblo hospital, where physicians said he would recover.

FORD 'OUSTS' FOSTER HOME TENANTS

Three families who live in the birthplace of Stephen C. Foster, at 3414 Penn avenue, today prepared for their first moving in many years.

For 26 years no one has moved in or out of the old, weather-beaten frame house which Henry Ford has just purchased as an addition to his museum of early American homes.

But all three families have been asked to move by Saturday to permit immediate dismantling of the house and its quick removal to Ford's museum in Greenfield Village, near Dearborn, Mich.

GUARD 'SHRINE'

A 24-hour-a-day guard was being kept at the structure today by Ford agents, as the tenants began their packing. Patroling up and down, warding off the curious, the guards were expecting momentarily to see the motor magnate himself come along to view the old landmark.

Ford, it was reported, would be here today, but J. A. Gribbin, agent for St. John's Church which sold the structure, said Ford would be here next week.

Most of the tenants admitted that it would be a welcome move to vacate the house which has become more dilapidated each year.

In the 34 years he has lived there, no improvements were made, according to George Hamilton, who lives in four rooms on the ground floor.

BORN IN HOUSE

The house has no electric lights and the gas lines were installed by the tenants themselves years ago, he said.

All the hot water is heated in the old teakettle on top of the stove, Hamilton's son, William, 21, declared, and William's great hope was that the family would move to a place where they could have electric lights.

William was born in the house and it is the only home he has ever known, but he is glad to be moving, he said.

The real veteran tenant is William Stack, who has lived in two rooms for 36 years.

The "youngest" tenants, Mrs. Bridget Curren and her daughter, Mary, have lived in four rooms upstairs for 26 years.

Gribbin, who has collected the rents for 33 years, said St. John's Church had been "too poor" to make improvements. Tenants were allowed the equivalent of two months' rent by Mr. Ford in lieu of notice to move, Gribbin said.

7 DIE, 4 SAVED IN SHIP CRASH

NEW YORK, May 16.—Pushing through dense fog off the Massachusetts coast, the huge White Star liner Olympic crashed into Nantucket lightship yesterday and sent the famous mariner's beacon to the bottom with a loss of seven lives.

Three of the lightship's crew picked up by the liner, died aboard the Olympic. The captain and three seamen were rescued and taken aboard, to be brought to New York.

Radio messages from the Olympic, sister ship of the ill-fated Titanic, mentioned no damage to the liner and it was assured that none of her 230 passengers was injured.

Radio messages from the Olympic as she steamed toward New York, gave the information that several other ocean liners had narrowly missed running down the lightship previous to the fatal crash. No reason was ascertained.

Noted Ad Expert Here, Talks at Retail Forum

KENNETH COLLINS

Author, Assistant To Bernard Gimbel, Banquet Speaker

Kenneth Collins, assistant to Bernard F. Gimbel, president of Gimbel Brothers, Inc., will talk to the Retail Forum at its third annual banquet tonight in Kaufmann's dining room.

Mr. Collins, for many years, was publicity director and vice president of Macy's and has become known as America's outstanding authority on retail advertising. He is the author of "The Road to Good Advertising."

The Retail Forum is a group of junior executives from Pittsburgh department stores which under the guidance of Dr. David R. Craig, head of the Bureau of Retail Training at the University of Pittsburgh, meets regularly throughout the year to discuss problems of retailing.

Edge Denies Seeking G.O.P. Chairmanship

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., May 16.—(INS.)—"Any one who aspires to the chairmanship of the Republican National Committee ought to have his head examined," Walter E. Edge, former Ambassador to France, declared in announcing that he was not a candidate for the office.

Edge was mentioned among other prominent Republicans as the possible successor to Everett Sanders.

Concrete Mixer Stolen From Job

ST. PAUL, May 16.—(AP.)—Police had a concrete and compressed air problem on their hands.

Rochester Girl Geneva May Queen

BEAVER FALLS, Pa., May 16.—Miss Miriam M. Hood, Rochester, has been elected May Queen of Geneva College. Miss Joan McCormick, Slippery Rock, runner-up, will crown the queen. Miss Hood is the fifth blonde selected as queen at Geneva during the last six years.

MICKEY MOUSE MOVES INTO N. Y. BANK

Universal Service.

NEW YORK, May 16.—Movie mansions close, and banks take them over from New York to Seattle, but for the first time in the history of the magic lantern a movie has moved into a bank.

Mickey Mouse pranced today in the twilight of the Sutton cinema, where once cashiers paid out and received millions in a branch of the Chatham-Phenix Bank.

The bank's pompous facade is still there. Blurry letters engraved in granite tell you it is a bank. But beneath it the electric sign flickers the wonders of Bing Crosby's voice or Greta Garbo's allure.

Between the white pillars is set a bright cashier's hut. In it the inevitable blonde daydreams as she watches the parade go by. Only one money window in a house of money.

David Black, the manager, said the bank's lease was up, and the branch was moved to another location. The owners of the property decided they would transform the high-ceilinged money mart into a cinema chamber.

Penna. Man Leaves Estate in Florida

MIAMI, Fla., May 16.—(AP.)—John H. Waters, of Johnstown, Pa., who died August 14, 1933, left a Dade County estate of $39,450, a Probate Court inventory revealed. The value of the Pennsylvania estate was not given. The estate here includes furniture and mortgages.

Mine Resuming, To Re-employ 700

WAYNESBURG, Pa., May 16.—Operations have been resumed at the Crucible mine of the Crucible Fuel Company after a shutdown since December 21. The 700 men employed at the mine will return to work, it is said.

Roosevelt Mother Unveils Whistler Painting

NEW YORK, May 16.—(AP.)—Whistler's celebrated portrait of his mother was unveiled yesterday by Mrs. Sara Delano Roosevelt, mother of the President. She said:

"I am sure Whistler would be proud of the homage paid him by his fellow countrymen. I know it would give his mother great happiness to see her son appreciated and honored by his native land."

After a tour of the country on which it was seen by more than 2,000,000 Americans, the portrait will be on exhibition for three days at the Museum of Modern Art before its return to France to hang in the Louvre.

Wilde Play Revised For Amateur Cast

A modernized version of Oscar Wilde's play, "Lady Windemere's Fan," which is to be presented in the Washington School, Mt. Lebanon, June 6, will conclude the season's series of productions for the South Hills Community Players. Edward Blaine, author of the revised version, is director of the players.

Roosevelt Signs Wheeling Bridge Bill

WASHINGTON, May 16.—(AP.)—President Roosevelt yesterday signed a bill authorizing the city of Wheeling, W. Va., to construct a bridge across the Ohio River.

PLEA FOR SHAVE SHOCKS JUDGE

FORT WORTH Tex., May 16.—(AP.)—A defense motion that the state be required to give O. D. Stevens, a prisoner, a shave and a haircut drew the fire of Judge J. C. Hosey in District Court. The judge said:

"I've never heard of such a motion in all my years on the bench."

The occasion of the motion, made orally, was Stevens' appearance in court to be tried on charges of slaying Harry Rutherford. The state had refused him permission to use a razor because it thought he might try to take his life.

the cigarette that's MILDER
the cigarette that TASTES BETTER

YOU CAN USE MOST THINGS that grow out of the ground just as soon as they are harvested. But not so with cigarette tobaccos . . . not if you want them to be mild and taste right.

It takes many months of ageing in the wood—2½ to 3 years to be exact—to bring out the flavor and mildness of the tobaccos—just as it takes many months of ageing to bring out the flavor of rare wines.

It means something that Chesterfield tobaccos are aged and mellowed like fine wines—it helps to give Chesterfield its milder and better taste.

INSIDE GLIMPSE UPON JUDGING OF RECIPES

Several misunderstandings have occurred recently as to the selection of prize winners, so that Prudence Penny wants to make it plain to all her readers just how the recipes published daily are selected. Recipes received are not judged in comparison to those received during the week or during the many months the contest has been running, but they are chosen for their qualities in relation to the recipes that come in the same day's mail.

Some days the standard of the recipes received is so much higher than on other days that a dish which generally might rate as high as a $5 prize is not even included in the $1 list. Perhaps you yourself have been awarded a prize for a recipe which is similar, or even the same, as one a friend of yours had submitted without success. Yet the day your recipe was received it was one of the best; on its previous entrance it had not been.

Prudence Penny hopes you realize the complexity of the task forced on her in judging so many really fine recipes. She asks that you continue to send in your favorites to her at the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph. Your perseverance, together with your worthwhile recipes, is sure to ultimately gain you either the $5 or a $1 prize. No recipes, submitted, are returned.

PINEAPPLE RING WITH CHICKEN SALAD

Pineapple Ring

One package lemon gelatine.
Two cups pineapple juice.
One-half teaspoon salt.
Two cups diced pineapple.
One cup diced cucumber.
One-quarter cup pimento.

Dissolve the gelatine with hot pineapple juice (if there isn't enough juice, add water to make two cups). Cool and add the lemon juice and salt. When the mixture begins to thicken, fold in the well-drained pineapple, cut in small pieces. The diced cucumber and the pimento cut in tiny pieces. Wet a good-sized ring mold, or individual ring molds; pour in the gelatine mixture and chill. Unmold onto a large platter, or individual plates, and fill with chicken salad.

Chicken Salad

Four cups cooked chicken, diced.
Two cups diced celery.
Two hard cooked eggs.
Two tablespoons lemon juice.
Mayonnaise.
Capers.
Tiny sweet pickles.

Cut the chicken into cubes and mix with diced celery. Cut the eggs into pieces and add the lemon juice. Season to taste with salt and paprika and moisten with mayonnaise. Fill the center of the pineapple ring, cover the top of the chicken with mayonnaise, and garnish with capers and slices of tiny sweet pickles.

DESSERT GINGERBREAD WITH FAVORITE TOPPINGS

Two cups sifted cake flour.
Two teaspoons baking powder.
One-quarter teaspoon soda.
Two teaspoons ginger.
One teaspoon cinnamon.
One-half teaspoon salt.
One-third cup butter or other shortening.
One-half cup sugar.
One egg, unbeaten.
Two-thirds cup molasses.
Three-quarter cup sour milk or buttermilk.

Sift flour once, measure, add baking powder, soda, spices and salt and sift together three times. Cream butter thoroughly, add sugar gradually, and cream together until light and fluffy. Add egg and beat well, then molasses. Add flour, alternately with milk, a small amount at a time, beating after each addition until smooth. Bake in greased pan, 8x8x2 inches in moderate oven (350 degrees F.) 50 minutes or until done.

Toppings

Softened cream cheese.
Hot apple sauce sprinkled with nutmeg.
Whipped cream flavored with a little molasses.
Apple sauce flavored with lemon rind and tart jelly.

MRS. F. H. LOUGHRAN,

PAPRIKA SNETZEL

Two pounds veal (chops or steak).
Four ounces butter.
Two chopped onions.
One and one-half tablespoons flour.
One and one-half tablespoons paprika.
Salt and pepper to taste.
Two cups (or more) boiling water.
One cup sour cream.

Melt the butter and add chopped onion. When slightly brown add flour and blend well. Add the paprika and then the boiling water. Add the veal and salt and pepper. (The meat should be covered with the liquid.) Simmer over a slow fire until meat is tender (about one hour). When done and just before serving, add the sour cream. With this I serve broad egg noodles, a fruit salad, and hot rolls. Chicken may be prepared from this recipe.

MISS MARGARET I. HORNER,
Mt. Pleasant, Westmoreland County
CHOCOLATE PIN WHEELS

One and one-half cups sifted flour.
One-half teaspoon baking powder.
One-half teaspoon salt.
One-half cup butter or other shortening.
One-half cup sugar.
One egg yolk, well beaten.
Three tablespoons milk.
One square unsweetened chocolate, melted.

Sift flour once, measure, add baking powder and salt, and sift together three times. Cream the butter thoroughly, add sugar gradually, and cream together until light and fluffy. Add egg yolk. Add flour, alternately with the milk, beating after each addition until smooth. Divide dough in two parts. To one part add chocolate. Chill. Roll each half into rectangular sheets one-eighth inch thick and place chocolate sheet on top. Then roll as for jelly roll. Chill overnight. Cut in one-eighth inch slices. Bake in hot oven for five minutes. This makes three and one-half dozen pin wheels.

TROPICAL STRAWBERRY SHORTCAKE
Shortcake

Two cups flour.
Four teaspoons baking powder.
One-half teaspoon salt.
One tablespoon sugar.
One-third cup shortening.
Two-third cup pineapple juice.
One egg.

Sift dry ingredients. Work in shortening. Beat egg in measuring cup, add liquid to fill cup three-quarters full. Add to first mixture. Divide dough. Pat into rounds to fill bottom of pie plate. Brush one round with melted shortening. Place second round on top. Bake in hot oven (425 F.) 20 to 25 minutes. Separate rounds. Put the following filling in.

Filling

Two and three-quarter cups crushed strawberries.
One-half cup sugar.
Three-quarter cup cubed pineapple, fresh or canned.

Wash, hull, and crush strawberries. Add sugar and pineapple. Put between layers and on top of cake. Serve with sweetened whipped cream, using three-quarter cup heavy cream and two tablespoons powdered sugar.

MRS. MARY TESAURO,
421 Washington street, Mt. Pleasant.
GENUINE ITALIAN SPAGHETTI WITH MEAT BALLS
Meat Balls

One-half cup grated bread crumbs.
Two tablespoons Italian Roman cheese, grated.
Two pieces garlic, chopped fine.
Parsley to flavor, chopped fine.
One teaspoon salt.
Black pepper to taste.
Red pepper to taste.
Two eggs.

Place meat, bread crumbs, cheese, garlic, parsley, salt, black pepper and red pepper in bowl. Add eggs, mix well and shape into balls. Fry in deep hot fat until brown.

Sauce

One can Italian tomatoes.
One can Italian tomato paste.
One tablespoon salt.
Red pepper to taste.
Black pepper to taste.
One pint water.
Few sprigs of parsley and celery, chopped fine.
Few mixed spices.

Place fat in deep sauce pan. Add tomatoes and let cook over low flame until well simmered. Add tomato paste, salt, peppers, parsley, celery and spices, and let cook until thick, about one-half hour. Add water and meat balls and cook together until meat balls are done (about one hour). Never let sauce simmer below meat balls. Keep sauce pan covered with lid. Stir often to prevent burning and cook over low flame.

Spaghetti

Have ready a large pot of salted boiling water (about two tablespoons of salt). Add two pounds of Italian spaghetti to it. Cook 15 minutes. Drain the water and place spaghetti on a platter. Sprinkle with grated Italian cheese, and pour sauce over it. Serve hot with meat balls.

MOTORMAN LOSES 38 LBS. EXCESS WEIGHT—EXPECTS TO LOSE MORE

This veteran Street Car Man says: "Last year I lost 38 pounds on 3 jars of SYL-VETTE, yet all I did was to take it in place of one meal each day. Getting rid of this surplus weight surely helped me a lot in my work. I feel better, am more alert, and now get around fine. Originally I weighed a little over 300 pounds. During the winter I did not attempt to reduce, but I am now starting SYL-VETTE again and expect to lose from 40 to 60 pounds more. I highly recommend this tasty food substitute, which not only takes the place of a meal, but is so nourishing, too."

Mr. J. J. Lyden,
514 Howard St., Bridgeport, O.

NO DRUGS — NO THYROIDS — NO SALTS — SYL-VETTE IS A FOOD

SYL-VETTE is a drugless, safe system of weight control, a condensed hunger-satisfying food substitute of which one teaspoonful equals a breakfast or a lunch. SYL-VETTE not only satisfies hunger, but supplies nourishment and strength—also prevents sagging muscles, wrinkles, and that distressed, haggard look so common with other reducing treatments. That's because SYL-VETTE is rich in non-fattening proteins and carbohydrates.

HERE'S PROOF—19 out of every 20 users lose 3 pounds or more the first week—10 to 15 pounds a month — which is pronounced safe by doctors. Economical, too 30 slenderizing meals $1.00.

JIM REED LEADS BATTLE AT CAPITAL

flag and substitute an international rag."

The Missourian denied that the country was "aflame" for the World Court. He said if the proposal should be submitted to the people of Missouri, it would be voted down 10 to 1 and that the opinion in the remainder of the nation is similar.

Consent of the council or the assembly of the League of Nations would be necessary for adjudication of American claims in the World Court, Reed said. He asserted:

"The rape of Manchuria stands unchallenged and unstopped by the League of Nations."

'NOT OUR PEOPLE'

The World Court has no attribute of a court in the proper sense, he declared. Reading the names of the judges, he added:

"They are not our people; they don't have our outlook on life; they have different laws. Every impulse of their lives is different."

At one point Reed described the World Court as "the putrid vermiform appendix of the League of Nations," the judges as "the political representatives of their nations."

The United States built and operates the Panama Canal, he pointed out, but if a controversy over the canal should arise, every maritime nation could claim an interest.

The Austro-German controversy was decided by the court in a political manner, Reed asserted, continuing:

RAPS CARNEGIE

Reed assailed the late Andrew Carnegie because his money finances World Court agitation. He said:

"When I think of Andrew Carnegie, I think of the Homestead slaughter. I think of his blood-stained dollars. I think of how he loved his native Scotland more than the country in which he became rich."

Prolonged applause followed Reed's declaration that:

"George Washington was a better patriot than Andrew Carnegie or Elihu Root."

Reed added:

"I still think Abe Lincoln had some sense.

"I still think Theodore Roosevelt had some sense.

"I still think Grover Cleveland had some sense.

"I still believe this is America, that we can attend to our own affairs—that if we stay on this side and look after our own affairs, we will never get into war."

BLOOD SPILLED IN VAIN

Reed said America had gone into Europe in a "war to end war." He added we had merely made the "world safe for dictators, monsters and for infamy in government." He continued:

"We poured our blood on the fields of France and today France is our enemy and repudiates her debts.

"We stood on the battle line in with the British and they still say we did not do our full duty because we did not come sooner. You "We haven't a real friend in Europe. The European nations are ready to join in any enterprise in which they can gain money or honor at the expense of the United States.

"Let us keep out of this European trap."

The opposition of the American Legion to the World Court was expressed by Legion officials. The Legion's resolution, read into the record, declared:

"Be it resolved by the American Legion in national convention assembled at Chicago, Ill., October 2 to 5, 1933, that it is opposed to the entry of the United States into the League of Nations or to the adherence to the World Court, either with or without reservations."

'DEATHLY SURE OF WAR'

Charles F. Adams, of Boston, protested that American adherence to the court would lead inevitably to war. He said:

"I am deathly sure that official participation in the settlement of troublesome foreign national problems, whether as a member of a league of nations of a world tribunal, will inevitably involve us beyond mediation into enforcement.

"Whether it be a world court or a similar body, it cannot be expected that all contestants will come before it with clean hands. It awakens fear in the hearts of most of us that our flesh and blood may well be expected to defend by force the prestige and the decisions of any tribunal to which we have subscribed and are a part and which would be valueless without such an obligation, direct or implied."

'PAID IN BLOOD, MONEY'

Charles F. Hurley, State Treasurer of Massachusetts, urged defeat of the court. He said:

"We went into one war, a war to end war. We did not end war. We paid dearly in blood and money for our rash adventure. We loaned the European nations money when they needed it for their own preservation. We saved them from defeat and they have defaulted, refusing to repay the money they owe us when the American people have been in economic distress.

"Out of these experiences, we should determine to keep aloof from the League of Nations and the World Court because these organizations have neither prevented the recurrence of war nor manifested any ability or desire to eliminate the causes of war. We should determine to look after our own country."

A large number of messages from prominent citizens, all opposing the Court, were placed in the record.

Henry Cabot Lodge, Jr., son of the late Senator from Massachusetts, called the Court an "entanglement" and declared the government "should lend all its energies toward achieving peace for the United States instead of trying to reform war-torn Europe."

GOV. ELY'S STAND

Gov. Joseph B. Ely, of Massachusetts, urged a solution of pressing domestic problems rather than "endangering our political security" by joining the Court. He wrote:

"I see no point in submitting to any third party questions upon which our own judgment must be eminently fair. The plan offers no direct advantage to the United States."

Joseph E. Warner, attorney general of Massachusetts, declared neither the League nor its court "offered peace" because both were "dominated by violence and hate among European nations. He said public sentiment in this country was opposed overwhelmingly to American adherence to the Court. He added:

"It is an indisputable fact that the sober instinct of the people of America is against entangling political alliances."

Other protests against joining the court were filed by Edward Dana, Boston businessman; William H. O'Brien, former head of the Boston Central Labor Union; Frank I. Dorr, Boston merchant, and Daniel J. Doherty, commander of the Massachusetts Legion.

PEPPER PROTESTS

Former Senator George Wharton Pepper (Rep.), of Pennsylvania, following Reed, objected to American adherence because the present World Court was tied to the League of Nations. Pepper said:

"The Court has a dual character. One character is its judicial function. The other is its advisory function.

"Our conception of a court—the conception of the English race—differs from the continental conception. As a tribunal, the World Court has functioned fruitfully—passing upon 23 cases in the 12 years of its existence. But it has another and equally important function. It has the power to issue advisory opinions—advice on purely political questions."

Pepper warned against joining a "tribunal that has spent most of its time and effort in the last 12 years in giving advice to a political body, the League of Nations." He pointed out that the court was tied to the League of Nations by the fact that it was compelled to render advisory opinions for the council of the league. Pepper declared:

"Until that tie is cut for all time, this court is not going to measure up to the American ideal—or the ideal of the English speaking mind."

ADVISORY CAPACITY

Pepper told of one case in which the court decided not to render an advisory opinion, when so requested by the council of the League of Nations. He said the council condemned the court for its refusal.

Pepper also quoted the Cuban member of the court as saying:

"'Since the court is the organ of the league, the organism had no right to refuse the request for an advisory opinion from the council of the league."

Pepper warned the committee to safeguard America against advisory opinions of the court, if adherence were voted. He said these advisory opinions could "set our country on fire." He pleaded:

"You senators who plan to vote for adherence, for God's sake, re-examine what is involved in this political legal court and whether it imperils the interests of your country."

He cited a possible controversy between Japan and Ecuador over the Galapagos Islands, which would have important bearing on the defense of the Panama Canal.

PEOPLE SAY 'NO'

J. Reuben Clark, former ambassador to Mexico and former solicitor general, said:

"The people of the United States have indicated unmistakably their unwillingness to enter the League of Nations in any way."

Former Judge Daniel F. Cohalan, of New York, said there should never be any doubt as to the conditions under which the United States would be asked to adhere to the Court. He said:

"Political trends and nationalism are bound to influence the World Court. The world is ablaze with national jealousies.

"Why should we again be beguiled into entering another Old World war, a possibility if we enter the World Court?

"Are we to be made again the Don Quixote of the nations?

"Let's mind our own business."

Reed took the floor again to insert in the record an extract from Carnegie's book, "Looking Forward," which expressed the hope that "the sun will rise one day on the British-American union." Reed commented:

"And this is the man whose money the propagandists are spending to have us enter the World Court."

People Against League Father Callahan Says

THE REV. DR. CALLAHAN

Duquesne President Stresses Pitfalls In Alliances

WASHINGTON, May 16.—The statement of the Rev. Father J. J. Callahan, president of Duquesne University, submitted for the record in the World Court hearing today follows:

There is no doubt that the sentiment of the vast majority of the common people of the United States is against our joining the League of Nations. A minority, who are considered among the intelligentsia, favor it. But here vox populi vox dei. The latter are led by a kind of idealism to ends that are in themselves worthy. We do not differ from them on either the ideals or the aims, but on a modus agendi. The question is not one of abstract idealism, but of concrete statesmanship. What is the best thing to do here and now?

A league of nations is neither a super-government nor a voluntary association. There are those who already advocate a super-government, but neither the people of this country, nor for that matter of any other, are ready for it. Yet it is to this that a working league logically tends. The same propaganda that is now urging us into the league will be eventually applying pressure to obtain this further end, if only to save the league. If we do not want the end, neither do we want the means.

A voluntary association is possible where all participants are willing to sink their common differences in order to cooperate towards a common end. But an industrialist, a farmer and a city laborer will hardly join in a common business league. Their purpose and methods are too different. So the aims and intents of the various peoples are too diverse for co-operation.

There may be more reason for a league among European nations, but experience has already shown us that even there, where the common interest is closer than is ours and theirs, they do not work in harmony. In fact from this point of view there is less reason today for joining the League of Nations than in 1920.

We can even exert our proper influence to better purpose without any such entanglement. We shall be in a much stronger position if our hands are not tied, particularly to a group that will readily pull against us but rarely with us.

Joining the league will be the surest way to lose the little friendship that still remains for us among the other nations.

DEAN MOOR AIRS OPPOSITION TO LEAGUE

WASHINGTON, Ma 16.—Opposing entry of the United States into the League of Nations and World Court, Dean N. R. H. Moor, of Trinity Cathedral, Pittsburgh, today submitted the following statement at the Senate Foreign Relations Committee hearing:

It is my personal conviction that the entrance of the United States into the World Court of the League of Nations at the present time and in its present form would tend to jeopardize the very cause of the real and lasting peace for which we are all desirous of promoting.

Dean Moor opposed also the League of Nations, declaring:

The present is not an appropriate time for the United States to enter the League because we should either act alone, in which case we would accomplish nothing, or join a group, in which case we would bind ourselves, thereby losing our independence of action—for it is evident that the present membership of the League is not unified in regard to given international problems such as the Sino-Japanese question. The United States can exert greater influence, morally and otherwise, by maintaining an independent position.

LEAGUE DISCREDITED

The League at present is too discredited for the United States to be able to do much as a member. (Russia never was a member and four states have withdrawn: Costa Rica, Brazil, Germany, Japan). If the United States entered, therefore, now and accomplished nothing, both the League and our own action would be more greatly condemned, thereby setting back more than ever the developing of international co-operation.

Political conditions among the European powers are too confused for the United States to take action now on the League. We would be stepping into a maze of uncertainties whereby we should be either discredited or else made use of for selfish purposes by the European powers.

When the European states tend to swing back toward internationalistic attitudes as may be the case within the present generation, the United States might consider taking a place in the league.

INFLUENCE OF U. S.

Our influence, unencumbered as we now are by any foreign alliances, is stronger in any given situation which may arise than it would be if we were allied with any particular group of nations.

The chief argument against our entrance is, that such action would constitute a connection with the league because: (A) The league chooses the judges. (B) The court gives advisory opinions on matters put before it by the league. Our joining might bind us morally in the eyes of world opinion to cooperate with the league. In that case now is not the proper time to accept membership in the World Court.

To sum up—the United States can exert a greater influence throughout the world today by remaining free from any action which tends to entangle us with European powers, their differences, conflicting interests.

League in 79th Session Tense on Future Power

GENEVA, May 16.—(AP.)—The League of Nations Council opened its 79th session yesterday in a tense atmosphere, with many delegates feeling that they are engaging in a critical discussion which may determine whether the nations will continue to accept the League as an agency for the settlement of international problems.

It was regarded as noteworthy that only one Foreign Minister—Louis Barthou of France—was present, other countries being represented by lesser officials.

Barthou tonight expressed some optimism over the future of disarmament after he had talked with Capt. Anthony Eden, British negotiator. American quarters indicated that they regard the prospect for a disarmament agreement as very slim.

The pessimistic attitude was a result of conversations in which American observers discussed the matter with European delegates.

DAVIS CONFERS ON ARMS MEET

WASHINGTON, May 16.—(AP.)—Norman H. Davis, the chief American delegate to the Disarmament Conference, is expected to attend the next session of the conference at Geneva on May 29.

Announcement that Davis would return to Switzerland for the meeting came today after he conferred with President Roosevelt.

The American disarmament envoy will carry no new plan to Geneva, but is expected, sometime during the session, to make a restatement of American policy toward disarmament and express this nation's hope for success.

The American Government's attitude was described as opposed to any move that would entangle the United States in purely European political affairs but is ready to give full support to any real disarmament proposals.

U. S. TO BUILD 20 WARSHIPS

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, May 16.—Immediate construction of 20 new warships was announced by Secretary of the Navy Swanson today.

The building will include 12 destroyers, two destroyer leaders, and six submarines, and will cost $40,000,000.

In announcing plans for the immediate construction of these vessels, Swanson said:

'Fine Scrap,' Shannon Says, In Defeat

HARRISBURG, May 16.—(AP.)—Lieut. Gov. Edward C. Shannon today conceded the nomination of Attorney General William A. Schnader and pledged his support to the successful candidate for the Republican nomination for Governor. He said:

"It was a fine scrap. I have no regrets. Attorney General Schnader, the successful candidate, will have my full support in the fall campaign."

Plane Shot Down, 2 Jap Fliers Killed

TOKIO, May 16.—(AP.)—Two Japanese officers were reported killed today when their airplane was shot down in Manchukuo.

Dispatches from Harbin to the newspaper Asahi said the officers were scouting over a concentration of Chinese irregulars west of Hailar when their plane was fired upon.

Mother With New Baby Casts Vote

HARRISBURG, May 16.—(AP.)—With her 12-day-old daughter a spectator, Mrs. Dorothy Fritchey cast her ballot from an ambulance stretcher.

Escorted by the husband and father, Dr. John A. Fritchey, 2nd, mother and baby were on their way home from the hospital where Margaret Ann was born.

Gamblers Make Big Haul On Reed Victory

A flood of New York money was rushed to Pittsburgh a few days before the primary and local gamblers were hired to placed the bets. The gamblers asked no more than the short end of 6-to-5 on Reed, although Pinchot was a substantial favorite.

When the polls closed last night there was still quite a chunk of New York money uncovered.

Early Fruit Crop Damaged by Frost

PROVO, Utah.—(INS.)—Early fruit crops in this vicinity were damaged from 50 to 90 per cent by late frost, according to a recent survey. The greatest loss was suffered in the vicinity of Springville, Utah, where between 75 and 90 per cent of the early cherries, apricots and peaches were killed.

Judge Smith Flays War In League Court Protest

Lives of Millions At Stake, Jurist Here Declares

WASHINGTON, May 16.—Judge Ralph H. Smith, of the Court of Common Pleas of Allegheny County, submitted the following statement for the record of the World Court hearing today:

A strong defense is the first safeguard of any nation. Beyond that there is no excuse for participation in an armament race.

War is temporary insanity on a mass scale. War never decides anything. The issues for which men lose their lives are, after the conflict, submitted to the deliberations of a "peace" conference. It is an altogether crazy procedure to kill millions of men and then sit down to decide by arbitration and conference issues that should be settled that way in the first instance.

The League of Nations, idealistic though it may have been at the beginning, was a by-product of the Treaty of Versailles, a document conceived in hate and written in the blood of those who had needlessly died. The League has been futile in its operation and negligible in its influence to prevent wars.

Wars are made by politicians, not by peoples. The politicians are in control of the league. Under them it has become a veritable world stock exchange where the future of nations and the lives of millions are the stocks they buy and sell on the narrow margin of suspicion, distrust and fostered grievances.

These politicians are, and have been, the mouthpieces of the great European munition trusts—those merchants of death who make a mockery of governments and civilization.

The United States can best serve world peace by refusing membership in the 'society of our defaulting debtors' most of whom are now engaged in arming for the next war and maneuvering for position. Co-operation without alliances—arbitration and conference without political entanglements—these principles should guide our policies.

As one familiar with the judicial processes I favor the principle of a court to arbitrate such differences as contesting parties shall submit to it but I cannot support the World Court as an adjunct of the league against whose advisory opinions we have no protection and whose jurisdiction over domestic matters we must certainly deny.

JAPS FILE PLEA IN TRADE WAR

TOKIO, May 16. — (AP.)—Japan's first official move in the trade war with Great Britain was an effort, initiated today, to induce Britain to modify the restrictions recently placed on imports from Japan.

Koki Hirota, foreign minister, instructed Ambassador Matsudaira at London to protest to the British government that the Japanese government believes the trade quotas violate Japan's rights under the most favored nation treaty with Great Britain, it was stated by a Foreign Office Spokesman.

Matsudaira was instructed to express Japan's willingness to negotiate with a view of obtaining a friendly modification of quotas announced by Walter Runciman, president of the British Board of Trade.

Chinese Report Arrest of Jap Spy

PEIPING, May 16.—(Universal.)—Increased Sino-Japanese tension came into the open today when a spokesman for the Nanking government declared in a radio speech that a Japanese officer accompanied by a number of Formosans had been apprehended photographing the military defenses of Amoy.

He charged that two Japanese airplanes had dropped bombs near Malanyu inside the Great Wall of China. He repeated charges that the Japanese plan conquests of North China.

Colombia-Peru Pact Calms Fear of War

LIMA, Peru, May 16.—(AP.)—Fears of another war in South America dwindled today with announcement that Colombia and Peru have reached an agreement over the disputed Leticia border area.

Although refusing to disclose details, Foreign Minister Polo said after a meeting of the foreign affairs advisory committee last night that only the signatures were lacking to make the agreement effective.

Polish Minister Shuns League Meet

WARSAW, May 16.—(AP.)—Joseph Beck, foreign minister, said today he had decided that he himself would not participate in the forthcoming session of the League of Nations Council at Geneva.

Instead of Beck, Poland will be represented at the meeting by its permanent delegate, M. Raczinski. Beck will attend the disarmament conference at the end of the month.

JUDGE RALPH H. SMITH

U. S. ACCUSED IN CHACO WAR

LONDON, May 16. — (AP.) — Stanley Baldwin, president of the Council, today inferentially accused the United States of causing the breakdown a year ago of efforts to impose an embargo on arms shipments to Bolivia and Paraguay, at war in the Chaco Boreal.

During a discussion of arms shipments in the House of Commons, Baldwin said that the United States, at the time of the negotiations for an international agreement, announced it was impossible to impose an embargo until Congress should pass legislation and that no such legislation had been passed.

Sir Percy Harris asked:

"Is the failure (of the negotiations) due to the refusal of the United States?"

Baldwin replied:

"The House can draw its own conclusions."

Baldwin declared that there was no use of Great Britain imposing an embargo on arms unless other leading arms manufacturing nations did likewise.

Daughters Protest Adherence to Court

BALTIMORE, May 16.—(AP.)—A resolution expressing opposition to the entrance of the United States into the Permanent Court of Internaional Justice was adopted today by the National Society, Daughters of the Revolution.

LEAGUE GROUP MAY CONCEDE ARMS FAILURE

International News Service.

GENEVA, May 16.—After two and a half years of futile efforts to prevent an armament race, the General Disarmament Commission of the League of Nations will concede its own failure when it meets here May 29, International News Service learned authoritatively today.

The big powers in league circles, it was learned, have decided to toss the disarmament question back into the lap of the League Council. The council will be asked to appoint a new commission with a new president, which will seek to halt the arms race believed, in well-informed international circles, to be impending.

This new commission, if appointed, would concentrate solely on efforts to bring about an agreement between the major powers.

The United States, Russia and Japan, it was learned, will be asked to sit in with the commission.

It was strongly indicated in league circles that, when the conference meets at the end of the month, an attempt will be made to place responsibility for the failure of the league's disarmament program upon Germany. Germany's insistence upon increased armaments met with such strong opposition on the part of France, it was stated, that an agreement was impossible.

Germany Considering Return to Arms Meet

GENEVA, May 16.—(AP.)—Germany was reported today to be seeking ways and means of returning to the international disarmament conference from which she withdrew last year.

It was understood that Baron Pompeo Aloisi, Italy's delegate to the League of Nations and former Ambassador to Turkey, had told Capt. Anthony Eden, British lord privy seal, and other leaders in the League of Nations that Germany is showing a disposition to participate again in negotiations toward an agreement on the vital arms situation.

NEW HOPES AROUSED

This indication immediately aroused the hopes in circles which previously had feared that the idea of disarmament was dead.

The attitude of the United States gave rise to additional hope since Norman H. Davis has been assigned by the Washington government to attend the conference scheduled for the latter part of the month.

Louis Barthou, French foreign minister, indicated that he was optimistic that something would be done towards disarmament, pointing out the gravity of the situation which would ensue if no action is taken.

FRANCE DETERMINED

However, the French seemed determined to do nothing concrete until the council gives a new mandate with which to work out a conference on the limitation of armaments to replace the existing mandate for reductions upon which the present conference is based.

There were no indications as to whether the present turn of affairs in regard to Germany made it likely that a return to participation in affairs of the League of Nations, from which Germany withdrew at the same time she withdrew from the conference, was in prospect.

Far East War Sure, Bishop Declares

LONDON, Ont., May 16.—(AP.)—War in the Far East is predicted as a certainty by the Rt. Rev. W. C. White, Bishop of Honan, China.

He believes Japan, China, Russia—and possibly Great Britain and the United States—will be involved.

3 MILLION JOBS PROVIDED BY ROAD PLAN

Three million men would be put to work and three hundred and fifty million dollars would be poured into the economic arteries of the nation, backers of the Chamber of Commerce's proposal to build a coast-to-coast "super" highway disclosed today.

The "super transcontinental highway," plans for which are now before Public Works Administrator Harold L. Ickes, would be an unbroken strip of pavement, 90 feet wide, joining the Atlantic with the Pacific and cutting through 12 states.

It would provide four separate lanes of traffic, two running in each direction. Fifty feet in the center would provide high speed lanes. The center would be flanked on either side by 20-foot "slow traffic" highways.

COST 'FIXED'

Three thousand miles without a single stop for crossing traffic or trains could be traversed on this highway of the future, in the opinion of the chamber's committee and its consulting engineer, Norman F. Brown.

The roadway would be elevated over intersecting roads and railroads, connecting links with important state and national routes being made at intervals by ramps.

Cost of the project has been estimated at between $300,000,000 and $400,000,000 by the committee on highways and bridges, headed by Henry Tranter, chairman, and Edward Snodgrass, Jr., vice chairman.

Brown estimated the actual road construction cost would be approimately $100,000 a mile, adding that several more millions would be needed to build bridges and cover property damage.

TOLLS PROPOSED

A practical estimate, he said, could be $350,000,000.

Tolls and utility charges would liquidate the project's cost in 50 years, under the chamber's plan by which the federal government would issue 50-year bonds for $250,000,000. The 12 states through which the highway passed would provide the balance of the money by similar 50-year bond issues to pay 3 per cent interest.

Estimating 50 vehicles to the mile every day along this 3,000-mile stretch of highway, sponsors of the plan explain that an average toll of $1 for each car using the highway would represent at the end of a year $54,750,000.

This, they point out, would allow a $17,250,000 margin above the amount needed for self-liquidation of the highway.

Three per cent interest on $350,000,000 would be $10,500,000. Maintenance cost has been placed at $20,000,000 annually, and $7,000,000 set aside for the sinking fund.

This estimated income is figured only on tolls and does not include charges that could be made for right-of-ways for utilities such as gasoline pipe lines, electric light and telephone wire conduits.

The magnitude of the undertaking fades somewhat, according to Snodgrass, who refers to $450,000,000 the federal government spent on highways in 1932.

HELD WAR AID

Besides being a vast unemployment relief measure the proposed highway plan provides an important factor in the nation's defense, the highway committee has informed Secretary Ickes.

On a great single steel rail running down the center of the highway, the largest pieces of war ordnance could be rapidly taken from one coast to the other in time of war. The weight of the ordnance and its carriage would rest on the rail, while the contraption was balanced on rubber wheels running on the pavement.

Traffic congestion in large cities would also be relieved by the super highway because it would detour the large centers of population according to its backers.

One plan considered by the committee would cut the great undertaking into 300 ten-mile road contracts costing approimately $1,000,000 each. These contracts would be apportioned among the 12 affected states, the money raised by federal and state bond issues and the men put to work immediately.

Committee engineers and experts have estimated that 200,000 men would be directly employed on the actual construction for one year, but that 85 per cent of the entire cost would go to labor building the materials and supplies.

The 12 states through which the route would pass are listed by the committee as New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Missouri, Kansas or Nebraska, Colorado or Wyoming, Utah, Nevada and California.

Brother Act on Radio

The Andrini Brothers, local boys formerly WCAE artists, are now featured in "Midway Nights," stage show opening Friday in Pitt. Screen will have Colleen Moore in "Social Register."

PLAYS AND PLAYERS

By WILLIAM J. LEWIS

With Rosa Ponselle, opera star from the Metropolitan, as the guest soloist, the Pittsburgh Symphony Orchestra will give a concert in Syria Mosque tonight. This will not be Miss Ponselle's first visit to Pittsburgh, but the nature of it should make it her most auspicious one. This now noted prima donna made her first Pittsburgh appearance in the Harris, where she was "spotted" by Gene Connelly, singing with her sister, the act being billed as Carmela and Rosa Ponzilli, and thereafter they were booked for "big time" on their Pittsburgh appearances, and sang frequently in the two-a-day bills in the Davis. At the time Carmela was the leader of the act, and Rosa just the kid sister. But the income from the act was used to help in the musical education of Rosa, and with such good effect that when she came to make her Metropolitan debut she had the distinction of being the first American born singer to appear in such an event with Caruso.

The stage show coming to the Pitt Friday, "Midway Nights," was recruited at the close of the Chicago World's Fair last fall from various midway shows at the big exposition, including Rosalia, dancer, from the Old Mexico concession. The Andrini Brothers, formerly WCAE artists, also are with "Midway Nights." The screen feature will be Coleen Moore in "Social Register."

The formal opening of the Hilltop Community Playhouse in the Hilltop Y. M. C. A. will take place at 8 o'clock tomorrow evening. There will be a program of entertainment and an address by James W. Macfarlane, author, actor and director who is prominent in Pittsburgh's Little Theater activities. The public is invited.

"The Mighty Barnum" has been chosen as a title of a picture announced to be made in the fall with Wallace Beery in the role of the great showman of the last century, whose name still lives in a common expression, "Barnum was right," reference being to the credit P. T. has been given for stating, "a sucker is born every minute, and none ever dies." To many, aged 50 to 60, it will seem impossible that Beery could ever be made to look like Barnum, either facially or physically. There must be many thousands of persons, 55 to 60 who saw Barnum more than once, for he was no shrinking violet, and he always rode in a buggy at the head of the big parade. Besides his picture was continued in the advertising of the Barnum & Bailey circus for several years after his death, both as a separate poster and as a vignette prominent in the familiar slogan, "The Greatest Show On Earth." How they can expect to make Wallace Beery bear any resemblance to the subtle Barnum is something of a mystery. Well, maybe he wasn't exactly subtle, but he sure was a schemer, and his face suggested subtlety. Charles Winninger would be our choice for a Barnum role.

A theatrical department in the London Observer of recent date devotes considerable space to Arch Selwyn, the New York producer, who, at the time, was just about on the verge of departing from the British capital after completing arrangements whereby himself, Harold B. Franklin and Mr. Cochran, London theater magnate, are to do some London plays in New York. Part of the article was an imprint of Mr. Selwyn's rave about Elizabeth Bergner. It seems that she is the greatest actress that he has ever seen

Temperament No Longer Part of An Artist's Bag o' Tricks

By JIMMY STARR

HOLLYWOOD, May 16.—Hello! Temperament, as a highly eruptive art, has passed out of the Hollywood picture and along with it has gone that troublesome galaxy of players who exploded so picturesquely in the era of silent films.

No one mourns the passing of temperament as an institution. Producers, who are estimated to have paid out close to a milion dollars a year in excess production costs because of player irrationalities, are glad it's gone; but more important, is the fact that stars themselves realize how destructive to them an unrully temper is.

The modern actor and actress, schooled in the traditions of the stage goes about the business of making money and fame quietly and without selfish and snobish outbursts.

These quieter players may have eccentricities, as in the case of Katherine Hepburn, Marlene Dietrich and Greta Garbo, but they are well behaved, normal persons pursuing careers.

The history of Hollywood's temperment started with Pola Negri, when, as a more or less obscure player, she came to startle the movie village. She deliberately set the style in temperment because is seems to her the only possible way of attracting attention. She would fly into violent tantrums, walk off the set and even throw things in her campaign for popularity.

John Barrymore and Lowell Sherman both have rated the front pages with studio "scenes" not in any script, but those hectic days are gone—gone forever, Hollywood hopes!

Another thing that may put the damper on the fiery flareups is the great army of capable lads and lassies ready to jump into those important stellar shoes!

W. C. Fields remembers one about the opening of a pretty sad play, some years back.

The Author—"But I can't make a speech!"

Snoopings . . . M-G-M is whipping up a script called "Any Port in a Storm" for Wally Beery and Jackie Cooper . . . Universal and Columbia are making faces at each other—all because they both want to borrow Claudette Colbert from Paramount, and the latter movie plant has not said "yes" to anybody . . . That HIGHBROW literary feller, Lian. O'Flarety, will spill a flock of long words for a script at the RKO cinema factory . . . Jimmy Durante has decided to improve his radio program with new writers of gags. Now, if he could ONLY get some new gags.

Wanderings around town—Universal is TRYING (and very hard, too) to get John Boles and Irene Dunne to team it up again for "Show Boat," but there are a flock of angles to be ironed out . . . Paul Lukas is planning an airplane trip to Mexico any minute now . . . If Wini Shaw, who is clicking in a large way in Moe Morton's "Shim Sham Revue," makes good in Warner short comedy, she'll get the Helen Mogan role in "Sweet Adeline" . . . Bette Davis has THOUGHT up a new hairdress and moved into Garbo's ex-home.

Dolores Del Rio has turned out to be a camera fiend. She's snapping at EVERYBODY . . . Ernest Hawes telegraphs from Chicago, that he's opened another "Drunkard" company, Violet Dunn, McFadden's ex, has a role while Esther Gaylord takes the lead . . . Eddie Kaye, the chappie with the Mickey Mouse voice, is now operating the Colony Club liquor store. . . . Patricia Ellis got the ingenue lead in "Big Hearted Herbert" at Warners' . . . Cecilia Parker went a-tingle-tangle theatering with Bobby Hanson, son of Seattle's ex-Mayor . . . That new looney tune cartoon, "Buddy's Trolley Troubles," is a wow! . . . Baron Huene, Parisian bulb-presser, claims Dolores Del Rio has the "best-lighted face" of all the film stars. By that he means she's swell to photograph at any angle!

Admission by Cat Plan Is Off

Because of the scores of requests of pet owners throughout the city, directly to Warner Brothers and to the Animal Rescue League, the Black Cat show, scheduled for the Warner Theater tomorrow, has been definitely called off. Anyone bringing a black cat to the Warner Theater today was to have been admitted to the theater free. The idea was first suggested by Poe's "The Black Cat," which is one of the two feature pictures opening the new double feature policy in the Fifth avenue theater Thursday.

Patriots to Honor Revolution Heroes

GREENSBURG, Pa., May 16.—Members of the Nathaniel Greene Chapter, Sons of the American Revolution, will honor Revolutionary war dead with a memorial service in the Congruity Presbyterian Church on May 30.

The church, where the services will be held, is one of the oldest in Western Pennsylvania and was founded under a tent.

Twin Baby Steppers

The Lewis twins, aged four, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. George W. Lewis, Wilkinsburg Manor, will be among the participants in the Fairgrieve Frolic in Nixon Friday night.

BUTLER ITE GETS SCHOOL POST

BUTLER, Pa., May 16.—Following the resignation of Dr. J. Linwood Eisenberg as president of Slippery Rock State Teachers' College, it was announced today that David V. Ketterer, Butler Democrat, had been named business manager, replacing Bursar Arthur C. Fisher. The post of Dr. Millicent McNeil, in the English department, was also vacated.

The resignation of Dr. Eisenberg followed opposition to his policies during the last two years. The opposition was led by Mrs. Emma Guffey Miller, Democratic national committeewoman. No successor has been named for Dr. Eisenberg. Dr. Eisenberg has accepted a faculty post at the Shippensburg State Teachers College.

A Smart Hero

In a tiny village in the South, lives a very ordinary man and his wife. Locally, the man is looked upon as a hero. He, you see, prevented a jail break . . .

IT WAS years ago and the two men sat in their cell and talked. It was night and still, except now and then a voice was heard, or the scrape of leather on cement, or a far off whistle.

"You'll do it?"

That was Charlie. He had 13 years to go on a murder-for-money rap. Thirteen years at hard labor in this southern prison camp. Thirteen years of working on a hot, dusty, country road and made bitter with the realization that $50,000 was waiting for him any time he needed it.

"Yeah."

That was Jeremiah. He was old and bald and lean. Twenty-two years he had spent in this camp. Twenty-two years of waiting for the time when he would be reunited with a bride who was now old—and who still waited. He would be eligible for parole in a year.

"I'll arrange for a car."

"Yeah."

"We split on the dough—that gives you twenty-five grand."

"Yeah."

"I'll give you the signal so you'll know. I'll drop the pick and spit on my hands. You turn the other way and I'll run for it. I don't think the gang will yell, but if they do, fire a coupla shots in the air. For God's sake, don't get reckless with that rifle!"

"I won't."

"I'll get in the bus that's waiting, and get the dobby. You know where I got it. Well, I'll grab it and hustle over to your wife. She'll get half, I'll keep half, and that's that. Okay?"

"Yeah. It sounds all right to me. But don't forget to visit the wife. I want that twenty-five bad."

Another night:

"Remember, don't crack after I make the break. I mean, even though you are a trusty, they're liable to get suspicious anyway. Don't crack. You just don't know how I happened to make it, that's all."

"Don't worry about me. You go to that spot you was telling me about, and get that money to my missus as fast as you can. I don't care about anything else."

"Okay. But don't talk so loud. You want everybody to be wise?"

"No." . . .

"Mickey is going to have the bus near the gang tomorrow at eleven. Don't forget. Eleven."

At three minutes of eleven on the following morning, old Jeremiah stuck the dipper into the cool pail of water and spilled some over his shirt front in his nervousness. His rifle was standing against his hip.

Jeremiah saw that the next rifle-bearing trustty was quite a ways down the road. Too far down. He looked at Charlie. Charlie was standing white-faced. He was lifting his pick high and bringing it down into the white dust heavily. Jeremiah kept watching.

It was one minute of eleven and old Jeremiah dropped the dipper in the bucket again. He was thinking of the many nights Charlie had spoken to him of "divvying" the $50,000. He didn't want to be dishonest, but he knew that $25,000 would come in mighty handy. He also knew that he had little chance of getting a job when he was freed next year. He knew where Charlie had to go to get the money.

Then he heard a horn. It sounded faint and far away, but it was a horn. Inside, he jumped. He looked at Charlie. Charlie was grinning faintly. The ends of his mouth were curled in humor. Jeremiah couldn't help but admire his nerve. He saw the pick drop in the dust. He saw the man spit on his hands.

Old Jeremiah turned away . . .

His heart beat hard and fast within him. He knew that this was the moment. That Charlie was starting at this very moment for freedom. He knew that this habitual criminal was going to get what he himself waited 22 years for. He knew that he would be punished for allowing the escape. He knew that time might be added to his sentence.

He turned. No alarm yet. The guards were still talking, under a tree. They were laughing at something and were half-turned the other way. He saw the prisoners raising their picks absentmindedly, some of them watching the guards; some of them watching Jeremiah; some of them watching the figure running like blazes through the fields.

Jeremiah gave the matter no further thought. He raised the rifle, sighted carefully along the barrel, and contracted his index finger. He fired just once.

He watched Charlie run on for a few steps. Then he saw his legs buckle, saw him falter and go sprawling in the weeds. That was all.

They freed Jeremiah within a month. Freed him and feted him. The head of the board of parole made a speech, and Jeremiah blushed modestly. When he got home, he had more money than he had ever seen before. To be exast, he had $50,000 . . . . .

In a tiny village in the South lives a very ordinary man and his wife. Locally, the man is looked upon as a hero. He, you see, prevented a jail break . . .

PITTSBURGHER TO HEAD LODGE

Attorney Frank R. S. Kaplan will be installed as president of the B'nai B'rith of Pennsylvania, New Jersey, Delaware and West Virginia at a convention of the grand lodge in McKeesport May 25 to 28. He succeeds Judge Leopold C. Glass, of Philadelphia.

Delegates from each state to the world convention in 1935 will be named at the meeting, which will be attended by leading members of the organization throughout the East.

Mr. Kaplan, a member of the Allegheny County Bar since 1910, is a graduate of Washington and Jefferson College and the law school of the University of Pittsburgh. He is a former member of the McKeesport Board of Education and a past president of Temple B'nai Israel, of McKeesport.

Children to Get Free Inoculation

Allegheny County will have a child health day May 21, when children under six will be given medical examinations and inoculated against disease at the Zoar Home, Allison Park. The service, offered without charge, is sponsored by the American Legion Auxiliary, of Pine Creek Valley Post No. 554.

Recreation Field Extension Urged

Extension of community playgrounds as a means of reducing the heavy mortality and accident rate among children was advocated today by George H. Clapp, sponsor of the National Recreation Association, in appeals sent to Pittsburgh citizens. The association pointed out that in one year 50,000 children were killed while playing in the streets.

Pearson Drawing Exhibit Extended

The exhibition of drawings by Edna Early Pearson has been extended by Wunderly Brothers' gallaries until May 21. After the close of the Pittsburgh show, the group will be exhibited in New York and Boston.

Wilkinsburg Pastor Accepts Ohio Call

The Rev. D. Park Chapman, pastor of the Wilkinsburg Christion Church, Wallace avenue, has accepted a call to the pastorate of the First Church of Christ, East Liverpool, O., according to an Associated Press dispatch from the Ohio city. Mr. Chapman, who is to take up his new duties August 1, is to succeed the Rev. W. H. Baker, who goes to Akron.

Excellent Programs On Air

There'll be a scant studio audience during this afternoon's "Bee Havior" broadcast, on WJAS, when the audience hears a very live hive of bees buzzing, "It Don't Mean a Thing If It Ain't Got That Sting."

James Hambleton, of the U. S. Department of Agriculture, brings the bees to the air, probably unannounced. The radio announcers show a singular tendency to be otherwise occupied at the hour of 4:30, fearing a temperamental insect may decide to sit down during the bee-cast.

GRACIE ALLEN TO ADOPT BABY

Universal Service.

NEW YORK, May 16.—Gracie Allen and George Burns, radio and screen nonsense artists, straightened their faces today just long enough to admit they're going to adopt a baby. George said:

"The reason we're adopting a baby is so I'll have someone around to talk to, and Gracie'll have someone to play with. If we get a thin baby, we'll feed it and get it fat. If we get a fat one, we'll put it on an 18-day diet."

To which Gracie added:

"The baby we choose must have my sister's nose, my brother's eyes, my nephew's mouth, and Rockefeller's pocketbook. When it gets old it can have George's neckties."

Illness Will Keep Rolph Out of Race

SAN FRANCISCO, May 16.—(AP.)—Gov. James Rolph, Jr., has announced he will not be a candidate for re-election because of ill health.

The Governor yesterday left the hospital at which he has been a patient for 12 days.

Prize Fight Conclusion 'In the Bag'

By AIRCASTER

The Max Baer series now current on KDKA, under the title of "Taxi" is having its scripts lead up to the fight with Carnera next month, and when the date of the battle arrives, the actual fight will come as a climax to the episodes.

By that time, if the Baer series has clicked sufficiently, it may stay on through another series of adventures.

Speaking of the fight, Ben Grauer, NBC announcer, who lately has introduced both Carnera and Baer to the audience, and on those occasions, enjoyed the confidence of both heavies, in offering gratis, a tip on the outcome of the bout.

His fellow announcers gathered to listen to one of these tips the other day, and then to get their bets down. And here's what Ben told them:

"Both Carnera and Baer have told me what the result will be. They both told me, practically the same thing. Here are the words of each:

"'It's in the bag, I'm going to knock that guy's head off.'"

STATISTICS

Ben Alley is a helpful soul on dull days. He has submitted to me some statistics, which he says, represents an entire month of radio observation.

There are, on the networks at the moment, he says, 105 major commercial shows; 86 first-class orchestras; 68 teams, 108 personalities who may properly be considered stars, 15 acts which employ stooges, and included in these 78 performing stooges, and 7,800 drone stooges.

All the topline comedians put together measure up to a scant half-dozen.

During the past few weeks there has been much talk about the probability that Rudy Vallee and his show, too, would switch from the WEAF kilocycles over to the WABC lanes during or at the end of the summer.

This became an impossibility yesterday when the information got around that Vallee had signed up for another year with his one-hour show, and that his sponsor had sewed up the spot for another twelve months at WEAF.

Globe Trotter

Hello, Ladies and Gentlemen:

I know that all of the veterans and dependents of deceased veterans were reassured by Lieut. Guy Griffith in his radio talk yesterday.

He said that all the bonuses would be paid. Checks are going out now at a rapid rate and the State of Pennsylvania has done already in a few months what it took other states three to five years to accomplish.

There are checks at Lieut. Griffith's office for:

EARL E. NEWHOUSE, 1603 Fifth avenue, Pittsburgh.

DOMINICO FALCIONE, 519 Caton street, Pittsburgh.

GEORGE MARAN, 601 Ridge avenue, Pittsburgh.

FLOYD ROSS, Wilkins Township.

WALTER MAJOURS, 545 Illinois avenue, Swissvale.

CLIFFORD JOHN SELLERS, 214 S. Atlantic avenue, Pittsburgh.

MRS. Susuie Haase, 110 Jackson street, Pittsburgh.

MRS. CARMELA MANGONE, 3043 Guy avenue, North Side.

MARY KOWOLO or NICK KOWOLO, no address.

So far every person called for by the Globe Trotter has been located and received his check. If you know any of the above will you tell them to report with proper identifying credentials to the lieutenant's office in the Nixon Building.

"NEIGHBORS ENVY MY NICE-LOOKING WASH"

A clever Chicago housewife, Mrs. S. C. McCarroll, writes:

"I've gotten a lot of compliments about my nice-looking wash. Neighbors asked me how I did it. I told them of a simple washday trick.

"I use my regular laundry soap and my regular washing method, then add 2 tablespoons or so of Lux. This gives me wonderfully rich, fast-working suds. And the clothes come out clean and sparkling."

This Lux trick is a great help, especially if you have hard water. Lux makes such gorgeous suds! Try it yourself next washday—see what work it saves at almost no cost!

NOTE: Use only Lux, no other soap—for silks, woolens, rayons. Delicate fabrics should never be exposed to harsh alkali or cake-soap rubbing.

CITY'S DISTRICT VOTE FOR SENATOR AND GOVERNOR

REED, PINCHOT RUN CLOSE IN TOWNSHIPS

The following are scattered returns from Allegheny County's boroughs and townships showing the trend of the vote for United States Senate and Governor in the Republican and Democratic primary.

Mt. Lebanon Township—Reed carried every ward and district, piling up a majority of approximately 750 votes over Pinchot in the Republican primary for United States Senate. In the Democratic primary for Senate, Joseph F. Guffey carried every district for which returns are available. Guffey received 158 votes from the six reporting districts.

Reserve Township—Reed received 114 votes to Pinchot's 92, in complete returns. Guffey received every vote but one. His total is 60.

Penn Township—With four districts missing, Pinchot has 334 votes to Reed's 257. Guffey encountered little opposition.

McCandless Township—In the fight for Republican nomination for United States Senate, Pinchot received 161 votes in two of the three districts. Reed received 103. Guffey received 58 votes in the Democratic primary for Senate. His opponents had a combined vote of six.

O'Hara Township—Complete returns give Reed 315 and Pinchot 149. Guffey has a big majority in the Democratic column.

East Pittsburgh Borough—Margiotti received 217, Shannon 133 and Schnader 95. Earle easily won the Democratic nomination.

Munhall Borough—Margiotti with 648 votes won a majority. Schnader received 475 and Shannon 455. Earle rolled a heavy majority in the Democratic primary.

SCHNADER SAYS 'I'M GRATEFUL'

PHILADELPHIA, May 16.—(AP.)—Early today Attorney General William A. Schnader issued this statement:

"My nomination as the Republican candidate for governor seems assured. I am both humble and grateful.

"In no way do I regard the victory as a personal success. In it I see, instead, unmistakable evidence of the urgent desire on the part of the great majority of Pennsylvania Republicans for unity within the party.

"United in force and in spirit, the party will win in November. I do not doubt the outcome."

G. O. P. STALWARTS WIN IN COUNTY VOTE FOR ASSEMBLY

THREE PRESENT SENATORS GET NOMINATIONS

Republican organization candidates, while their opponents split their strength a hundred ways, romped into a majority of the nominations of their party, returns indicated today.

Three incumbent state senators were renominated, and the protege of the fourth won handily.

A number of new faces appeared in the Republican Assembly list, but many of the old were leading their ticket.

While Democrat regulars also appeared to have comfortable leads in a number of places, Republicans active in the organization no later than last fall clipped some of the Democrat nominations, if scattered returns bear out present indications.

State Senators Joseph G. Armstrong, Morris Einstein, Herman P. Brandt, had healthy leads. James H. McClure, protege of Senator William D. Mansfield, retired, had a large lead in the Forty-fourth District.

ROONEY COMEBACK

Notable comebacks were those of James P. Rooney, former football star, who is leading for both Republican and Democrat nominations to the Legislature in the Seventh District.

Leonard Kane, P. J. Maloney, Edward Hough, James K. Ruby, Dr. Joseph G. Steedle and George Howe were just a few of the regulars who are a neck or more ahead in their own little derbies.

Frank J. Zappala, who aided John S. Herron in his mayor fight last fall, is ahead by a safe margin for a Democrat nomination in the Fifth District.

The veteran Joseph Lynch, of the First District, and his recent colleague, John A. Scorza, nephew of Ward Leader John Verona, were trailing far behind, with Robert Cohen, H. L. Brown and J. W. Givens the leaders in the Republican and Democrat fights.

Edward R. Frey, regular Democrat, was leading Joseph G. Armstrong, Jr., for the Democrat nomination, and trailing both is Joseph F. Hagan, indorsed by Councilman John J. Kane. Frey is reputed to have the support of David L. Lawrence, Democrat chairman.

RODGERS VICTOR

Incumbents Lead In State-Wide Assembly Race

By G. EVERETT DOYING
International News Service.

HARRISBURG, May 16.—Incumbent representatives and senators in Pennsylvania's General Assembly, battling against the odds of an unprecedented array of candidates at primary polls, were confident that tabulations would return them victorious, for the most part, from a field numbering nearly 3,000.

Senator George Woodward, representing the Germantown section of Philadelphia, was almost a sure bet for the Republican nomination for re-election and was fully confident of winning the Democratic toga also.

The struggle for the seat voluntarily vacated by Senator Frank Fay, Mercer, appeared to pit Raymond A. Cox, Crawford County Republican, against Frank P. Filer, Mercer County Democrat, for the fall run-off election on the basis of incomplete returns.

To Charles R. Mallery, Altoona, went the Republican nomination in the Thirtieth Senatorial District, where Senator Richard W. Williamson stepped down to run for judge next year.

Representative David A. Perry, youthful Blair County legislator, was renominated in the Republican primary from the Second Blair District, with Joseph W. Parks. In the First District William S. Aaron beat Representative Percy A. Patterson.

Many York County Republicans who found no senatorial candidate on their ballot wrote in the name of Senator Henry F. Lanius, unopposed blind Democratic solon from Spring Grove, assuring him nominations from both major parties. Senator Andrew J. Sordoni, Luzerne Republican, got both nominations for lack of opposition also.

Other senatorial winners, from incomplete returns, were Senators Clarence J. Buckman, Bucks; Richard S. Quigley, Twenty-fourth; James S. Boyd, Montgomery, and John W. Howell, Lackawanna.

The minority's floor leader in the House, Representative Wilson G. Sarig, finished an easy victor in Berks County with his running-mate, Frank W. Ruth, incumbent. The county's two Socialist Legislators, Darlington Hoopes and Mrs. Lilith H. Wilson, were unopposed.

Dauphin County's hot battle found the Republican fusion candidates well in the lead. Thomas Wickersham and Representative Roy Shreiner won the Harrisburgh nominations and Representatives Robert E. Woodside and William E. Habbyshaw were easy victors in the county.

On the Democratic side, one Guffey and one anti-Guffey candidate were leading in close battles in both the city and the county races. Burgess Harold V. McNair, of Middletown, brother of the Pittsburgh Mayor, headed the county field.

Representative A. J. White Hutton, of Franklin County, was an easy winner for renomination on the Republican ballot.

Representative Hiram G. Andrews, elected as an independent two years ago from Cambria County, apparently had won the Democratic party toga for another term in the House.

The Juniata County November legislative fight will be between Representative D. Murray Hetrick, renominated as a Democrat, and Samuel Sieber, the Republican winner.

Banker Has Slight Lead for Pa. Senate

FRANKLIN, Pa., May 16.—Wayne W. Bleakley and Leroy E. Chapman were battling on almost even terms this morning for the Republican nomination for the Forty-eighth Senatorial District with 82 out of 128 precincts in the Warren-Venango County area reported. The vote at that time showed Bleakley leading, 5,669 to 5,425.

In the race for the assembly post, John H. McKinney with 2,072 votes was leading three other candidates in the field by a margin of 400 ballots.

Cat Refuses to Live In House of Horrors

BREMERTON, Wash.—A black and white tomcat, sole survivor of the "mass murders" here, refuses to live in the house of horrors where bodies of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Flinder, the cat's master and mistress, and four other victims, were found March 31.

M'FADDEN, BECK WIN RACE FOR CONGRESS

HARRISBURG, May 16.—(AP.)—Incumbents rode to victory in the primary balloting for Representatives in Congress, on the face of returns available today.

Eleven of the 16 contests decided found men now in office successfully started on their campaigns for re-election.

Louis D. McFadden, outspoken critic of two administrations, defeated two opponents for the Republican nomination in the Fifteenth (Horseshoe) District. One of those defeated was Louis D. Pethick, who stepped from the State Senate to oppose McFadden.

BECK VICTORIOUS

One upheaval marked the triumph of Republican organization candidates in Philadelphia. Clare G. Fenerton, Assistant District Attorney, defeated Alfred M. Waldron, incumbent, in the Third District. Victors in the other Philadelphia districts included Harry C. Ransley, James M. Beck, George W. Edmonds, James J. Connelly and George D. Darrow, incumbents, and Robert L. Davis, who emerged victorious in an eight-cornered fight for the nomination to the seat vacated by Edward Lowber Stokes, when he entered the race for the nomination for Governor.

Representative Charles I. Faddis, Democrat of Waynesburg, was nominated over a field of three others, including Dr. Albert S. Sickman, of Charleroi, who was unopposed on the Republican side but also ran as a Democrat, in the Twenty-fifth.

CROSBY VICTOR

Charles N. Crosby, Democratic incumbent in the Twenty-ninth defeated a field of four.

Representative Patrick J. Boland, the incumbent who ran on both tickets, in the Eleventh, was nominated over seven on the Republican ticket and over three on the Democratic.

Will Rose, of Cambridge Springs, defeated former Representative Milton W. Shreve and three others for the Republican nomination in the Twenty-ninth District.

FOCHT IN BATTLE

A nip-and-tuck battle for the Republican nomination is on in the Eighteenth between Representative Benjamin K. Focht, an old-time campaigner, and Joseph F. Biddle, Huntingdon publisher. Biddle, who served out the term of the late Representative E. M. Beers, is trailing on incomplete returns.

Twenty-first District—T. Fred Woodley, Rep.

Twenty-fifth District—Albert S. Sickman, Rep.

Ninth District—Oliver W. Frey (incum.), Dem.

Tenth District—Charles T. Carpenter, Dem.

Eighteenth District—B. Stiles Duncan, Dem.

Twentieth District—D. J. Driscoll, Dem.

Twenty-second District—Harry L. Haines (incum.), Dem.

Discharges Drunk Who Wanted To Vote

READING, May 16.—(AP.)—When a man expresses a desire to exercise his prerogative by voting on primary election day, Alderman Frank J. Printz believes that wish should be granted.

A prisoner was haled before the alderman in Police Court yesterday on a charge of intoxication. The alderman mused:

"I suppose we'll have to lock you up. What do you think?"

The prisoner protested:

"But this is primary day and I want to vote."

The alderman ruled:

"Discharged. But don't forget to go to your polling place at once."

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., May 16. — (AP.) — Tennessee Republicans went on record yesterday as favoring retention of state prohibition laws. Adoption of a dry-planked platform came at the party's state convention.

PINCHOT ADMITS DEFEAT BY REED

the campaign for the nomination largely on the Roosevelt "New Deal" issue. The Governor is a staunch Roosevelt supporter, while Reed through the campaign criticized some of the policies of the President as he has done on the floor of the Senate.

At 10:30 a. m. when Pinchot admitted defeat, Reed had a lead in the state of 115,848. Of this lead Philadelphia had given Reed approximately 90,000. The Governor ran Reed a close race in the Senator's home county which includes Pittsburgh. Pinchot was leading there by a small majority on incomplete returns.

In 5,498 districts of the 7,936 in the state Reed's total was 464,528 and Pinchot's 348,680.

MAJORITIES CUT

The Anthracite counties where Pinchot always has been strong, returned a majority for the Governor, but not on the large scale of former campaigns.

Pinchot first tried for the Senate in 1914 on the Roosevelt Bull Moose against Boies Penrose and was crushed by the powerful Republican leader of that day.

In the memorable battle of 1926 when Senator George Wharton Pepper sought renomination, Pinchot again was a candidate but ran third, William S. Vare winning the nomination and subsequent election, only to be barred from a seat in the Senate on the ground of excessive campaign expenses.

Pinchot had the active support of his dynamic wife, who traveled all over the state, making speeches in support of the NRA and for her husband.

Biting exchanges of personalities filled the fight between Senator and the Governor. Scarcely had Pinchot formally announced his candidacy than Reed was out with a statement that Pennsylvania Republicans saw in Pinchot "nothing more than an unscrupulous politician and a common scold." He said that Pinchot indulged in "villification and personal abuse to cover up his own record of broken promises, his shameless abuse of his present office to build up a political machine and his cynical use in secret of the methods that he denounced in public."

PINCHOT'S CHARGES

Pinchot came back in characteristic style declaring that Reed was "Mellon's man Friday," that he is the "Listening post in the Senate for the big business" and that he "stands for the Morgans, the international bankers, for the steel companies, for the public utilities, for all the oppressors of the people."

Pinchot, who with Mrs. Pinchot were overnight guests at the White House, told the voters that if he is sent to the Senate he could get more for Pennsylvania out of Washington than Reed can, because Reed is a bitter enemy of Roosevelt and the New Deal.

Reed first entered the Senate in 1922 by appointment of Gov. Sproul to fill the vacancy created by the death of Philander C. Knox. He was elected to a full term the same year, and re-elected in 1928.

TAYLOR SWAMPS PHIL DEWEY

International News Service.

HARRISBURG, May 16.—The plurality of M. Harvey Taylor, Dauphin County commissioner and organization candidate, passed the 300,000 mark early today as he continued to pile up an apparently insurmountable lead over Philip H. Dewey, incumbent, for the Republican nomination as Secretary of Internal Affairs.

On a ratio basis, Eddie McCloskey, red headed pugilist mayor of Johnstown was running slightly ahead of Dewey for second place honors, although tabulation of McCloskey's ballots was far behind those for Taylor and Dewey.

Thomas A. Logue, Democratic organization candidate, had things his own way in that race for the same nomination, 3,177 precincts showing Logue with 158,116 and Representative Norbert Fitzgerald, the independent candidate, with 46,783 votes. McCloskey, in 366 precincts in the Democratic primary, had piled up 4,532 votes.

Certain of nomination were former Congressman Edmund F. Erk, Congressman Clyde Kelly, and Representative James L. Quinn.

In the Thirty-third District, Ellenbogen had run up 11,313 votes as against J. Scott Morgan's 4,702 in the Republican primary, with Jacob Shulgold polling 1,819. More than half the districts were in. In the Democratic primary, Ellenbogen led Morgan by 17,793 to 1,581.

Erk pulled far to the fore of the Republican field in the Thirtieth District with 14,824. Homer J. Freese stood second with 2,967, trailed by Ralph W. Gibbs with 2,628. One hundred and thirty out of 186 districts reported.

In the Democratic contest in that district, J. Twing Brooks had 6,777 to Erk's 3,878.

Kelly piled up 18,830 in the Thirty-first District Republican contest, William T. Pyle was the nearest trailer with 2,379, and 134 out of 215 districts reported. Representative James L. Quinn was leading Kelly in the Democratic race with 6,384 to 2,761.

Congressman Michael J. Muldowney held the advantage in the Thirty-second district with 2,427. Former Congressman and political leader John M. Morin followed with 1,844. Sixty-nine out of 130 districts were in.

In the Democratic primary in this district, P. J. Sullivan was outdistanced by Moritz. The latter had chalked up 4,200 to Sullivan's 2,533. Marion K. McKay was a close third with 2,275. One hundred and twenty-six districts were counted.

In the latest returns, Mathew A. Dunn, the blind Congressman, had taken the lead in both Republican and Democratic primaries of the Thirty-fourth district. In the former his vote was 7,722 against 5,930 for Guy E. Campbell; in the latter 3,250 against 998 for V. L. Birchard. One hundred and fifty nine districts out of 241 were recorded.

SCHNADER WINS G. O. P. FIGHT for the quiet little Attorney General.

The result, hardly expected even among Schnader's staunchest backers, gave him an advantage that never was threatened.

Gen. E. C. Shannon, Lieutenant Governor, and Charles J. Margiotti, Pittsburgh lawyer, are fighting it out for a worthless second place, but never seriously challenged Schnader's lead.

He was born in Bowmansville, Lancaster County, in 1886, but moved with his parents in his childhood to Pine Grove, Schuylkill County. His father was a minister of the reformed church.

A short time later the family moved to Shamokin, where the boy was graduated from high school and entered Franklin and Marshall College. He was graduated from the University of Pennsylvania law school in 1912 and was awarded the Gowen fellowship for post graduate work.

Schnader was admitted to the bar in 1913 and began law practice in Philadelphia. Meanwhile, he served as a part-time faculty member at his law school.

He was appointed special deputy attorney general in January, 1923, and Gov. John S. Fisher named him Attorney General in November, 1930. Pinchot reappointed him when he became Governor for the second time in 1931.

Mae West Should Come Up to Stowe Sometime

Mae West, whose best known campaign speech is "whyn't you come up some time?" received one vote for county committee woman. The election board in the Third District of Stowe Township found that Mae had been thus honored when they checked up on the ballets last night at the Municipal Building, Island Avenue extension.

MARGIOTTI TOPS RIVALS IN COUNTY

In the Democratic column Earle, boosted by the regular Democratic organization led by Guffey and County Chairman David L. Lawrence, rolled through to an early and certain margin. Mayor William N. McNair, given the aid of the city payroll, was unable to match votes with the Philadelphia gubernatorial candidate, even in the city wards of Pittsburgh, and in the boroughs and townships he ran far in the ruck. In 43 township districts he received only 168 votes where Earle was given 1,225, and in 76 borough districts he had 363 to 2,117 for Earle.

Just as Margiotti led in city, borough and township districts, so did Reed in the returns from more than a fourth of the county. The results showed that slates had been completely shattered almost everywhere, as there was in practically no section a Margiotti-Reed combination.

Reed, in sections where the Republican organization has been effective, rolled up a substantial lead over Pinchot, but for the Republican gubernatorial nomination there were splits everywhere. Margiotti made an amazing showing in such sections as Mt. Lebanon and Bellevue, where it had not been thought that he would be a contender.

SHANNON FAILS

A survey of the vote indicated that the Shannon forces, presumably allied with Gov. Pinchot for the senatorial nomination, had not delivered, and that the Governor's local followers had given all they had without much in the way of reciprocity.

Reed ran well in districts which in previous elections had been regarded as Pinchot territory, despite the support he was supposed to have from the county office group and the soldier element back of Shannon.

Returns indicated that the so-called soldier vote was badly split, and did not materialize for Shannon as the expected unit.

The Second ward, led by P. J. O'Malley, Coyne lieutenant, was as usual the banner ward for the regulars who backed Schnader and Reed.

Margiotti did well in the recognized independent wards, and cleaned up in the Third, which is dominated by John J. Verona.

For Earle and Guffey, the returns became a parade in the Democratic column. One of the upsets of this primary was the comparatively poor showing of Judge Charles D. Copeland of Westmoreland county, candidate for the gubernatorial nomination. In fourth place, trailing even Bonniwell, Copeland had been set forth by his supporters as the man who would give Earle a fight.

SLATE CARRIES

Along with Guffey and Earle, the entire regular Democratic slate has carried Allegheny County. Thomas Kennedy for Lieutenant Governor secured an early lead over Senator Henry L. Snyder of Lehigh County, and increased it on later returns, his margin being three to one in 819 districts. The vote was Kennedy 49,651, Snyder 15,599. Figures were not available for many districts.

Thomas A. Logue of Philadelphia had a safe lead over Mayor Eddie McCloskey of Johnstown for secretary of Internal Affairs, with Norbert J. Fitzgerald of Erie, aligned with Copeland and Morris, in third place. Chester H. Rhodes of Monroe County had a comfortable lead for judge of the Superior Court.

In the Republican column Judge Frank N. Trexler led for the Superior Court nomination, with the secretary of internal affairs fight close between McCloskey, M. Harvey Taylor of Dauphin County, and Philip Dewey, incumbent. McCloskey led for 593 districts, Dewey was second and Taylor third, but less than a thousand votes separated the first two.

David E. Kaufman, Towanda, had a lead as the candidate on the Republican ticket for lieutenant governor, with State Senator Harry B. Scott, on a slate with Schnader and Reed, in third place. Former Representative Albert B. Davidson of Tarentum was second and Speaker Grover C. Talbot of the House held the fourth position.

Blaze in 'Naughty' Parisian Theater

PARIS, May 16.—(AP.)—The stage and lobbies of the fashionable Daunou Theater, which specializes in "slightly naughty plays" were destroyed by fire yesterday.

The theater, which has been showing "The Reign of Adrienne" with the matinee idol, Andre Dubosc, will be shut down for a month for repairs.

Reed Wins Milford; Pinchot's Home Town

MILFORD, Pa., May 16.—(INS.)—Gov. Gifford Pinchot's home town supported his opponent, Senator David A. Reed, according to final returns here this morning.

The senior Senator led the governor by 10 votes, 112 to 102, when the 214 Republican ballots cast in the borough were counted.

PRESIDENT MUM ON PENNA. RETURNS

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, May 16.—President Roosevelt parried queries as to his reaction on the Pennsylvania primaries today with the smiling assertion that he had not had time to look over latest reports from Pennsylvania.

WASHINGTON, May 16.—(AP.)—Claims were made and disputed today that the renomination of David A. Reed as the Republican senatorial candidate in Pennsylvania was a blow at the "New Deal."

Senator Hastings, of Delaware, co-chairman of the Republican Senatorial-Congressional Committee, said in a statement:

"Reed's triumph is a great victory for the American citizen who wants a square deal and not a new deal."

Chairman Farley, of the Democratic National Committee, said, however, he did not regard the defeat of Gifford Pinchot as a "test" of the "New Deal."

Hastings' statement, issued through the committee, said, in part:

"The renomination of Senator Reed in Pennsylvania means at least, that the influence of the Roosevelt administration and is policies cannot prevail in Pennsylvania. It definitely shows that the people in this country are opposed to having their everyday life and business governmentally regulated.

"The triumph of Senator Reed will greatly encourage the Republican party. It means that the citizen still wants safe and sane government, along principles which built up this nation. The foibles of theorists no longer appeal.

"Gov. Pinchot had the tacit blessing of the President and his administration in his fruitless effort to wrest the Republican nomination for the senatorship from Senator Reed."

TREXLER LEADS SIX-TO-ONE

International News Service.

HARRISBURG, May 16.—Chief Justice Frank M. Trexler, of the Superior Court, appeared to have safely won Republican renomination early today by rolling up a commanding six-to-one lead over James J. Regan, Jr., his only rival.

In 2,955 tabulated precincts the vote was:

Trexler 302,936; Regan 76,849.

Trexler's bid for the Democratic nomination appeared to have failed. The Chief Justice was running third behind Representative Chester H. Rhodes, the organization candidate, and Regan, who were finishing in that order on the basis of scattered returns.

SCHNADER WINS IN 3 CITIES

McKeesport — Margiotti, 2,475 Schnader, 2,448; Shannon, 1,920.

Duquesne—Schnader, 718; Margiotti, 590; Shannon, 387.

Clairton—Margiotti, 411; Shannon, 385; Schnader, 362.

With Duquesne's returns for the Democratic nomination for Governon not yet compiled, George H. Earle appears victorious in the county's third-class cities. He boasts a sizeable majority in both McKeesport and Clairton.

Maybe McNair Kept Promise On Pinchot

Election board officials in the Tenth District, of the Eleventh Ward, Mayor McNair's home ward, today were wondering if the Mayor kept his promise to write in the name of Gov. Pinchot for United States Senator on the Democratic ballot. They found that "someone" had written Pinchot's name on the ballot.

forward with ranks united for victory in the November battle."

The Senator took an after-the-bell punch at the Roosevelt administration and its "college boys." He ridiculed the "professorial advisors" of the administration, erstwhile known as the "Brain Trust." He said:

"The Constitution was written in Pennsylvania and so was the Declaration of Independence.

"Pennsylvanians are not going to lie down submissively and allow a lot of professors to take away the liberties that were guaranteed to us in these two great documents."

SILENT ON FUTURE

In conceding his defeat by Senator Reed, Gov. Pinchot cautiously guarded against committing himself on whether he would run as an independent in November other than to say he would be in "good shape in the fall."

When asked to discuss his plans he replied:

"I don't want to talk politics today."

Many experienced political observers in the state were of the opinion that if Pinchot should campaign in November as an independent, he might draw just as many votes from the Democratic side as from the Republican, in which event there would be no telling what the result might be.

Judge Charles D. Copeland, of Greensburg, running for Governor, was paired with Morris on the "insurgent" slate, which likewise pledged support of "New Deal" policies but attacked the Guffey-Earle group as "hand-picked."

TRAILING FAR BEHIND

They were Eugene C. Bonniwell, Philadelphia Municipal Court Judge; John A. McSparran, Secretary of Agriculture in Gov. Pinchot's cabinet, and Mayor William N. McNair, of Pittsburgh. Both Bonniwell and McSparran in recent years were Democratic nominees for Governor.

Guffey, a Pittsburgh oil man and brother of Mrs. Emma Guffey Miller, national committeewoman, was joined in the triumph also by Thomas Kennedy, mine union leader, for Lieutenant Governor; Thomas A. Logue, of Philadelphia, for Secretary of Internal Affairs, and Chester H. Rhodes, member of the Legislature, for judge of the Superior Court.

HELEN RICHEY LAUDS JUNIOR BIRDMEN

By MISS HELEN RICHEY

Noted McKeesport Aviatrix and Co-Holder of the Endurance Flight Record for Women with Mrs. Frances Marsalis.

Flying is not a matter of sex. Women can fly just as well as men. It all depends on the individual.

Take for example the "Ninety-Niners," a national organization for women flyers to which I belong. There are many members in the club who can fly a plane better than lots of men.

In the United States today there are 600 active women flyers. In a few years I believe that there will be many times that number of women pilots in this country, for it has been proved that they can handle a plane with the same skill and adeptness as the male sex.

I believe that the Junior Birdmen of America with its model plane building courses, flying meets and other interesting activities will bring many women into aviation in the near future.

In building a plane—which a girl can construct just as easily as a man—the members of the Junior Birdmen can learn much about aerodynamics, which is absolutely necesary in flying an airplane.

Young boys and girls, I have noticed always ask the intelligent question about aviation. They are the ones who will cary on the industry in the future.

Many girls have told me that they no not have the money to learn to fly and that it is too expensive. Money has nothing to do with it. For as the old saying goes, "Where there's a will there's way." It depends on a person's ambition.

I'm hoping that there will be many more women taking to flying in the future and that they all will have happy landings.

JUNIOR BIRDMEN OF AMERICA

LAWRENCE SHAW, National Director — J. JAMES MOORE, Pittsburgh Wing Commander

By J. JAMES MOORE, Pittsburgh Wing Commander.

Greetings, members! The Junior Birdmen of America was exactly one month old yesterday and here is a birthday announcement that will make each one of you boys and girls want to go right into a nose dive, barrell roll, powered spin and other sorts of gymnastics.

The Pitsburgh Sun-Telegraph wing enrolled member No. 1,500 yesterday. That is news, especially when you consider how young our organization is. I'm sure that just as soon as the school term ends we will be enrolling boys and girls by the hundreds. Watch our speed!

As a reward for your fine interest I am going to double my efforts to give you Pittsburgh members the greatest times of your lives at the forthcoming Junior Birdmen events. Your success in attaining this membership record in such quick time, inspires me to do even more for you. You bet your left stabilizer I will!

I had the great privilege yesterday of talking to attractive 23-year-old Mrs. Almeda Babcock, internationally famous parachute jumper and the first woman to receive a Federal license. This dark-haired and brown-eyed daredevil of the heavens, who hails from Tyler, Tex., has 256 jumps to her credit.

Speaking of the Junior Birdmen organization Mrs. Babcock said:

"Everywhere I go in the United States I hear boys and girls talking about the Junior Birdmen. I think it is a marvelous organization for the youth of our country.

"In a few years there will be as many women piloting airplanes as there are women driving cars today. They will think nothing of jumping in their planes and going to New York or Chicago for the afternoon.

"The Junior Birdmen will give the youth of Pittsburgh a fine chance, I think, to learn about aerodynamics and the principles of aviation. Such training will prove most valuable to them when they start flying their own planes."

Friday I will tell you all about the model plane contest, which will be held in July.

The second lesson in our Junior Birdmen Model Builders' Course for Beginners will be published in this column Saturday. That will give you boys and girls who are building a special work bench, as outlined in our first lesson last Friday, a full week to have finished it.

Saturday's column will deal with the tools that are used for model building, and the next lesson will detail the materials used. This will prepare you all for the construction of the first model which will be a simple glider that any one of you boys and girls will be able to build.

Tomorrow we will have two dictionary lists for you in this column.

HAPPY LANDINGS!

IMPORTANT TIP FOR RUSHMORE ENTRANTS

Are You Guilty?

Are you one of the guilty participants in the Mount Rushmore National Memorial inscription competition who have failed to follow the rules and advice given for the preparation of the 600-word inscription?

Then this information on mistakes gleaned from a checkup on some of the entries submitted to the Pittsburgh Memorial Committee is valuable to you. It is, also, an important tip to those who are completing their texts. They should make certain the same mistakes are not contained in their inscriptions before submitting them.

The chief mistake that will disqualify many of the entries already received is the failure to count dates and subtitles in the total number of words. Remember, it has been continuously repeated that no text can exceed 600 words. Every word written is naturally a part of a text.

Scores of entrants have placed subtitles before each episode. These subtitles in some texts are as long as 10 words. THOSE WORDS COUNT IN YOUR TEXT. The second important mistake is the failure to base the text on the nine specific episodes of history as outlined in the rules. Each and every one of these episodes must be contained in the text. The Mount Rushmore National Commission does not want what you think was important in the nation's history. It wants you to stress the importance of the nine episodes IT deems the most outstanding.

You still have time to correct your mistakes. Sit down tonight and from the copy you saved prepare another entry that corrects these errors. There is no limit on the number of texts submitted. If you need the rules, they will be published in tomorrow's Sun-Telegraph.

The man walked to the door of the polling place, obtained one and gave it to the woman. She thanked him and left.

KEAN, HOFFMAN WIN IN N. J.

NEWARK, N. J., May 16.—(AP.)—State Motor Vehicle Commissioner Harold G. Hoffman had a plurality of over 125,000 today in the Republican gubernatorial primary election contest, with only 842 of the state's 3,418 election districts outstanding.

The margin of Hoffman's victory in the four-cornered race continued to grow as additional districts were tabulated.

United States Senator Hamilton F. Kean was assured of the Republican nomination for the United States Senate, with 1,988 districts giving him 182,513 votes to the 69,382 polled by his opponent, James G. Blauvelt.

Vermonters Vote For Sale of Liquor

MONTPELIER, Vt., May 16.—(AP.)—Returns from the special "local option" liquor election held in all the larger cities and towns of the state yesterday indicated traditionally dry Vermonters favored, for the most part, the licensed sale of liquors.

The vote was extremely light. State-owned stores will sell hard liquor in communities which voted for such beverages.

NEWS BEHIND THE NEWS

Silver Tacks Put in Roosevelt Chair By Borah

WASHINGTON, May 16.—The urchin who has been putting those silver tacks in the chairs of Messrs. Roosevelt and Morgenthau is the old Republican bad boy, Borah of Idaho.

There never was a better tack man in politics. He has devoted a long career to trying to make statesmen cry out in the particular tone he wants them to. Right now he wants to make silver-voiced tenors out of them, and his tack method is having an effect inside.

It is probably not the primary reason for the silver remonetization compromise now being worked out, but it is an important phase.

TACK NO. 1

Borah went to the recent White House silver conference with his tongue in his cheek. He had been steering away from the White House because he doubted whether the administration was warmly favorable to silver. His silver associates persuaded him to come along just this one time.

As soon as he was inside the door, and before dropping his hat, he piped up to ask the President:

"Are you ready to declare remonetization of silver to be a fixed policy?"

It was a question designed to put Roosevelt on the spot. The President hesitated a moment, looked around, then beamed the Roosevelt smile on the silverites, saying:

"Yes, I am."

That is what started all the trouble.

TRICKERY

The President said plainly at that conference that he was willing to let Congress fix the policy by law, but wanted full leeway to carry it out when and as he desired.

The silver boys rushed back to their offices and started drafting bills starting off:

"It is hereby declared to be the fixed policy of Congress that silver," etc., etc.

Treasury Secretary Morgenthau brought up the administration bill later. It started off:

"It is the sense of Congress" that such-and-such should be done for silver.

The silverites blew up. They thought Morgenthau was trying to trick them. They knew very well that nobody cares about the sense of Congress. Mr. Roosevelt would not have to abide by it. But he would have to abide by its declarations of law, such as they proposed to make. At least they think so.

TACK NO. 2

Apparently, Morgenthau told the Senators he did not recall the President had made such a promise. That made everyone angry.

Borah threw the administration bill down on the table and said:

"That is all I wanted to know. I do not think we ought to have any silver legislation at all. I would much rather go out and discuss the issue for six months and then when we come back here next January I believe we will have no difficulty in getting a silver bill through."

That was Tack No. 2. The point did not escape Mr. Morgenthau.

It meant that Senator Borah was threatening to start a silver campaign against the administration.

BACKFIRE

Every time thereafter that the inside negotiations struck a hitch, Borah would start for the door, insisting he would rather talk on the stump.

Each time he was called back, patted on the back and told:

"There is no use in doing that. Let's get together."

There was really no reason why the administration should let Borah and the others build silver backfires all over the West this summer. The three words "when and as" in the President's original promise afforded him as big a loophole to escape the silver policy as he could possibly wish for.

Apparently some of the Treasury people felt, however, that the pledge might be embarrassing later on.

BLAME

The result of the whole business is that the silverites in Congress place all the blame for the trouble on Mr. Morgenthau. They believe the President wanted to go ahead, but that Morgenthau is strongly anti-silver and wanted to block the agreement.

It is all right for them to think that, if it makes them feel any better, but those on the inside know Mr. Morgenthau does nothing except what Mr. Roosevelt wants.

It is the duty of a good Treasury Secretary to take the blame.

BRYAN

At one of the White House silver conferences, Mr. Roosevelt interposed and asked the boys to step into the next room, saying:

"I do not want to break up the conference, but I must have my hair cut. I haven't had it cut in four weeks, and, what with hanging around with you silver boys, people will think I'm William Jennings Bryan."

NEW GAME

A new and slightly insane game is sweeping through Congress like the cross-word and jig-saw puzzles did. It is a Navy game called salvo, or battleship. The idea is to rule off 100 squares on paper. Number them across from top to bottom (A-1, A-2, etc.), then place a fleet of four vessels somewhere in the squares. A battleship takes up four squares, a cruiser three, a destroyer two and a submarine one. Then the trick is to sink the ships by calling the number of the squares they occupy. Each contestant has five shots with no peeping. A ship is sunk by calling all the squares it occupies.

It only goes to show what otherwise intelligent people will do for amusement near the end of the congressional session.

FIND SCALDED BODY IN ASHPIT

The body of Harry G. Backes, 48, of 1631 East street, a locomotive repairman, was found late yesterday in an ashpit in the Fort Wayne yards of the Pennsylvania Railroad, according to the Coroner's report.

The scalded body was discovered by E. A. Powell, a craneman, who was loading the ashes into a car. He investigated when he saw one of the victim's feet protruding from the ashpile.

Backes apparently fell into the pit Monday night. No one witnessed the fall, and Backes' wife, alarmed at her husband's absence, asked North Side police to search for him.

STEEDLE VOTE FRAUD TRIAL JURY PICKED

2 Justices of Peace, Police Among 11 Other Defendants

Election fraud charges against Dr. Joseph G. Steedle, McKees Rocks State Legislator, and 11 other officials, attorneys and policemen went on trial in Federal Court here today with the swearing in of a jury and opening addresses by prosecutors and defense counsel.

Judge F. P. Schoonmaker, after the jury had been chosen, ordered that the panel be kept under guard of deputy marshals throughout the trial.

When not in court, the jury will be quartered in Hotel Pittsburgher.

CHARGES CONSPIRACY

In his opening statement for the government, Louis E. Graham, special prosecutor, said the evidence would show a conspiracy to alter ballots in various voting districts in the Thirty-fourth Congressional District in the November general election last year.

The case is the first to be heard of the two so-called major conspiracy cases growing from alleged frauds at the general election last November.

State Senator James J. Coyne heads 12 other defendants who will be tried in the second case starting May 23.

Prosecuting the Steedle group are First Assistant United States Attorney James I. Marsh and Special Prosecutor Louis E. Graham, former United States attorney here.

The defendants are represented by Attorneys O. K. Eaton, A. M. Oliver, Harry A. Estep, A. J. Lindsey, John A. Metz, W. L. Jacobs, D. A. MacQuarrie, J. P. McArdle, Mead J. Mulvihill, Leo J. Ritter and Francis A. Wolf.

UNDER INDICTMENT

Those named in the indictment with Dr. Steedle are Attorney B. Robert Averbach, counsel for Republican county organization; Justice of the Peace James J. Westwood, of McKees Rocks; Justice of the Peace Paul N. Franks, of Scott Township; Wallace Ray, clerk in county delinquent tax office; Attorney John J. McGrath, Burton J. McKee, real estate dealer; Robert S. S. Haus, and four members of the Stowe Township Police Department, Frank Miller, captain; Thomas Saunders, chief; William Schwartz and August Weisser, patrolmen.

10,000 ON RWD PAYROLL HERE

Nearly 10,000 men are on the payroll of the Relief Works Division today, according to Philip H. Lantz, reputy director.

With approvals received for resumption of work on 350 out of 500 projects, Lantz said 3,000 men will be added on Friday, and between 1,000 and 1,500 will go to work Saturday. This will practically complete the quota of men to be employed, he said. No new men were added yesterday, as headquarters in Harrisburg were closed due to the ection.

No new approvals have been received for projects employing "white collar men," he said.

R. R. Conductor Dies Collecting Tickets

H. F. Kress, 61, of 203 North Sheridan avenue, a Pennsylvania Railroad conductor, was fatally stricken while collecting tickets on a passenger train last night. He was pronounced dead from a heart attack when the train reached Clairton.

He was employed by the railroad 42 years.

Group Will Launch War on Disease

The General Health Council's fight against social diseases here will be launched at a conference to be held Friday afternoon at 3 p. m. in the offices of Dr. R. R. Jones, president of the council, in the Bell Telephone Building, it was announced today. The meeting had originally been scheduled for today, but was postponed.

Here's Once That Darrow's Client Wasn't Innocent

By ARTHUR (Bugs) BAER

Seems that Washington asked for Darrow's opinion. And got it.

Mr. Darrow's summary is, "They asked for it."

Can it be that Mr. Darrow no longer thinks his clients are as innocent as new-laid eggs?

When Clarence carried the megaphone for the defendant it was almost certain exoneration. In five minutes he would have the jury weeping bitter ponds.

Has he changed his philosophy or has he slowed up like windshield wipers in a blizzard?

POLICE PROBERS MEET BEHIND CLOSED DOOR

Pitt Professor Named Permanent Head of Kane's Commission

Naming Elmer D. Graper, University of Pittsburgh professor, as permanent chairman, the recently-appointed Police Commission today launched its intensive probe of the Police Bureau.

The group's first meeting was held in City Council chambers behind closed doors with all members present except Mrs. Mary Burnett, of Carnegie Institute of Technology, who was unable to attend.

Members said the first session would be devoted mostly to organization.

Meanwhile, confirmation of A. Marshall Bell as Director of Public Safety was expected when Council meets in special session tomorrow afternoon.

Bell, gentleman farmer, was named to the post by Mayor McNair last week after Ralph E. Smith was dismissed as head of the Public Safety Department.

Councilman John J. Kane, Democrat, who sponsored the appointment of the Police Commission, said today that Smith's dismissal will only intensify the police investigation.

Other members of the Police Commission are James N. Hoey, former police inspector; Dr. A. I. Wise and Miss Anna B. Heldman, of Irene Kaufmann Settlement.

500 TO RALLY IN PITT DRIVE

Five hundred men and women will assemble in the Commons Room of the Cathedral of Learning tomorrow night to launch the public phase of the campaign to raise $1,650,000 to complete the University of Pittsburgh structure.

The meeting has been compared to the famous Gary dinner in 1924 which culminated in the original campaign for $8,100,000 which made the Cathedral possible.

This will be the first meeting in the Commons Room, the largest in the building.

A tour of the Cathedral will precede the meeting at which Homer D. Williams, general chairman, will outline the aims of the final drive for completion of the world's tallest university structure.

Open house week will follow next week when the Cathedral will be made available to the public, with students and faculty members as guides through the 42-story building.

Spiritualists Hold Business Sessions

Last night's sessions included talks by the Rev. Morrow Whitwell and the Rev. George B. Cutter, of Boston. Testimonials to the power of spiritual healing were given yesterday by Joseph P. Whitwell, of Chicago, and the Rev. Mrs. C. V. Morrow. The convention closes tomorrow.

M'NAIR TEASED ON TELEPHONE AT 3 A. M.

Mayor Called Names By Ben Marshall's 'Phantom'

At 3 a. m. today the raucuous ring of the telephone shattered the peace and quiet of Mayor McNair's home in East End, disturbing the slumber of a badly beaten gubernatorial candidate.

His Honor rose, shook the sleep from his eyes and groped for the receiver. The caller said he was Ben Marshall, the Mayor's superintendent of police.

BARES MESSAGE

Then, according to the Mayor himself, this conversation took place:

Marshall:

"How do you like the vote, you doublecrossing soandso?? You couldn't carry Middletown."

McNair:

"Wait a minute! You're out! You can't talk to me like that. You're fired."

But the Mayor was satisfied when he had slept it off that it wasn't Marshall but an imposter who had called. And Marshall, learning of the call, started an investigation.

CONCEDES DEFEAT

In fact, Marshall himself was called from bed about the same time, but the caller hung up.

The Mayor had recovered from the telephonic abuse this afternoon and cheerfully conceded defeat. He explained:

"I knew I was licked before I started, when I had the federal patronage all against me. Matthew Stanley Quay in his palmiest days never cracked the whip like that federal bunch did."

His Honor said he hadn't decided whom to support in the November election.

KERR ASKS DATA ON M'NAIR CALL

Although Mayor McNair has announced he will pay personally for telephone calls to Harrisburg and Washington, Controller James P. Kerr, whose business it is to watch the records, has sent the Mayor a letter asking an explanation for the Harrisburg call.

This was a conversation costing $2.55 in which the Mayor and several drunks at North Side police station told Mrs. Pinchot of the bad effects of state store liquor.

Controller Kerr in his letter said:

"I am returning herewith a statement of a telephone call to Harrisburg for an explanation as to the reason for the call and whether it referred to city business. You no doubt understand we are not permitted to make payments for calls for any other purpose than those which refer to official business of the city. Please give me your explanation and also your desire as to the payment of this telephone bill."

The Mayor has said he will pay personally for the Harrisburg call as well as the query to a secretary of the President as to whether to support Pinchot or Guffey.

ASKS HOME FIRE INVESTIGATION

County detectives today were investigating a fire which destroyed a house on the Perry highway, Wexford, last April 3.

The owner, Mrs. Frances Taylor, of 2804 McDowell street, North Side, claiming that some one had set fire to the house, asked the detectives to investigate. The week following the fire thieves broke into a tool shed and stole tools valued at $50, Mrs. Taylor reported to the detectives. Last Sunday she discovered that an automobile parked in the yard had been stripped.

Attorney Raps Unfit Tax Assessors

In the development of the towns and cities of the United States there has been no attempt to lay down any plan to which the city should grow and no effort made to obtain the adoption of a well-matured policy for its management in the years to come, Dr. Percy K. Jones, associate professor of English at Duquesne University declared in a radio talk from Station WCAE last night.

Dr. Jones, local clergyman and attorney, declared that under best conditions the system of annual elections, with a constant change in the personnel in the city government, has produced a lack of continuity in management which results in confusion and waste of effort and money.

As a result of the lack of continuity there is a lack of civic consciousness and consequently our cities and towns have had a hand-to-mouth method of administration, the professor said.

Dr. Jones declared that nowhere in the realm of municipal government is to be found a lack of continuity such as is found in assessment and taxation of property. He pointed out that assessors come and go with every election and they are for the most part unfitted for the important work of property assessing and taxing.

The educator also declared that civic consciousness today is slowly awakening to the call and in many places a change has been started. However, he said, the tendency so far has been to attack evils that lie upon the surface. He said to get any real results the whole hearted services of large numbers of leading men and women in every city is required. He declared the call for such service cannot be ignored.

Star Says Life Hinges On Her Winning Suit

EDWINA BOOTH . . . ONCE TREATED BY A "HORSE DOCTOR"

Stricken in Making Tropic Film, Need For Care Cited

NEW YORK, May 15.—(AP.)—An African "horse doctor" with alleged predelictions for "overdoses of quinine," cared for Edwina Booth when she fell ill in Africa, her attorney, Emil K. Ellis, claimed today.

The assertion was made in an affidavit affixed to a motion filed in Supreme Court asking preference at the head of the trial calendar for the film star's $1,000,000 damage suit against the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer Corporation.

Miss Booth was stricken with a tropical disease during the making of the picture "Trader Horn." She and her father, Dr. James L. Woodruff, of Los Angeles, added affidavits that her only hope for recovery is collection of a judgment against the company to provide treatment at the tropical clinic in London.

Miss Booth's affidavit said she has been confined to bed for 23 months, with shades drawn and lights dimmed, and that her family had spent its last dollar in attempting a cure.

Her attorney asserted the suit was based on violation of an express agreement to provide proper medical care.

POST MAYVIEW FIRE REWARDS

Fire Marshal Thomas L. Pfarr today offered a $500 reward for information leading to the arrest and conviction of persons responsible for the fire in the women's asylum at the City Hospital, Mayview, Monday night.

After investigation, Pfarr said he was convinced that the fire was of an incendiary origin. A nurse's vigilance prevented serious damage and possible loss of life, Pfarr said.

Magazines and newspapers had been stuffed under a joist in the basement and ignited, according to Pfarr.

An additional reward of $100 was also offered by Pfarr for the arrest of employes or inmates sounding fire alarms. Twelve false alarms had been sounded since the latter part of March, he asserted.

SUIT HELD LINK IN GIRL SLAYING

Universal Service.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 16.—In the clothes closet of Millard Hickman's hotel room, authorities yesterday found a piece of evidence which, they believe, may be the strongest link against the man accused of the tunnel murder of pretty Louise Jeppesen.

They found a gray-blue suit—and on the front of the coat and the trousers were dark spots, red-brown, like blood.

And when Louise's body was found early Sunday morning, her head lay in a pool of blood.

Revelation of this new piece of evidence came simultaneously with the recommendation of a coroner's jury that Millard Hickman, the 45-year-old San Francisco shipping official, "be held for trial" on the charge of murdering the little Utah girl.

600 Scouts to Take Traffic Flow Count

Six hundred Boy Scouts will take part at major intersections in the ninth annual traffic count for the Bureau of Traffic Planning tomorrow. Data they obtain will be used to retime traffic lights and to make a traffic flow map of the city. City Traffic Engineer Lewis McIntyre and Scout Executive Andy Benson are in charge.

CIVIC AND ART LEADERS FILL BALLROOM

By J. FRED LISSFELT

The Schenley Hotel Ballroom was filled last night with friends of the Pittsburgh Symphony Society attending the campaign dinner opening the drive toward a fund of $100,000.

Representatives from Pittsburgh's oldest families, from art groups, from among professional musicians, from among civic leaders, our mayor, the grand old man of music in America, Walter Damrosch, and our leading American soprano, Rosa Ponselle, were all there.

The same spirit of courage which has made the new orchestra win in the past pervaded the good feeling last night, and indications are that the drive should reach a successful conclusion.

GREETINGS RECEIVED

Mrs. William Maclay Hall, president of the Symphony Society, introduced Samuel Harden Church, toastmaster of the occasion, who in his most congenial style presented the guests of honor. He also read encouraging and congratulatory telegrams from Frederick Stock, John Erskine, Eugene Goossens and Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt.

Rosa Ponselle, a little shyly, said her good wishes for the campaign and made a generous donation to the cause.

Walter Damrosch is truly our pillar of strength for good music in America. As Mr. Church named him, he is the maker of "friendly music" for our people, and brought to his listeners a marvelous appeal for thought upon music in this new leisure.

RECALLS DEDICATION

He recalled his early experiences in Pittsburgh with the dedication of the first Carnegie Institute, during the visit of the Damrosch Opera Company when our clouds of soot disturbed the makeup of Lilli Lehmann, already clothed in her "Brunnhilde" robes.

He remembered the democratic audiences of old exposition days, and then the orchestra with Herbert. He paid a beautiful tribute to the men of our present orchestra and their leader, Antonio Modarelli, and then sat down amid rousing applause.

The orchestra played three times, Mozart's overture to "Figaro," Debussy's "Fetes," and the entrancing waltz of Johann Strauss, "Tales from the Vienna Woods."

As Mrs. Hall said, we were again making musical history for Pittsburgh last night.

CHAMBER AGAIN ELECTS FISHER

Other officers, also re-elected, are Charles K. Robinson, William P. Witherow and Frank Wilbur Main, vice presidents, and Frank C. Harper, secretary-manager.

The chamber's annual membership meeting will be held at noon tomorrow. Thomas Fitzgerald, vice president and general manager of the Pittsburgh Railways Company, will speak.

WILL ROGERS SAYS

SAN FRANCISCO, May 16.

To the Editor, Sun-Telegraph:

I don't want to brag, but we got mighty good policemen in Los Angeles. They have caught a many a bad one. It looks like every time you get one of these notorious ones now, you get about two women to each man. Looks like about all the police would have to do is arrest every man that has more than one woman along.

Girl Gives Boy Pets She Cannot Feed

Climaxing a week of hoping and waiting, that day will bring to the Dormont youngster the height of joy—and to little Marie Kwit, of 4419 Butler street, a contrasting measure of grief.

For Robert, on Saturday, is to become master of two of the little girl's three kittens which Marie, through the SunTelegraph, offered to give away last week because her family could no longer afford to keep them.

The kittens destined for Robert are "Amos" and "Rosie." The third, "Sunshine," is still looking for a new home, romping, meanwhile, in that of a friend, Mrs. M. R. Lewis, of 51 Chalfonte avenue, West View.

Originally Marie's animal troupe included "Cheeko," a Pekingese puppy, for whom a home already has been found, and a parrot, unnamed, which the little girl hopes to sell.

Marie's only stipulation in disposing of her pets is that they all are placed in good homes and that they receive proper care.

Junior Patrol

Have you made a garden yet, fellows?

Now is a good time to plant some seeds which should grow into beautiful plants and flowers. It has been dry for many days, but yesterday more rain fell, and that should make the ground moist so that things will grow swell.

Maybe your patrol could have a garden. And each member could own one patch of ground in it to grow what he wants.

The first thing to do is to find a good place for a garden and then to get permission to have your garden there.

But before you start remember that there are weeds as well as flowers. You will have to take care of your garden and dig out the weeds. And when it gets hot in the summer, someone will have to water it.

Don't start your garden unless you are sure your patrol will do the work and take care of it.

But the flowers, or maybe the vegetables, if you plant vegetables, too, will be well worth the effort when they grow.

Now here is a letter from Celia Picchi, of 3212 Juliet street, Pittsburgh. She writes:

"I am sending you more members of the Junior Patrol. We have 10 members in this club. Will you please send me a captain's armband?

"In our club we give plays and talk about the Junior Patrol. I think that we are going to go over with Miss White to give plays. Please send me a badge and the new members their membership cards."

Surely we will, Celia. We are glad to hear that your club likes to give plays. That is one of the best ways to have fun. Especially if you help to make the scenery yourself. Write again and tell us how you get along.

Make plans for the summer now, captains, before school is over. For many children school will be over now in a few weeks.

Oratorical Winner To Be Feted Tonight

A victory celebration for Harvey E. Schauffler, winner of first place in the national oratorical contest held recently in Topeka, Kas., will be given in the auditorium of the Glassport High School tonight. Samuel A. A prize package! When we "put in our thumb" we certainly pulled out a plum of a cotton dress assortment this time!

Just perchance it was that we stumbled over them! Just perchance . . . but what a wonderful find! For these are crossbar voiles . . . ginghams . . . seersucker . . . in plaids and stripes . . . with wooden buttons anchored at the throat . . . the belt . . . or the waist. Such nice colorings like woodsy browns and oranges . . . blues in three tones with a touch of red to liven them up! And belting bows . . . pockets . . . wideish revers making them stand out from among the firmament of their kind! AND . . . only $1.98. Sizes for women and misses.

We are a forgetful soul! For here it has been a week since we promised a fond mamma of our acquaintance that we'd buy her little Jimmy a sunsuit so his tummy and shoulders could get nice and brown (Jimmy being 10 months old!) And here it was only today that we finally did up and buy it! But we're glad we waited . . . for these are so nice . . . and they just came in!

Sunsuits of print cotton . . . with wide legged pants (if you can call anything so abberviated "pants") . . . and little shoulder straps that button on at the waist in back—which, by the way, has an elastic holding it firm against tiny waistlines, at 39c. And others (we got him one of these) of seersucker in red and white diagonal stripes . . . with a big navy blue anchor appliqued on the chest and a general nautical flavor! 59c.

And then the ones that look as if they had been handknitted! Of wool . . . with their little trunks wearing ribbed knitting at the top and bottom . . . and diminutive "suspenders" hiking it around young torsos! In navy, red, blue, white, and bright green! $1.50.

Go N by E the way we did in this store and you'll find the same summer evening cottons that we did! Look at them and you'll probably end up by buying a couple (which we didn't . . . but wanted to!) Anyhow . . . see them!

For they are brand new . . . the pick of the cotton crop that you hear so much about! Be sure to see the chintzy print at $10.95 . . . an evening dress at a daytime price that will make even the strictest budgeteer smirk smartly! This one has a cascade of ruffles going down the back from the waist, and is deliciously feminine in all its quaintness! Of pique voile . . . 12 to 20. And there's a matelasse organdie at the same price . . . sweet!

LEGION BACKS TEACHER OATH

By a Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK, May 16.—The New York state organization of the American Legion has asked Gov. Lehman to sign the Ives bill which would compel all teachers in the state's public schools to take oath of allegiance to the federal and state constitutions.

The Legion's support of the bill followed action by some 700 teachers in the New York City schools in sending a petition to the Governor, asking that the measure be vetoed because it would restrict the instructors' "academic freedom."

That some of the 700 teachers who signed the protest petitions did so under a misapprehension as to the meaning of the bill and its sponsorship is indicated by a letter received by the New York American. The letter, from B. A. Friedman, of Brooklyn, says in part:

"In view of the publicity given the recent petition signed by 700 teachers, and its apparent sponsorship by communists, I wish to make it clear that I would not have signed the petition had I taken the precaution of ascertaining its sponsors."

Dorothy Seeks Shelter After Beating

Synopsis

Nick Charles, noted detective, who tells the story of "The Thin Man," and Nick's wife, Nora, meet Dorothy Wynant, daughter of a former client, in a speakeasy. Dorothy asks where her father is and Nick refers her to Herbert Macaulay, Wynant's attorney. Macaulay calls on Nick and tells him Mimi, Wynant's divorced wife, is hunting him.

Next day Nick reads of the murder of Julia Wolf, Wynant's secretary. Mimi found the body when she went to get Wynant's address.

While a Mr. Norman is telephoning to Nick a loud report as of a shot is heard and his words end abruptly.

It is learned Julia was a former sweetheart of a racketeer.

Dorothy appears at Nick's apartment and flashes a gun which she says she got in a speakeasy. She is drunk and Nora puts her to bed. Morelli, a gangster, is suspected in Julia's murder.

Now go on with Charles' narrative.

Nora said: "You're just showing off, that's all it is. And what for? I know bullets bounce off you. You don't have to prove it to me."

"It's not going to hurt me to get up."

"And it's not going to hurt you to stay in bed at least one day. The doctor said—"

"If he knew anything he'd cure his own snuffles." I sat up and put my feet on the floor. Asta tickled them with her tongue.

I stood up cautiously and seemed to be all right as long as I went easy with my left arm and kept out of the way of Asta's front feet.

"Be reasonable," I said. "I didn't want to get mixed up with those people—still don't—but a fat lot of good that's doing me. Well, I can't just blunder out of it. I've got to see."

"Let's go away," she suggested. "Let's go to Bermuda or Havana for a week or two, or back to the Coast."

"I'd still have to tell the police some kind of story about that gun. And suppose it turns out to be the gun she was killed with? If they don't know already they're finding out."

"Do you really think it is?"

To Visit Jorgensens

"That's guessing. We'll go there for dinner tonight and—"

"We'll do nothing of the kind. Have you gone completely nuts? If you want to see anybody have them come here."

"It's not the same thing." I put my arms around her. "Stop worrying about this scratch. I'm all right."

"You're showing off," she said. "You want to let people see you're a hero who can't be stopped by bullets."

"Don't be nasty."

"I will be nasty. I'm not going to have you—"

I shut her mouth with a hand over it. "I want to see the Jorgensens together at home. I want to see Macaulay, and I want to see Studsy Burke. I've been pushed around too much. I've got to see about things."

"You're so damned pig-headed," she complained. "Well, it's only 5 o'clock. Lie down till it's time to dress."

I made myself comfortable on the living room sofa. We had the afternoon papers sent up. Morelli, it seemed, had shot me—twice for one of the papers and three times for another—when I tried to arrest him for Julia Wolf's murder, and I was too near death to see anybody or to be moved to a hospital. There were pictures of Morelli and a 13-year-old one of me in a pretty funny-looking hat, taken, I remembered, when I was working on the Wall street explosion. Most of the follow-up stories on the murder of Julia Wolf were rather vague. We were reading them when our little constant visitor, Dorothy Wynant, arrived.

Beaten by Mother

I could hear her at the door when Nora opened it: "They wouldn't send my name up, so I sneaked up. Please don't send me away. I can help nurse Nick. I'll do anything. Please, Nora."

Nora had a chance then to say: "Come on in."

Dorothy came in. She goggled at me. "B-but the papers said you—"

"Do I look like I'm dying? What's happened to you?" Her lower lip was swollen and cut near one corner, there was a bruise on one cheek-bone and two fingernail scratches down the other cheek, and her eyes were red and swollen.

"Mamma beat me," she said. "Look." She dropped her coat on the floor, tore off a button unbuttoning her dress, took an arm out of its sleeve and pushed the dress down to show her back. There were dark bruises on her arm, and her back was criss-crossed by long red welts. She was crying now. "See?"

Nora put an arm around her. "You poor kid."

"What'd she beat you for?" I asked.

Couldn't Tell Anything

She turned from Nora and knelt on the floor beside my sofa. Asta came over and nuzzled her. "She thought I came—came to see you about Father and Julia Wolf." Sobs broke up her sentences. "That's why she came over here—to find out—and you made her think I didn't. You—you made her think you didn't care anything about what happened—just like you made me—and she was all right till she saw the papers this afternoon. Then she knew—she knew you'd been lying about not having anything to do with it. She beat me to try to make me tell her what I'd told you."

"What'd you tell her?"

"I couldn't tell her anything. I—I couldn't tell her about Chris. I couldn't tell her anything."

"Was he there?"

"Yes."

"And he let her beat you like this?"

"I—it he—he never makes her stop."

I said to Nora: "For heaven's sake, let's have a drink."

Nora said, "Sure," picked up Dorothy's coat, laid it across the back of a chair, and went into the pantry.

Dorothy said: "Please let me stay here, Nick. I won't be any trouble, honestly, and you told me yourself I ought to walk out on them. You know you did, and I've got nowhere else to go. Please."

'Must Know Something'

"Take it easy. This thing needs a little figuring out. I'm as much afraid of Mimi as you are, you know. What did she think you'd told me?"

"She must know something—something about the murder that she thinks I know—but I don't, Nick. Honest to God, I don't."

"That helps a lot," I complained. "But listen, sister: there are things you know and we're going to start with those. You come clean at and from the beginning—or we don't play."

She made a movement as if she were about to cross her heart. "I swear I will," she said.

"That'll be swell. Now let's drink." We took a glass apiece from Nora. "Tell her you were leaving for good?"

"No, I didn't say anything. Maybe she doesn't know yet I'm not in my room."

"That helps some."

"You're not going to make me go back?" she cried.

Nora said over her glass: "The child can't stay and be beaten like that, Nick."

I said: "Sh-h-h. I don't know. I was just thinking that if we're going there for dinner maybe it's better for Mimi not to know—"

Dorothy stared at me with horrified eyes while Nora said: "Don't think you're going to take me there now."

Contract Bridge -:- HOW TO PLAY and HOW TO WIN

By JOSEPHINE CULBERTSON

Establishing Communications

A vital factor to the defense in a majority of hands at Contract Bridge is the establishment of a line of communication between the defending hands. Equally, it is one of the responsibilities of the Declarer to prevent, if possible, ready exits and entries from one defending hand to the other. Every good bridge player watches with care his cards of exit and seeks in certain situations, even by unusual means, to create cards of entry for his partner so that a desired lead may be made and thus possibly defeat what may appear to be an impregnable contract.

The North player in the hand below was faced with what was obviously a very difficult problem in attempting to put his partner in the lead so that West's contract of four spades might be defeated. The method by which he found the solution to this problem is interesting indeed.

West, dealer.
East and West vulnerable.

	♠ K 5 4 ♡ A ◇ K Q 8 4 ♣ Q 10 8 4 2
♠ A J 10 9 8 ♡ K J 10 7 ◇ A 9 7 ♣ J	North West East South	♠ Q 7 3 2 ♡ Q 9 6 2 ◇ 6 5 ♣ A K 7
	♠ 6 ♡ 8 5 4 3 ◇ J 10 3 2 ♣ 9 6 5 3

The bidding.

West	North	East	South
1 ♠	2 ♣	3 ♠	Pass
4 ♠	Pass	Pass	Pass

The bidding is simple enough. West was quite correct in refusing to show his heart suit after his partner's double raise of the spades, although it is possible that had he bid four hearts over three spades the play of the hand would have assumed a different course.

North's opening lead was the Ace of hearts, and when the Dummy went down on the table it was apparent to him that if the contract was to be defeated unusual means must be taken, as obviously the only tricks in sight for the North and South players were all in the North hand. They were the Ace of hearts, a diamond trick and the spade King. The only hope, as North viewed the situation, of securing another trick was to be able to ruff a heart. To do this it was essential that South be put in the lead at least once, and the Dummy disclosed that the only chance of doing this was through the diamond suit. The Ace-King of clubs were apparently an inseperable barrier to any club entry in the South hand when coupled with North's holding in that suit.

The chance then of defeating the contract rested upon South holding both the Knave and Ten of diamonds, and North, after reasoning this out, boldly led a small diamond from his four-card suit headed by the King-Queen. A small diamond was played from Dummy, South played the Ten, and West, seeing that the hold-up would be futile, took the trick with the Ace and now laid down the Ace of trumps, hoping to find that the adversely held trumps would break 2-2, in which case the hand could still be made. It was, as West feared, a vain hope, as North won the second trump trick with the King, and South discarded. Continuing his plan of campaign, North now led his remaining small diamond, which South won with the Knave and returned a heart, giving to his partner the ruff which defeated the contract.

It is easy to see that North adopted the only method of defeating the contract against sound play by the Declarer. Had he chosen instead the lead of either the King or Queen of diamonds, West would have refused to win the first trick and would thereby have been enabled to effectually shut out North's hope of a ruff.

Against the line of defense adopted by North, West was helpless. Some persons might say that this play is spectacular and based upon knowledge of the location of the cards. As a matter of fact, this is not the case. North has but this one chance, slender though it is, of defeating the contract—that is, to find his partner with the two vital cards in the diamond suit. West, on the bidding, is quite clearly marked with the diamond Ace.

TOMORROW'S HAND

South, Dealer.

Pattern 1625

Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph 15c Practical Pattern

It seems as though life were demanding more and more of women. It used to be that if a woman looked neat and fresh about the house it was all that anyone could ask of her—but that is not so today. She has to be smart and pretty every moment of her life. After all though—to be quite fair—why shouldn't she, when a pattern like this costs so little—can be run up in next to no time—and the counters of the cotton goods departments are piled high with ravishing fabrics crying to be taken home for a song.

Pattern 1625 is available in sizes 14, 16, 18, 20, 32, 34, 36, 38, 40, 42 and 44. Size 16 takes 3¼ yards 36-inch fabric. Illustrated step-by-step sewing instructions included.

Send 15 CENTS in coins or stamps (coins preferred) for this pattern. Write plainly name, address and style number. BE SURE TO STATE SIZE.

Get the Habit of Drinking Hot Water Before Breakfast

Millions of folks bathe internally now instead of loading their system with drugs. "What's an inside bath?" you say. Well, it is guaranteed to perform miracles if you could believe these hot water enthusiasts.

There are vast numbers of men and women who, immediately upon arising in the morning, drink a glass of real hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it. This is a very excellent health measure. It is intended to flush the stomach, liver, kidneys and the thirty feet of intestines of the previous day's waste, sour bile and indigestible material left over in the body which if not eliminated every day, become food for the millions of bacteria which infest the bowels, the quick result is poisons and toxins which are then absorbed into the blood causing headache, bilious attacks, foul breath, bad taste, colds, stomach trouble, kidney misery, sleeplessness, impure blood and all sorts of ailments.

People who feel good one day and badly the next, but who simply can not get feeling right are urged to obtain a quarter pound of limestone phosphate at the drug store. This will cost very little but is sufficient to make anyone a real crank on the subject of internal sanitation.

Just as soap and hot water act on the skin, cleansing, sweetening and freshening, so limestone phosphate and hot water act on the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels. It is vastly more important to bathe on the inside than on the outside, because the skin pores do not absorb impurities into the blood, while the bowel pores do.

SPEAK UP, SISTERS

:-: Glances Into the Realms of Domesticity and Romance :-:

By MARION BRUNOT

Boy Advised to Forget Girl Breaking Date

When a fellow keeps asking a girl for a DATE, and she puts him off. Then finally gives him a certain night to call, and before the time breaks it off with him, what is the poor fellow to do?

That is B. M.'s query.

And worse luck! He says he simply can't forget her.

Funny how some people thrive under ill treatment. Something like those poor little bedraggled posies that bloom in a gutter. Nothing stops that sort of life. Or love. Eh!

Miss Brunot

Yet all I can suggest to this young man is that HE DOES FORGET THIS GIRL. There are so many others to select from, B. M. So why waste your sweetness on the desert air.

You see, after all, a girl has no other way to show you she doesn't care, than to say "no" to your dates.

I am fond of persistence. It is the quality that often wins. Yet mis-directed persistence is surely a waste of valuable time. The thing is, fellow, one must know when to keep right on. And when to quit. We christen such a faculty with the name of good old COMMON SENSE.

DIFFERENCE IN AGES

Dear Miss Brunot:

I have been getting the Sun-Telegraph for a number of months, and I always read your Speak Up, Sisters. I am a girl of 15, and well liked by my friends. I get most everything I want, and have traveled from coast to coast. And have met with plenty of people.

Some while back I met a fellow who is 25, and well liked. He is of the movie-star type, wavy hair, well built, good natured, and not a bit stuck up. As young men of this type so often are. Eight months ago he and I being neighbors became very friendly, as he is to many.

But he gave me the most time. And as I bother very little with girls, that meant a-plenty. He says he likes me very much, and is sorry I am not a couple of years older.

HIS PARENTS OPPOSED

My parents know him and speak well of him, but don't know of our deep friendship, and also I have been to his home, and his parents treated me fine. Yet he says they are opposed to me on account of my extreme youth.

He says he will wait for me.

Yet he says he feels on account of my age, in time, I will leave him out in the cold.

Dear Miss Brunot, please advise me in this matter. I am deeply in love with him. He says he feels the same way, yet perhaps I had better leave him flat.

Please give me your opinion.

TEARS.

You are very young, I agree, but perhaps on account of your travels, etc., are old for your years. You must be or such an outstanding young fellow of 25 would not admire you. I can't see why you should leave him FLAT. Just drift along being friends, and each day will make you older. And if the years are kind and you and he still care, the day will come when the difference in your ages won't count.

However, in the meanwhile while don't demand too much from one another in the way of not making other dates.

ANOTHER DOT'S PROBLEM

Another DOT writes me. She says:

Dear Miss Brunot:

Last week I read in your column about DOT. She was 15 and loved a fellow, 20. Her parents didn't think this fellow fit for her. But the girl, Dot, was in love with him. My name is Dot, and her case and mine are exactly alike.

You said for her to continue with her school work and to forget the boy. That she would meet other boys. Maybe you are right. But I have gone out with other boys and just don't seem to care for my new acquaintances. Every time I see my so-called sweetheart I begin to cry and shake.

People say things about him, and his past, and my mother thinks him bad. I knew him for over six months and never saw anything out of the way about him. What shall I do? Mother says I mustn't dare go with him, but I love him so.

Many times I think of running away. I feel there is no justice where true love is.

MOST DESPERATE DOT.

Dear little Dot, don't do anything you might always regret. Fifteen is very young, and even if you feel you are a full-fledged woman and truly in love, the time may come when you look back, and when such a time does come, don't you want to be able to laugh instead of cry?

Your mother is right, and even though this young man may behave himself in your presence, the chances are, in some way, he had earned the reputation he has. There is something about the wrong sort of experience in a young man, that often attracts a young girl like you. You've had the danger signal raised for you. Heed it, sister.

NEEDS FRIENDS

Dear Miss Brunot:

I am a girl of 16. I wear nice clothes. Am fairly good looking, but haven't any boys to run around with. I need friends badly. Please help he.

LONELY.

Try and keep away from morbid thoughts. There is something in your pensmanship that tells me to say this to you. Also be out in the sunshine as much as possible. Play outdoor games; swim, for instance. The boys like healthy-minded, amiable, smiling girls.

These things count more than fine clothes and even features.

Fashion Flashes

By ALICE ALDEN

Cool weather in the summer generally brings out light fur capes. Nice for wear with summer evening things is a cape of monkey fur, also dyed navy blue.

Win admiration by wearing a smart black and white frock. A new and original model is a tunic frock of heavy white sheer woolen, trimmed with bands of inky-black monkey fur.

A sparkling path is cut by a new pump in twilled cloth and kid, with pipings of antique silver kid. The heel is trimmed with line-liked bands of chromium and there are ornaments of the same metal.

Pretty and practical is an informal dinner suit of black satin, with a long jacket and long skirt. The blouse is of white and gold lame with a thread of blue in it. The costume is worn with a black horsehair halo hat.

Reel and Real Balanced by Stars Would Help, Says Fay King

By FAY KING

Maybe "happiest marriages" in the movies would last longer if the stars were more reel and less real in their home life.

Too often it seems that in their private life they are quite different from their highly successful roles on the screen.

Certainly no siren in slacks could hope to hold her film followers, yet we see snapshots of her dressed like that off the screen hoping to hold her husband.

The Pollyanna star would be a great box office flop trying to play Portia, yet off the screen we are to understand that she is the shrewdest of business women.

The sophisticated flapper who fascinates millions of fans is so demure and domesticated at home that her husband, who prefers sophistication, begins to seek elsewhere!

FIVE O'CLOCK STYLES FOR SUNNY DAYS

By PRUNELLA WOOD

IT'S A PLEASURE to walk down the Avenue these days—on both sides of the window panes you see the prettiest clothes of an afternoon that any spring has offered up in years. Something optimistic has happened to our girl friends; they are investing in dressier daytime clothes.

One smart new touch is the Queen Christina collar done in dark organza as an accent for printed crepe jacket frocks. It is practical, beguiling and very townish. It is used only on prints which have a light ground, of course, and it matches the navy, brown or black wiggles in the print.

THERE IS A NEW wrinkle in print and plain costumes which pleases; it is the plain coat with sleeves and yoke of the print which matches the frock. Remove the coat, and there you have a really dressy, almost sleeveless gown of bright colors for the tea dance.

As usual for this season of the year there are some new tricks in pastel afternoon frocks. The short crepe or thin wool jacket in rich turquoise, worn over a one-piece frock of paler blue, is in this genre, and of course it is just as pretty in suntan, canary or rose. Many jackets of this sort have short sleeves cuffed deeply in dyed white fox, gray or beige being favorites.

SMART ACCESSORIES for these outfits which throng cafes at tea-time include the stunning new alligator purses. Copper, paddy green, several blues and even white models can be found.

(Copyright, 1934, King Features Snydicate, Inc.)

There is unusual grace in the flare of sleeve, coat and bertha collar in this red and white print crepe. Vest and epaulettes are lace.

Household Hints

If a dessertspoon of corn flour is used when scrambling eggs it will make one egg go as far as two.

Knitted articles often curl at the ends. Pin them to the ironing board before placing a damp cloth on them, then press.

A piece of horseradish placed in a jar of pickles will keep the vinegar from losing its strength. It will also keep the pickles from getting soft or moldy.

Announcing the Engagement

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I have just recently become engaged and I am wearing my ring, although I will not be married until early winter. Would it be proper to announce my engagement in the paper now, or just before I get married?

D.

If you have been wearing your ring, this amounts to an announcement of your engagement, doesn't it? That is, don't your friends, or at least most of them, already know of your engagement, since they have seen your ring? It would now seem to me not necessary to make any announcement of your engagement, but if you feel that you wish to make one, it should be made now.

The rule is that a girl doesn't wear her ring in public until after her engagement has been announced, unless she wishes to announce it by wearing her ring.

Hugh Thankful for Madge's Escape

I acknowledged the patness of Lillian's smile as I saw Avis Arlen's reaction to my father's threat to put her in a small room and lock the door upon her until morning, unless she returned at once to the room which she shared with her mother.

She was like a deflated balloon in the completeness of her collapse from the confident air with which she had invested her appeal to Hugh. She almost seemed to shrink in stature as she cowered before my father's threat in so abject a fashion that it tinged my pity for her with contempt.

"Oh, don't do that!" she pleaded hoarsely. "I'll go back to mummy at once; but please, please don't lock any door on me."

She was retreating as she spoke toward the door of her own room, her hands spread behind her, her face turned toward my father with eyes fixed unwinkingly upon his countenance, as if she were in deadly fear that an instant's inattention on her part would bring upon her the punishment she so feared.

"Then lock your own upon yourself at once, and keep the key safely by you," my father said in a tone that I had never heard him use to a woman before.

AVIS OBEYS

"Yes, yes, I will," Avis promised chokingly, with her hand upon her own door knob.

"All right," my father said. "But don't you dare open that door until someone calls you in the morning. You will be summoned in plenty of time for breakfast."

"Yes, yes," Avis chattered again, and soon the door had opened and closed upon her, and Hugh was putting a feverish question to my father.

"Do you think Lee Chow has really gone mad, or is he shamming?"

My father hesitated perceptibly before he replied.

"Frankly, I can't tell," he said. "It looked to me very much like an authentic seizure of insanity. But you know what a consummate doctor he is. I do not know him well enough to detect his fraud if he is committing one. That is why I have sent for you."

"I am not sure that I shall be able to detect the difference between a real and pretended seizure," Hugh replied in a troubled voice. "But, at least, no one knows him so well as I do, and I shall watch his reactions very carefully. But tell me. Has your daughter suffered any harm from the fright he gave her? Harry told me of his pursuit of her up the stairs, and of Lillian slamming and locking the nursery door against him just in time."

HUGH RUSHES TO MADGE

"I do not think Margaret is any the worse for the experience," my father said slowly, "although, of course, it was nerve racking. But if you don't mind the delay, you may see for yourself how she is. She and Lillian are still in the nursery."

"Oh, may I?" There was a note of joy in his voice which would have quickened the pulses of any woman who had brought it there, and I found myself fighting to repress the quickened breathing and the heightened color which would have betrayed to Lillian my reaction to that fervent query.

But Lillian apparently was paying no attention to me. She was moving away from me toward the light switch.

"We'll stage a little illumination in their honor," she said, smiling whimsically, as she turned on the light switch.

And then Hugh was in the room, having rushed ahead of my father, and with voice and eyes unguarded was saying, as he caught my hands and held them, "Thank God, you are safe and unharmed. I never should have left you had I dreamed he would come back."

How to Keep Well

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

Endocarditis and Other Heart Ills on Increase

Endocarditis is really a form of heart disease. It is a type that demands expert medical attention. I am speaking of it today because a recent report shows a marked increase in the number of cases of heart disease, and particularly endocarditis.

Dr. Copeland

Endocarditis, as its name implies, is an inflammation of the endocardium, the delicate lining of the heart. This membrane becomes inflammed as a result of the presence of poisonous agents that circulate in the blood stream and reach the heart.

CAUSED BY A GERM

Many different germs are capable of causing endocarditis. The most dangerous are the "streptococci." These germs set up a serious and sometimes fatal inflammation of the heart. Cases that recover may be permanently damaged by scar formation in the endocardium or lining of the heart. This is most apt to involve the valves of the heart and is likely to result in permanent heart murmur.

Mumurs, or the noise of the "leaks," as they are frequently called, are abnormal sounds from the heart caused by the inadequate closing and opening of the valves of that organ. As a result of this valvular imperfection, the heart is unable properly to perform its work. When undue strain or fatigue is placed upon a damaged heart it is unable to "carry on."

In what I have said, I do not mean to imply that all heart murmurs are serious and indicate a fatal outcome. Many valvular disturbances are mild in their nature and do not prevent the heart from performing its work without signs of fatigue. Then there is what is spoken of as a "compensated heart" and its possession need cause no alarm, providing adequate precautions are taken.

Endocarditis often follows acute rheumatic fever, chorea, tonsilitis and other infectious diseases. It may occur as a complication of pneumonia, grippe, influenza and other respiratory infections.

The victim of endocarditis must avoid all undue strain, fatigue and undernourishment. He must guard against infections and disabling diseases. Diet and the degree of activity can only be prescribed by your physician. Each case requires special medication, individual restrictions and treatment.

Trust to Science—Not Luck . . . in Your Next Permanent Wave

It would be possible to copy our advertising, but never our present method and technique in permanent waving. The Reason—simply that due to constant research in chemistry, as it applies to the hair, we are always a few steps ahead of our competitors. And let us add that exacting research can only be accomplished if the hairdresser has a well-founded knowledge of chemistry. Without this knowledge it would be impossible to anticipate the reactions of various chemicals on the many different qualities of hair.

Patricia Pitt's Sprightly Comment on Pittsburgh's Society Happenings

In Mayfair —With— Patricia Pitt

Probably the only socially important dinner party in the history of Pittsburgh at which no one smoked was the Pittsburgh Symphony Society dinner last night at the Hotel Schenley to open the orchestra's campaign for $100,000.

The reason—Rosa Ponselle, the great singer, was one of the distinguished guests. And smoking irritates her throat.

And since everyone at the dinner honors musicians, and since everyone, too, wanted to hear Rosa Ponselle at her best when she sings tonight at Syria Mosque as the guest soloist of the Pittsburgh Symphony, no one smoked, and what's more, no one complained.

Striking Costume Worn By Noted Singer

But before the dessert was served there was a rush for the corridors of the hotel of men and women craving a cigaret. Even the Mayor strolled out, smiling at the mob of smokers.

From every point of view, including that of fashion, the dinner last night was a brilliant affair. Many of Pittsburgh's smartest women were there, wearing new spring gowns.

One of the most striking costumes last night was that of the great Rosa Ponselle, who, with white-haired, venerated Walter Damrosch, was a guest of honor.

Her dinner gown was of printed smoky, dark, brilliant blue with long sleeves of plain blue puffed at the shoulder in leg o' mutton fashion. So heavy were her masses of black hair that at first one wondered if she were wearing one of the new evening hats.

Black Predominating Color of Fashionables

Many of Pittsburgh's fashionables distinguished for their support of all things musical wore black—Mrs. William Maclay Hall, president of the Symphony Society; Mrs. Herbert DuPuy, Mrs. J. Frank Drake (her gown was a graceful affair of black lace with a train), Mrs. Franklin C. Irish, Mrs. Enoch Rauh, Mrs. T. W. Phillips, Jr. and scores more. Mrs. William Thaw, Jr., outstanding for her interest in music in Pittsburgh, chose blue.

For color, the dinner depended on the attractive post-debs who were asked to usher, under the chairmanship of slender Virginia Drake. Virginia herself chose an interesting printed dull blue chiffon dress with a fichu scarf of the same material.

Sailor collars are coming out in the evening now—Lucile Todd's pistachio green crepe evening gown was distinguished by a frivolous adaptation of the sailor collar fashioned of cloth of silver, resembling beaten silver.

Atractive Gowns In Evidence

Stiffened crocheted, open mesh ruffles, dyed blue to match her gown, cascaded in bustle fashion down the back of Frances Johnston's interesting dress.

Refreshingly new were petite Marie Louise Bickford's and Laura Oliver's gowns—both wore demure taffeta gowns, plaid in good old gingham style. Patsy Mellon was in rose crepe; Sylvia Robertson in pink beige linen lace; Louise Reed in black with a scarf of the material worn over one shoulder; Katharine Frazer in a graceful long-sleeved dinner gown of stiffened black lace; Harriet Fickes in white, Rita Borntraeger in ageratum-blue chiffon (a lovely shade.)

Representing Pittsburgh's young men was Paul Mellon, who sat at the speakers' table at Rosa Ponselle's right.

Smart Set Well Represented

Mrs. E. W. Mudge, Mrs. Joseph H. Bialas, Mrs. F. I. Merrick, Lydia Irish in black satin, the Edwin Rheas, Mrs. W. Edgar Reed, Betty Nicholson, Elizabeth Jenkins, Betty Kennedy, Mrs. T. Howe Nimick, Mrs. H. Mason Reed, Jane Sloan, Kathleen Guthrie, Mrs. Edwin Ruud, Georgia Orwig and Mrs. George P. Bassett were there.

Mrs. Wallace Hurtte Rowe, Jr., wore a striking gown—of white satin, printed with small black polka dots. Mrs. Horace Forbes Baker was there, Mrs. William N. Frew, Mrs. Samuel Harden Church, Mrs. Leonard Mudge, Mrs. Reed Brown, Mrs. William N. Frew, Mrs. William R. Scott and scores and scores and scores more.

Stately, black-haired Helen Mossman, daughter of the Paul B. Mossmans, is to become the bride of Elmer A. Diebold, Jr., son of the Elmer A. Diebolds, of Fox Chapel, at her parents' Fox Chapel home this afternoon at 5:30 o'clock. Officiating is to be the Rev. Father William Shaughnessy.

The bride's gown is to be of ivory satin, fashioned with a court train and long, tight-fitting sleeves. Her veil is to cascade from a coronet. And she'll carry calla lilies.

Harriet Huber, of Shelby, O., as maid of honor is to wear a picturesque frock of peach organza, fashioned with a brief matching jacket, and a brown flower-petal hat with a brief veil. Justine Diebold and Sally Cooper as bridesmaids will wear similar gowns in blue and peach shades. The bridesmaid-in-blue will wear a deeper blue flower-petal hat. All three will carry Dresden bouquets.

West Penn Cot Club To Mark Anniversary

June will bring a momentful occasion to a group of Pittsburgh women philanthropists, members of the West Penn Cot Club. The Cot Club will celebrate its fortieth anniversary June 8 with a dinner-dance at Longue Vue Country Club.

General chairman of the anniversary dinner-dance will be Mrs. William H. Normecutt and Mrs. Charles H. Johnston. Taking charge of publicity for the event will be Mrs. Theodore F. Smith, Mrs. Walter Laird, Mrs. James Dalby and Charlotte Jefferis.

Others Assigned To Committees

Assigned to secure a list of patronesses for the event are Miss Josephine Babst and Mrs. Curtis Yohe. Arranging novelties are Mrs. Brice Lemon, Mrs. William Y. Cocken, Mrs. Wilson A Hanna and Mrs. Roderick M. Chester.

In charge of the aides will be Mrs. William B. Todd and Mrs. Dickson K. Coyle. Mrs. George M. Rowland and Mrs. James M. Duncan form the music committee, and Mrs. Alan S. Davison, Mrs. William W. Ford, Mrs. Clifton Close and Mrs. Lewis P. Fawcett, the card committee. For there'll be cards as well as dancing to entertain guests.

Miss Viola Smykla to Wed C. M. Steel Tonight

At her wedding tonight at 5 o'clock in the Episcopal Church of the Redeemer, Forbes street, Miss Viola Louise Smykla will wear a gown of graceful white suede lace made with a Queen Anne collar effect on the jacket, long, tight sleeves, and the jacket will extend into a long train, with a shorter train on the gown. Her veil of white tulle will be finished with a coronet embroidered with pearls. She will carry orchids and lilies of the valley.

Miss Smykla, who is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Sobieski Smykla, of Pittsburgh, will marry Christopher Magee Steel, and the Rev. Dr. Robert Nelson Meade will officiate.

Mrs. John Smykla Cipa, as her sister's matron of honor, will wear royal blue chiffon with navy blue gloves and slippers and will carry Talisman roses. The bridesmaids, Miss Sally Margaret Smykla, of Erie, Pa., cousin of the bride, and Miss Florence Morgano, of Pittsburgh, will wear gowns of delicate peach colored chiffon with large brown hats and accessories of brown. They will carry Dresden bouquets. The mother of the bride will appear in navy blue sheer crepe.

John Fremont Steel is serving as his brother's best man and ushers will be John Steel Burnett and John Parker Cipa.

The reception and dinner will be held in the Hotel Schenley. After a wedding trip through the Northwest Canada and Alaska, Mr. and Mrs. Christopher Magee Steel will be at home in Beacon street, after September 15.

Literary Club Hears Three Speakers

Two groups of soprano solos by Mrs. Adele Eggers Furniss, Mrs. H. P. MacKown accompanying, and piano numbers by Mrs. Gertrude Robinson Doods made up the musical portion of Monday's program for the Pittsburgh Literary and Musical club.

The papers, which were on "Extremes of Climate in South America" and "A Look Backward," were given by Mrs. J. W. Sims and Mrs. Furniss. Mrs. Mary J. Cawley added a talk concerning her recent trip to the Virginia apple blossom festival.

Miss Moseley To Marry on June 2

Miss Irene J. Moseley announces her completed bridal party. Her marriage to Charles Edward Friebertshauser, son of Mrs. Edward Friebertshauser, of Douglas avenue, is to take place June 2 in Calvary Protestant Episcopal Church. She is a daughter of Mrs. Elizabeth Stedman Moseley, of the King Edward Apartments.

Mrs. Robert Rose, of Springfield, Mass., is to be matron of honor, and Mrs. John Sexauer will be bridesmaid. Richard Friebertshauser is to be his brother's best man, and ushers will include four Pittsburghers, DeWalt Hicks, Russell Cullen, Dr. John Sexauer and James Small, and from Zanesville, O., Charles Windecker, and from Lakewood, O., Edward Allen.

There is to be a reception for the bridal party and a few close friends in the Pittsburgh Country Club after the ceremony is to take place at 5:30 o'clock. The Rev. E. J. Van Etten will officiate.

Jewish Juniors To Close Year

Two important events will close the year for the Pittsburgh Section, National Council of Jewish Juniors. The activities which have been scheduled for Sunday, May 27, will open with a president's luncheon at the Concordia Club honoring the retiring president, Miss Rhoda Levy. Miss Belle Fineman is chairman of reservations for the luncheon.

Immediately after the luncheon, the last regular business meeting of the year is to be held at the Y. M. and W. H. A. There will be a resume of the year's work in brief reports by department chairman, also election and installation of officers. An illustrated movie talk on the Century of Progress Exposition and a tea will conclude the day's program. Members of the program committee will serve as tea aides.

Young Women To Have Program

At 1:30 on Thursday afternoons during May an international home forum will be conducted over KDKA under auspices of the Young Women's Christian Association in observance of world fellowship month. Miss Evelyn Gardiner will conduct the forums which will be presented by groups from International Institute.

The series will include a Hungarian wedding feast, recreation in a Jugo-Slavic village, Polish customs, Czechko-Slovakian home life and Syrian hospitality.

Miss Theresa Jean Billante, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Billante, of Olympia street, Mt. Washington, has chosen June 6 as the date for her marriage to Emil Greenhall, of Cleveland, O.

Miss Rose Danahey entertained for the bride-elect in the Buffalo Inn, South Park, Saturday afternoon at 4 o'clock.

In the home of Mrs. Douglas Miner the Woman's Club of Forest Hills will meet tomorrow for election of officers and special business. Mrs. J. V. Dobson is scheduled to give a book review during the program hour and Mrs. Miner will present piano solos.

Werlinich Nuptials Tonight

At 7:30 o'clock this evening in the Mt. Calvary Lutheran Church, McKees Rocks, Miss Marie Werlinich will marry Walter F. Bittner. Miss Werlinich is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Werlinich, of Wayne avenue, McKees Rocks, and she is marrying the son of the late August and Augusta Bittner.

The bride is having her three sisters among her attendants. Miss Helen Werlinich is to be maid of honer, another sister, Vera, will be bridesmaid, as will a niece of the bridegroom, Dorothy Greenawald, and her youngest sister, Dorothy Werlinich, will be flower girl.

Edwin Bittner will be his brother's best man and ushers will include another brother, Charles Bittner, Raymond Stecht, a brother of the bride, Samuel Werlinich, and her cousin Nick Werlinich.

After the ceremony there will be a reception and a dinner for 100 guests in the Hotel Webster Hall. Mr. Bittner and his bride will leave on a motor trip through the Shenandoah Valley and will make their home in Jane street, McKees Rocks, when they return.

The bride is a graduate of Slippery Rock State Teachers' College and has been teaching in the elementary schools of McKees Rocks. Mr. Bittner is Sunday School superintendant of the Mt. Calvary Lutheran Church.

Homewood Lists Post-Season Events

A number of post-season affairs are scheduled by the Homewood Woman's Club which closed its year Monday with the annual business meeting in Homewood Carnegie Library. The annual luncheon is set for May 28 at the College Club, with Mrs. J. A. Crisman and Mrs. H. F. Carson taking reservations.

Mrs. Earl Reid, of Crescent Pines, will open her home for a box luncheon and garden party on June 22 and for this Mrs. John Taylor, garden committee chairman, is receiving reservations. Mrs. Elgin A. Hill and Mrs. W. L. Gable are in charge of an entertainment to be given Saturday evening, June 9, for the Juvenile Court children.

Club members are invited to the Homewood Brushton Y. M. C. A. camp, Konokee, on Saturday, July 14.

Mrs. J. G. Chalfant Civic Club Speaker

Mrs. J. G. Chalfant, district president of the State Federation of Pennsylvania Women, will speak on "Club Ethics" before the Bradford Woods Civic Club tomorrow. Mrs. J. Charles Runk and Mrs. J. Roberts will assist the hostess, Mrs. F. Barnhart.

Department Added to Club

By MRS. CHARLES M. BREGG

Another club, the Woman's Club of Wilkinsburg, has formed an evening department in line with the recommendation from the State Federation of Pennsylvania Women. Fourteen juniors have already joined the new department and a number of seniors have allied themselves with it, too. Mrs. R. L. Carl is chairman pro tem.

This makes four departments in the Wilkinsburg Club now—education, drama and fine arts having been flourishing for several years.

In changing the number of its meetings from two a month to one, the club will have its general sessions the first Monday and the departments will each have its individual monthly meeting. Guest speakers will be heard at the general meetings, the departments having what is known as "member programs."

Mrs. Watkins To Attend Institute

Mrs. Arthur C. Watkins, of Washington, education secretary of the National Congress of Parents and Teachers, will be here next Tuesday and Wednesday for a two-day parent-teacher institute under auspices of the Allegheny Council Council of Parent-Teacher Associations. It will be held in the Downtown Y. M. C. A., with sessions morning, afternoon and evening.

Mrs. Walter N. Greenwood, of Coatesville, state president, and Mrs. Arnold White, of Emsworth, state chairman of recreation, will take part in the program both days and at the evening session on Wednesday speakers will be Dr. Ben G. Graham, superintendent of public schools; Dr. C. E. Dickey, superintendent of county schools; Mrs. W. E. Brosius, City Council P. T. A. president and Mrs. John E. Winner, county head.

'Bride Cavalcade' In Ben Avon

Tuesday is the date for the "cavalcade of brides" to be presented by the Ben Avon Chapter of the Young Women's Christian Association in the Ben Avon United Presbyterian Church. Wedding dresses dating from 1834 will be seen in the procession, one of the most interesting features being three generations of wedding gowns.

Miss Hilda Forsberg will wear her great-grandmother's gown of striped taffeta; Carolyn Nichol will wear Mrs. Dan E. Nuttall's gown of the second generation, a lovely thing of gold colored satin with an overskirt of exquisite lace of the same color, and Peggy Forsberg will wear her mother's white satin gown and veil.

'Spyglass'

The Sun-Telegraph's daily feature "Through the Spyglass" appears on Page 22.

JAMES J. LONG'S SPORTS COMMENT

Bucs Leaders in Series
East Wins in American
Few 1909 Players Left
Old Giant Class Missing
Fistic Returns Dwindle
Racer Builds Own Auto

Just how well the Pirates will stand up under the first long road test, starting tomorrow, remains to be seen, but at home in the season's initial intersectional series George Gibson's ballers, pennant leaders again today, made a better record in point of percentage than any club in the National League. They won eight games while losing only two. The Cards scored one more victory, but also suffered one more defeat. The Cubs won eight and lost five, and the Reds won only two while losing eight, the West taking the series, 27 games to 18. The Braves led the East with six victories and five defeats. The Giants won five and lost eight, the Dodgers won four and lost seven, and the Phils won three and lost seven.

George Gibson

Playing at home, the Eastern clubs won the first intersectional argument in the American League, 25 games to 16. The Yankees topped the field, losing only one game out of 10 played. The A's won six and lost three, the Senators won five and lost six, and the Red Sox won five and lost six. Of the western teams, the Indians broke even in 10 games, the Tigers won five and lost six, the Browns four and lost six, and the White Sox won two and lost eight.

FEW SURVIVORS OF PIRATE-TIGER SERIES

Appropriately enough, the appearance of the Tigers here today in an exhibition game with the Pirates comes in a season that marks the silver anniversary of the World Series between the Pittsburgh and Detroit clubs, which brought the first of the two world championships this city boasts in baseball. Twenty-five years ago in Forbes Field's first season, the Bucs and Tigers, managed by Fred Clarke and Hughey Jennings, met in the diamond derby, with the Corsairs taking the title.

Some of the most famous names in baseball history figured in that series—Wagner, Clarke, Gibson, Leach, Adams, Miller, Byrne, Willis, Phillippe, Leifield, Camnitz, Cobb, Crawford, Bush, Donovan, Mullin, Schmidt, Tom and Dave Jones, Moriarty, Willett and more. There are few survivors in the big leagues today—only Gibson and Wagner, as manager and coach of the Pirates, and Moriarty, as an umpire in the American League. Bush returned to the minors this year as manager of Minneapolis. Several of the others are dead, including Jennings, Miller, Schmidt, Donovan and Willett, the last named having passed on only last week.

GIANTS FAIL TO SHOW LAST YEAR'S CLASS

The Giants won the National League pennant last year because they made a better showing on the road than did the Pirates or Cubs. In view of that fact, the poor record of the Terrymen on the western trip just ended would appear to indicate that they lack the class they had in 1933. That Manager Terry himself is disappointed in the club is shown by his efforts to make deals for Babe Herman and Tony Piet.

Bill Terry

The world champions played poorly in all departments on the trip. Their hitting was streaky, and that they couldn't bunch their clouts is shown by the large number of men left on bases. The fielders were guilty of many lapses in the pinches, and few of their games were well pitched. Often there was an absence of the fighting spirit that carried them through to victory in many a tight game last season, and, against the livelier ball, as had been expected, their infield defense wasn't as effective as against the slow-hopper of 1933.

Perhaps it's partly the penalty of success. The Giants were full of fight and the get-there stuff last year because they were going to new places and had the advantage of being dark horses, a club of which little had been expected. This year they're on the spot, expected by their followers to win again, and every rival is training its main guns on them. It's a different condition, and with the pennant novelty partly worn off, and team confidence lessened by the loss of Parmelee, Manager Terry has not been able to arouse the same old fight in them.

The Giants are not to be counted out, of course. They'll be heard from later, no doubt, when they get a new grip on themselves, but so far Terry has found that it's a whole lot easier to win with a club that has been picked for sixth place than it is to live up to what is expected of a club picked for the pennant.

KILBANE SEES GREAT DROP IN RING PAY

Many a fighter has been heard to express regret that he isn't boxing today instead of having been active in years gone by, but you won't hear anything like that from Johnny Kilbane, who was featherweight champion from 1912 to 1923. When Kilbane learned that in the opening round of the championship elimination tournament in his old class each of the four contestants received exactly $28, he remarked that he would be only wasting his time if he were in there again.

For things were vastly different in Johnny's day. He banked $68,000 after knocking out Danny Frush, and his swan song against Eugene Criqui was a $100,000 tune. He collected other large purses all along the road and didn't know in those days that there was a sum as small as $28. At that he has little to show for it. The fates have not dealt kindly with the once great little champion. He dropped $178,000 in a health camp, and other investments went haywire. Now he keeps busy and earns a livelihood through physical education work in the Cleveland public schools and also does some refereeing.

AFTER AUTO TITLE WITH HOME-BUILT CAR

Louie Meyer, of Los Angeles, twice winner of the Indianapolis Speedway automobile race and three times national champion, is going after the honors again this year under novel conditions. He has invested about $7,000 in a four-cylinder racing car of his own design, and the entire machine, with the exception of the frame, tires, etc., was constructed right in his own backyard. Louie has a machine shop there, and, with the aid of Charles Volker, an engineer, and Dale Drake, a mechanic, he put together the entire racer. The three men spent almost a year at their labor.

Louie Meyer

The car is capable of 150 miles an hour and is expected to travel about 13 miles to a gallon of gas. Due to the limited amount of oil the machines are allowed to carry in the Indianapolis race, the tank is between the bumper and radiator, which causes it to cool quickly. In a trial at Ascot, Meyer turned the oval in 31 seconds. He said he could have made 28 seconds easily, properly equipped, which would be sensational speed for such a big car.

They'll Try to Win Back Davis Cup for Your Uncle Samuel

FRANK SHIELDS — GEORGE M. LOTT, Jr. — LESTER STOEFEN — JOHN VAN RYN

These four players have been named to compete for the United States in the first Davis Cup trials against Canada, at Wilmington, Del., beginning tomorrow. With the exception of Stoefen, all have had previous Davis Cup experience. Sidney Wood, Jr., and Wilmer Allison are other members of the squad, which will be captained by R. N. Williams, veteran internationalist, and coached by Hans Nusslein, the German professional. If they down Canada, they'll meet Mexico's team in the second round. These are International News Photograph Service pictures.

PITT FOOTBALL OFFICIALS SET FOR SEASON

By JESS CARVER

Dex Very, Russ Goodwin, Ed Thorp, Bill Crowell and Les Edmunds will do the refereeing in Pitt's football games next fall, with Thorp grabbing off the two most important struggles of the card, the games with Southern California and Notre Dame. The complete list of officials was announced by the University sport publicity bureau today.

Very has been named to handle two games, the Wash-Jeff and Navy encounters and Russ Goodwin, who only broke into big time officiating a couple years back, also will handle two, being booked for the Westminster and West Virginia tussles. Bill Crowell is to handle the Minnesota and Carnegie Tech tilts and Les Edmunds, one of the best in the business, will take care of the Nebraska clash.

The complete list for all games follows:

Pitt-W. & J., September 29—Dex Very, Penn State, referee; A. H. Slack, umpire; J. J. Gannon, linesman; W. H. Freisell, Princeton, field judge. (Pitt Stadium).

Pitt-West Virginia, October 6—R. B. Goodwin, W. & J., referee; D. W. Very, Penn State, umpire; C. W. Strickling, Virginia, linesman; C. L. Bolster, field judge. (Morgantown).

Pitt-Southern California, October 13—E. Thorp, DeLaSalle, referee; W. R. Crowley, Bowdoin, umpire; Dean Watkeys, Syracuse, linesman; A. W. Palmer, Colby, field judge. (Pitt Stadium).

Pitt-Minnesota, October 20—W. C. Connell, Swarthmore, referee; T. J. Thorpe, Columbia, umpire; W. M. Hollenback, Penn, linesman; C. M. Waters, field judge. (Pitt Stadium).

Pitt-Westminster, October 27—R. B. Goodwin, W. & J., referee; J. M. Holmes, Nebraska, umpire; W. C. Evans, Lebanon Valley, linesman. (New Castle).

Pitt-Notre Dame, November 3—E. Thorp, DeLaSalle, referee; Dean Watkeys, Syracuse, umpire; G. W. Hoban, Dartmouth, linesman; R. W. Carson, Penn State, field judge. (Pitt Stadium).

Pitt-Navy, November 17—D. W. Very, Penn State, referee; W. R. Crowley, Bowdoin, umpire; E. A. Geiges, Swarthmore, linesman; A. W. Palmer, Colby, field judge. (Annapolis).

Pitt-Carnegie Tech, November 29—W. G. Crowell, Swarthmore, referee; T. J. Thorpe, Columbia, umpire; W. M. Hollenback, Penn, linesman; C. M. Waters, field judge. (Pitt Stadium).

RECORDS ON SPOT

The boys are going out after four Pitt track and field marks in the dual meet with Notre Dame in the stadium Saturday. By the boys we mean both the Panthers and Irish.

Arvil Fleming, the "find" of the season, is going to strain every muscle in his sturdy legs to crack his own record of 24.6 for the low hurdles. He'll have a job on his hands, too, in beating Mike Layden, brother of the famous Elmer, the Irish's star timber-topper.

Ken Wagonhouser, who has a 4:20 mile in his system, figures to get it out this week. He holds the present university record of 4:23.7, which he established last week against West Virginia.

Capt. Bill Keller, who set a new mark of 1:26.7 at Morgantown for the 880, hopes to do even better against the competition bound to be furnished by the star halfmilers who will represent Notre Dame and Jim Guay, rapidly improving as a hurdler, has a fine man in Fagan, of Notre Dame, to beat in the high timbers, which may enable him to crack Ed Knoblock's record of 15.3.

STARS TO USHER

Members of the Monogram Club of Duquesne University, athletic lettermen's honor society, will appear in new rolls Friday night. The athletes will lend their services to the Women's Guild, acting as ushers for the Spring card party and dance in the auditorium of the school of music.

TITLE BOUT BANNED

LONDON, May 16.—(AP.)—Because of the suspension of Panama Al Brown by the National Boxing Association of the United States, the British Board of Control today declined to let Brown go through with his scheduled bantamweight championship match with Seaman Tom Watson tonight. N. B. A. suspensions are recognized by the British Board.

GENEVA NETTERS WIN

NEW WILMINGTON, Pa., May 16.—The Geneva College tennis team defeated the Westminster Racquet squad here yesterday afternoon, 6 to 1.

EXPLANATION OF RIPLEY'S CARTOON OF YESTERDAY: A GREAT MEMORY—Justus Lipsius (1547-1606), whose real name was Joest Lips, was a Belgian philologist and scholar whose erudition and power of memory were incredible. He is chiefly remembered for his edition of and commentaries upon Tacitus, upon which he devoted a great deal of time and study. When Don Juan, of Austria, invaded Belgium at the head of the Spanish armies, a friend obtained an audience with the Prince for Prof. Lipsius. During that interview, Lipsius made his famous offer to Don Juan. When the latter seemed incredulous, Lipsius went through with a non-stop recital of Tacitus, about 289,000 words, from memory. There was not a single error in this astounding recitation. As a result, Lipsius was able to exempt his properties from looting by the Spanish armies. After occupying the chair of history at the University of Jena, Germany, he was a professor at the University of Louvain, Belgium, for 14 years.

TOMORROW: THE FAMOUS "ROGUE" DIAMOND

BUCS TO OPEN IN BROOKLYN TOMORROW

By CHARLES J. DOYLE

Leading the National League pack after a full month of competition, the Pirates are ready to face a new test as they open a series of 12 eastern battles at Brooklyn tomorrow. The Bucs will play three games in each of the four seaboard cities.

In view of the fact that they have reached the peak after meeting each of the seven rival contenders, the Gibson Clan had no fears regarding the impending test, although the boss of the Buccos would jump at the chance to land a winning pitcher. Thirty more days remain in which the teams may trade players, and in this time Pirate officials may be able to cook up something of interest to the team.

TRAYNOR HOLDS KEY

Save for the pitching department, the Pirates are in good condition to face the long summer's fight. Of course this statement is predicated on the supposition that Pie Traynor's arm will respond to the treatment Pie has been receiving for the past four weeks. Fortunately for the Rovers, Tommy Thevenow was able to render his customary good service in the crisis, and the fact that the Buccos are out in front speaks volumes for the skill and steadying influences of the great utility player.

Advices from St. Louis to the effect that Burleigh Grimes is through as a major leaguer do not jibe with an expression made by Burleigh when he was in Pittsburgh recently. Grimes stated that Connie Mack had offered him a berth during the last winter. Said Burleigh:

"I appreciated Mack's offer, but I have always been a National Leaguer and as there was an offer from the Cardinals I accepted it."

WANTED TO COME HERE

Grimes also disclosed that he had offered his services to the Pirates this year before he signed with the Cardinals. Quoth Burleigh:

"I realized I was in better shape and had more stuff than at any time in the last several years. I was willing to gamble with the Pirates, as I figured they needed a pitcher who could start. I have it in my head that I will win for some club this year, and the Buccos could have landed me on a very economical basis."

The Buccos rested again yesterday, their game with the Braves being called off on account of rain. The postponement was the second in succession for the two clubs.

CHILLYSAUCE

Having won eight out of 10 battles from Eastern foeman, the Pirates should not fear the Seaboard tour starting tomorrow. At the same time, they might be sorry were they to go away in a cocky, overconfident mood.

It is a typical Pirate trick to get off by some "Hooligan" outfit. Bibby's club looks like the class of the league when it is swapping punches with the Giants, Cubs or Cardinals.

The Giants are apt to stiffen once they set foot in their own handbox park; nevertheless they must face some classy teams in the next two weeks.

There will be no more championship games at the Oakland Orchard until June 1, when the Cardinals come here for three contests, including a Sunday tilt.

Pirate fans will think it strange to be without any baseball on Memorial Day. The Bucs will stage the holiday contests in Chicago as a result of the changes incident to the induction of Sunday baseball in Pennsylvania.

COACH MAY QUIT

BEAVER FALLS, PA., May 16.—O. H. Heckathorne, coach of Athletics at Beaver Falls High School for the past 12 years, has asked to be relieved of his job. He has been re-elected to the school faculty.

Single Knockout Marks Butler Show

BUTLER, Pa., May 16.—The amateur boxers got by with only a single knockout being scored in the simon-pure ring show staged in the local armory last night. Paul Kraynack, of Ellwood City, knocked out Steve Mazure, of New Kensington, in the first round of their 160-pound class bout. The summary:

126-pound class—Sammy Cravotta defeated Skinny Valeski.

World Cricket Record Broken

LONDON, May 16.—(AP.)—A new world record for a third wicket partnership in first-class cricket was established yesterday by W. H. Ponsford and Stanley McCabe, members of the Australian test match team, with a score of 389 runs against the Marylebone Club.

The previous best third wicket partnership was that of Patsy Hendren and John Hearne, the Englishmen, set 11 years ago at 375.

McCabe had reached 192 runs and Ponsford 223 when the former lost his wicket.

The best total for a partnership was 555, made by Herbert Sutcliffe and Percy Holmes in 1932 on the first wicket.

LOCAL TENNIS LEAGUE CHAMPIONSHIP RACE PROGRAM SET

TEAMS TO OPEN TITLE DUELS ON MAY 26

By PAUL G. SULLIVAN

Long-delayed by radical preliminary shifting and various last-minute realignments, the 1934 competitive card of the Pittsburgh Tennis Association Inter-Club League was released by Chairman Howard J. Burgwin of the P. T. A. sanction and schedule committee today. The slate was in shape for publication after Monday's executive session of the association, but was held up an extra day in order to substitute Edgewood for Westinghouse Electric in Section II and to slip the Electricians into the spot vacated in Section III by the promotion of the suburbanites.

Hostilities will get under way simultaneously for all three divisions on May 26, a week from next Saturday. The second and third sectors will wind up their programs on July 14, with the top wheel continuing until July 21, because of an open date on July 14, where there is likelihood that one of the major invitation tourneys of the summer will be inserted.

ALLOW FOR TOURNEYS

Time will be taken out of the playing span for the Western Pennsylvania championships at Stanton Heights from June 16 to 24, and for the Allegheny County titular affair at the Westinghouse Club the week prior to Independence Day. Each team tangles with each sectional rival once, all contenders thus having five contests to battle through.

As usual, provision has been made to bring the probable title scrimmagers together toward the end of the season. Thus in Section I, the champion P. A. A. squad will engage the powerful Belmont Racquet Club contingent on the Saturday immediately before the closing session and will meet the crack Stanton Heights No. 1 delegation in the finale.

The schedule follows:

June 2—P. A. A. at University Club; Rockwood at Stanton Heights No. 1; Stanton Heights No. 2 at Belmont Racquet Club.

July 7—Rockwood at Belmont Racquet Club; Stanton Heights No. 1 at University Club; P. A. A. at Stanton Heights No. 2.

SECTION II.

June 2—Washington Heights at Rockwood; Edgewood at Westinghouse; Belmont Tennis Club at College Avenue.

May 26—Minnetonka at Consolidated; College Avenue at Electric; Westmoreland at Emsworth.

June 2—Consolidated at Emsworth; Electric at Minnetonka; College Avenue at Westmoreland.

June 9—Emsworth at College Avenue; Westmoreland at Minnetonka; Consolidated at Electric.

July 7—Consolidated at Westinghouse; Electric at Emsworth; Minnetonka at College Avenue.

COLLEGE TEAMS CLASH

Local college netmen were idle yesterday. Today Duquesne invades Grove City in quest of vengeance over a Crimson host that scored decisively over the Bluffites in the opener here last month. Pitt visits Carnegie Tech on the morrow and will be pushed aplenty to clinch the city crown, if the Tartans can muster the strength, or the inspiration, that enabled them to push the Panthers to 5-4 on the Trees Field courts not long ago. The Dukes terminate the weekly booking for the Pittsburgh trio by traveling to New Wilmington for a combat with Westminster.

McHenry Declines California Offer

CALIFORNIA, Pa., May 16.—Harry T. McHenry, of McKees Rocks, has declined the position of directors of athletics at California High School, to which he was recently elected.

McHenry informed local officials that he has been tendered a new two-year contract and salary increase at McKees Rocks High, where he has coached for seven years. He was to have replaced Carl Aschman as coach here next fall.

His refusal of the post leaves California still without a mentor. Aschman goes to Brownsville High School in September.

Honus Says:

By HONUS WAGNER

To the Sports Editor:

Of all the unfortunate people you see in the world I don't think any is to be more pitied than the blind. Whether he's a millionaire or a beggar on the street, if he is blind he should get the sympathy of everybody. Blindness is just about the worst of afflictions.

Honus Wagner

The blind should be helped. I have seen the blind standing on busy street corners trying to get across and people rush by. They seem to think that by guiding the fellow through the traffic they may make themselves look foolish. But I bet the Big Fellow with the Book up there doesn't think so.

Regards,
HONUS WAGNER.

BOUTS TO LURE MASON HERE

By HARRY KECK,
Sports Editor.

James (Red) Mason, long-time leading local boxing manager, will be a visitor here with Harry Dublinsky, of Chicago, for the latter's bout with Dominic Mancini, at Hickey Park, Millvale, next Monday night, he has informed Promoter Bus Vogel. The last time Mason was here he engaged in fisticuffs on the street with Gus Camp, Mancini's manager, and both were arrested. Whether or not Mason's coming at this time has any bearing on their old enmity remains to be seen.

With the exception of one preliminary, the card is complete for the Hickey Park show, which will be the first of the outdoor season professionally hereabouts. Billy Holt, local Negro middleweight, meets Solly Dukelsky, of Chicago, in the eight-round semi-final, and there will be three five-round bouts. In one of these, Steve Levandowski, the amateur, turns professional under the name of Steve Levine to box Jack Dalcherone, Springdale middleweight, and, in another, Ralph Gizzy boxes Al Farone.

BEWEEN ROUNDS

A meeting of the boxing clans will be held in the meeting room on the second floor of the Seventh Avenue Hotel at 2 o'clock Sunday afternon to arrange a benefit boxing show for the family of the late Mike Ray, boxing manager and second. Lew Raymond is in charge of the committee, which expects to put on an all-star card at Hickey Park, June 6.

Sammy Paris will box Young Thomas in a preliminary to the Ted Yarosz-Fritz Heinz show in Clarksburg, W. Va., Friday night.

Jules Beck and Lew Raymond are working on the arranging of shows for Bellaire, O., May 28, and Akron, June 14. The first date corresponds with that of the Jimmy McLarnin-Barney Ross show and the second with the Primo Carnera-Max Baer show.

Sammy Angott and Leo Sweeney will meet in the main bout of a card of 10 amateur battles at Washington, Pa., next Monday night. W. & J. College boxers are among those paired.

OAKLAND BEACH CARDS GOLF TOURNEY

By TOM BIRKS

Another two-day tournament has been added to the already large list of Western Pennsylvania tourneys when Johnny Manley, professional at the Oakland Beach Golf Club, announced that the famous Conneaut Lake course will sponsor another two-day tourney Sunday and Monday, May 27 and 28.

For many years Oakland Beach put on an annual tourney, but last season it was passed up. Manley, for many years the popular professional at Montour Heights, has transferred his allegiance to Oakland Beach.

PRO-AMATEUR PLAY SET

Sunday the attraction will be the usual pro-amateur event, and practically all of the leading professionals from Ohio, Western Pennsylvania and Northern New York will be on hand.

On Monday, a 36-hole medal play tourney will be staged. Ted Luther, Valley Heights pro, won the last one played in 1932. Luther and Walter Johnstone were tied at the end of 36 holes and Ted won the playoff.

The Crafton Golf Club is the new name of the old Thornburg Country Club, according to an announcement by John J. Lageman, president of the new organization. Jerry Lynch has been named professional.

PITT WINS AGAIN

Pitt's crack golf team, one of the strongest collegiate outfits ever to represent a district institution, continued on its merry way yesterday, defeating the Washington Jeff linksmen, 5 to 1, at the St. Clair Country Club. It was Pitt's eighth triumph in as many starts and marked the first setback of the year for the Prexies.

Claude McKee suffered Pitt's lone setback, losing to Guy Butter, of the Red and Black, 2 and 1. Capt. Regis Wolff defeated Wayman, 3 and 2; Johnny Wasko downed Morry Leiber, 3 and 2, and Art Mathews trimmed Pete Drost, 7 and 6.

In the foursomes, McKee and Wolff whipped Butter and Wayman, 3 and 2, and Wasko and Mathews won over Leiber and Drost, 4 and 3.

Wolff and Wasko had the best medal scores of the day, each carding a 75.

The Duquesne-Carnegie Tech match, scheduled for the Oakmont Country Club, was postponed until a later date.

Peabody toppled from first place in Section I of the Interscholastic Golf Conference yesterday, losing to Connelley, 8 to 7, in a closely contested match. The engagement was the feature one of the day's card. In other matches, Springdale downed Aspinwall, 8 to 7, and Dormont won over Bellevue, 11 to 4. Other matches were postponed.

GIRLS' TEAM IN TOURNEY

The first girls' team to enter the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph's amateur softball tournament, which gets under way during the week of June 10, is the Francis Mine outfit, of Burgettstown, of which Paul Brannan is manager.

Joseph Bittner, Jr., of 3301 Christy street, in the Sheraden-Esplen district, wants to enter his team in a softball league for 14-15-year-old teams. The Sun-Telegraph softball editor will be glad to help in the organization of such a league if other teams interested will communicate their desire to join.

The Cavaliers, of Schenley Heights, P. Trescher, manager, are one of the latest entrants in the Sun-Telegraph tournament.

Paul Sullivan In Tennis Talk Over WCAE

Plans for the tennis season in the Pittsburgh district will be discussed by Paul G. Sullivan, secretary of the Pittsburgh Tennis Association and writer on the sport for the Pittsburgh-Sun-Telegraph, during the weekly radio program of the Trained Seals of the Sports Department of the Sun-Telegraph over WCAE at 6 o'clock this evening.

The City League will resume championship action this evening, with the Parmelee nine facing the J. J. Vaughans at Frick Park and Homewood invading Dormont.

Books was slated to meet Mt. Oliver in the latter club's home opener, but the game has been postponed due to the poor condition of tht Mt. Oliver field.

Parmelee, with one of the most likely appearing teams in the league, will make its home bow in this evening's tussle. Manager Dinty Moore has both Ernie Vavra, the fast ball star, and Regis Leheny, southpaw tossers, primed for duty. Vavra figures to get the call. Jack Cummings, former catcher for the New York Giants and Brooklyn Dodgers in the National League, will be behind the plate.

Homewood, sporting two victories to date and undefeated, stacks up against a tough assignment at Dormont. The Dormonters are always tough to take, especially in their own back yard. Lefty Richards is being primed to slab duty for the home club, with either Carl Stewart or Bruce working for Homewood.

The Homestead Grays invade Charleroi this evening to meet the Tigers, of the Pennsylvania State Association. The Grays defeated Charleroi last Sunday, 4-0.

LEAGUE OPENS TITLE RACE TOMORROW

The Pennsylvania State Association, a new Class D league, will usher in its season tomorrow with two games on the program. The openers find Greensburg at Jeannette and Monessen at Charleroi.

All of the clubs in the league have major league backing. The McKeesport club will have the support of the Pittsburgh Pirates.

Tilden Predicts U. S. Tennis Defeat

PHILADELPHIA, May 16.—(AP.)—William T. Tilden, with years of experience as a champion to back his judgment, says the United States Davis Cup team hasn't got a chance. He said:

"I wish them all the luck in the world. But I'm afraid they can't win the trophy. There's Australia in the way.

"Of course, they will get across the Atlantic. The Americans ought to defeat Canada and Mexico without any trouble."

BELLEVUE WINS

The Bellevue High School track team defeated Shady Side Academy, 75 to 38 in a dual meet at Shady Side yesterday afternoon.

GIANTS SEEK PIET

REDS, PHILLIES SWAP FIVE PLAYERS

Just a few hours before the deadline, when all major league clubs were to have reduced their rosters to 23 active players, the Philadelphia and Cincinnati clubs of the National League put through a five-player swap and the Reds gave Manager Bob O'Farrell a vote of confidence, absolving him from any blame that might be attached to the Reds' lowly position in the National League pennant chase.

The trade involved three Phillies and two Reds. Pitcher Sylvester Johnson and Outfielder Johnny Moore went to the Phils in exchange for Outfielders Art Ruble and Wes Schulmerich and Pitcher Ted Kleinhaus. Ruble figures to keep right on going, the Cincinnati club being on the lookout for a minor league berth for the youngster.

PIET MAY MOVE

The Reds and Giants also were reported to be dickering, with the possibility of Tony Piet, obtained by the Reds from the Pittsburgh Pirates in a winter trade, winding up with the World Champions.

While the Reds and Phils were putting through their swap, the St. Louis Cardinals announced the unconditional release of the veteran spitballer, Burleigh Grimes and the New York Yankees traded Lyn Lary, infielder, to the Boston Red Sox for Fred Muller, a hard hitting recruit infielder and $20,000 in cash. Then the Yanks sent Charley Devens, former Harvard pitching star, and Catcher Norman Reis to Newark, of the International League. Muller also is expected to be farmed out without even donning a Yankee uniform.

JOE JUDGE RELEASED

The Boston Red Sox released Joe Judge, veteran first baseman, who spent the first 18 of his 20 years in the big time with the Washington Senators before shifting to Brooklyn and then to Boston.

The Boston Braves sent Pitcher Lewis Krausse to the Harrisburg team of the New York-Pennsylvania League and Pitcher Dick Barrett to Albany, of the International League.

Big Jim Weaver, husky pitcher, was purchased by the Chicago Cubs from Newark, which had obtained him from the St. Louis Browns earlier in the day. The Cubs then released Dick Ward, another right hander, on option to Los Angeles, of the Pacific Coast League, and sent Pitcher Lynn Nelson to Atlanta, in the Southern Association.

GIANTS AFTER HERMAN

Besides dickering with the Reds, the Giants were reported anxious to secure Babe Herman from the Cubs, but the Cubs want a pitcher and as far as can be noticed, the Giants have no slab material to spare.

Late last night, General Manager Billy Evans, of the Cleveland Club, announced that Roy Spencer, veteran catcher, has been dropped from the club roster. He either will be released outright or traded. All other major league clubs have waived on him.

The Giants wound up their western trip yesterday by whipping the Chicago Cubs, 10 to 3. After a rocky first inning, Carl Hubbell settled down and limited the Bruins to seven hits. Mel Ott brought about the downfall of Charley Root by slapping a home run with two men on base. The Giants also hit Bud Tinning, who relieved Root, hard. The defeat caused the Cubs to drop from the National League lead.

In the only other Major League encounter played, the Brooklyn Dodgers nosed out the St. Louis Cards, 6 to 5, when Jim Mooney weakened in the eighth inning and the Dodgers tallied three runs.

All other games were rained out.

PLENTY OF HOMERS

By way of causing some actual playing excitement for the day, the Buffalo Bisons, of the International League, set an all-time home run record as they slapped out five homers in one inning against Albany. Four of them were hit after two men had been retired.

Meyers started it, hitting for the circuit with a man on base. The next two batters were retired, but then Mulleavy, Mallon, Smith and Bill Regan, former Pittsburgh Pirate, connected.

The major league record is four in one inning, set by Pittsburgh in 1894 and tied by the Chicago Cubs in 1930.

Endeavour Shows Speed in Trials

PORTSMOUTH, England, May 16.—(AP.)—Endeavour, T. O. M. Sopwith's challenger for the America's Cup, has returned to the builder's yard for a final examination before starting her scheduled series of racing trials.

Her sail-stretching runs were reported highly satisfactory, the challenger showing speed in all winds.

Maureen Orcutt Assembly Candidate

ENGLEWOOD, N. J., May 16.—(XINS.)—Maureen Orcutt, former North-South women's golf champion, and present New Jersey titleholder, will be a candidate for the Assembly on the regular Democratic ticket from Bergen County.

COMISH LIFTS BAN ON BAER

NEW YORK, May 16.—(AP.)—Max Baer has made his peace with the New York State Athletic Commission and the suspension imposed upon him for flouting the majesty of the fistic fathers a week ago has been immediately lifted. His manager, Ancil Hoffman, shared the pardon.

The big californian who fights Primo Carnera for the heavyweight championship June 14 explained in detail and with gestures the manner in which he plans to depose the present king. He appeared in fine shape and full voice, and hustled back to his training camp at Atlantic City, N. J., after a half hour visit.

While at the commission Baer also went through the routine of signing a contract for the bout, stipulating that he is to receive the regular challenger's share in the receipts, 12½ per cent. The contract he signed with Madison Square Garden calls for more than that and also cuts Jack Dempsey in for 7½ per cent.

PRIMO ASKS GUARD

POMPTON LAKES, N. J., May 16.—(INS.)—Kept indoors by heavy rains, Primo Carnera, heavyweight champion, boxed seven fast rounds yesterday with Chester Matan and Corn Griffin in preparation for his title bout June 14 in New York with Max Baer, of California.

Carnera also punched the bag and skipped rope during his indoor drill. Carnera motored to Morristown in the morning to visit Capt. William O. Nicol, of the state police, and asked to have state troopers guard his camp.

HOCKEY SHIFT OPPOSED

ST. LOUIS, May 16.—(AP.)—Frank G. Wainwright, owner of the St. Louis Flyers, American Hockey Association team, told the St. Louis newspapers today that he will go to court in an effort to prevent the National Hockey League from putting a team in St. Louis. In a message from Hot Springs, Ark., where he is resting, Wainwright said:

"I will fight them in court. Will notify Grant (William F. Grant, president of the American Hockey Association) at once."

The transfer of the Ottawa Club to St. Louis was ratified by the directors of the National League recently, presumably with the approval of Grant.

Frank S. Calder, president of the National League, said here yesterday the league was within its rights in moving into St. Louis.

Seaback to Meet Marty Welk Tonight

Charles Seaback, nationally known pocket billiard star, will meet Marty Welk, former city champion and one of the best known district cue artists in a special 100-point match at Joe Tobin's William Penn parlors, Smithfield street, this evening. Admission will be free.

After the match, Seaback will give an exhibition of trick and fancy shots.

SPORT SHORTS

Dr. Ricardo Tapia, Esteban Reyes, Eduardo Mestra and Angel Roldan have been named on the Mexican Davis Cup team, which meets either the United States or Canada at Baltimore May 30, 31 and June 2.

Sixteen of the finest sprinters on the American turf are to match speed today in the forty-first running of the Tobogan Handicap, opening day feature of Belmont Park's Spring race meeting.

Grace Amory, United States girl golfer, was eliminated in the third round of the British women's championship tournament at Porthcawl, Wales, yesterday, by Betty Ellis, of Ireland, on the nineteenth hole.

Thomas F. Gorman, former coach of the Chicago Black Hawks, Stanley Cup winner last Winter, has been named promotion manager of the Montreal Forum, succeeding William A. Northey, who resigned two months ago.

Something approaching the all-time high for loyalty was evident in Chicago when a group of White Sox fans planned a huge welcome for the hapless Comiskey team upon its return from the East this evening. The occasion is to be in celebration of the club's return with a new manager in Jimmy Dykes.

Pop Foster, manager of Jimmy McLarnin, training at Atlantic City for his defense of the welterweight title against Barney Ross, in New York, May 28, today presented a knockout victory for his man and scouted the idea that Jimmy will be weakened by the weight. Benny Leonard, former lightweight champion, saw Ross work out at Ferndale, N. Y., and predicted Barney will win by staying on top of McLarnin and outboxing him.

Joe Gush, of Oliver, is leading the pitchers in the City Senior League with four victories and no defeats.

Heidelberg and Moon Run will meet at Heidelberg next Sunday for the Keystone Soccer League championship.

Mae Morgan has been elected president of Variety Club Bowling League. Marie Kague was chosen vice president. Elizabeth Leppic, secretary, and Clara Bailey, treasurer.

Philip W. Gundelfinger, superintendent of Pittsburgh district state liquor stores, captured low gross honors in the tourney held by employes of the state at Chartiers Heights yesterday. He scored a 93.

FIGHT RESULTS

KINGFISH FOUND IN CHICAGO HOSPITAL

By CLAIR KELLY
International News Service.

CHICAGO, May 16.—King Levinsky, the former fish peddler who fears no man, today was found at Jackson Park Hospital here.

Lena Levy, sister-manageress of the widely-hunted heavyweight, says it's a "nervous breakdown" that sent him to bed.

But the Kingfish, who fears no man, will take care of one Art Lasky in Los Angeles as soon as he recovers. So Lena vowed today in indignantly denying those reports that her brother had taken a runout on his bout with Lasky in the Pacific Coast city, scheduled to have been fought last night. Lena said:

"Sure, we'll fight Lasky out there as soon as the King is fit and himself again. Why, we left his boxing togs in Los Angeles and fully intend to go back there for the fight when the doctor says he is in condition to box. But the King is a sick boy right now and I certainly wasn't going to send him into a bout when he wasn't fit."

END OF 'MAN HUNT'

The Kingfish, his sister and a brother, Sam Krakow, whizzed into town in the midnight darkness last night and registered surprise to learn they had been the objects of something akin to a manhunt. Lou Daro and Tom Gallery, who had the bout under their auspices out on the coast, were hoping as late as yesterday that the King and Lena would turn around and return to Los Angeles to fulfill the battle.

Mrs. Levy said it was the weakened condition of the Kingfish that caused her sudden decision last Saturday to head for home in Chicago and bring the King with her. She said his weight dropped to 200 pounds, six less than his best fighting notch, during the past week.

They also were surprised to learn that Levinsky had been suspended by the California Boxing Commission and that Lena's managerial license had been chucked out of that State's files.

SUSPENSION APPROVED

With the Illinois and New York commissions maintaining a working agreement with California, the Kingfish will be set down in all three of these major boxing centers. Chairman Joe Triner, of the Illinois commission, already has announced his co-operation.

W. VA. RACING LAW FOILED

CHARLESTON, W. Va., May 16.—(AP.)—A steeplechase course at every race track is demanded by West Virginia—but it doesn't necessarily mean there will be any equine hurdle races.

Every horse racing association is specifically ordered to have a steeplechase every two days.

But—six little words were added to the rules just published to make a big difference. They are:

"Unless excused therefrom by the commissioner."

Commissioner of Agriculture J. B. McLaughlin, ex-officio racing commissioner, likes the thrill of a steeplechase.

It's generally agreed, however, that the excuses will be granted in all instances, for even if a track were established it would be hard to round up a field of steeplechasers.

Charleston Sets Net Tourney Plans

CHARLESTON, W. Va., May 16.—(AP.)—The Charleston Tennis Club today announced selection of the period beginning Wednesday, June 13, for the annual state closed tennis championship tournament.

Approximately 450 invitations will be mailed by the club to men and women net stars within two weeks.

Sam Cohn, of Beckley, is defending champion. He has held the title off and on for several years, alternating the championship with B. F. Arkle, of Wheeling.

Selection of the tournament dates had been held up awaiting a ruling on eligibility of out-of-state players who belong to state clubs. A final ruling has not yet been given.

Peril Seen In Excess of Gloom

By B. C. FORBES

MOST FINANCIAL leaders and many business leaders are acting too bearishly, in my opinion.

Mr. Forbes

True, Federal legislators have lately shown scant regard for the many men of affairs who have been protesting against the handicaps imposed by the Securities Act and the bill to subject stock exchanges and . . . much more important . . . corporations to a new species of bureaucratic domination.

But, after all, it is the duty of every employer, of every responsible citizen, to make the best of unalterable facts and conditions, and to exert every effort to keep the country going in the right direction economically and employment-wise.

Some of the new rules decreed by politicians may not be to the liking of business, but both common sense and patriotism demand that the game be played manfully under whatever rules are prescribed by our law-making masters.

Once Congress adjourns, the probability is that President Roosevelt will manifest a distinctly cooperative attitude toward the business world, as he well knows that unless the business world acts with some measure of confidence, the nation's problem of problems, unemployment, cannot be solved.

After all, the responsibility of bringing about better times rests just as heavily upon business leaders as upon President Roosevelt. If things should not move in the right direction, they would suffer quite as much as he would.

It is ridiculous that this nation, with all that it possesses in men, resources, money, should much longer wallow in uncertainty and apprehension.

TAX-EATERS, meaning the number of federal, state and local government employes, increased from $2,618,000 in 1922 to $3,122,000 in 1932, or 19.3 per cent, against a population increase of 13.6 per cent.

THE OIL industry is not downhearted. What President W. G. Skelly of the International Petroleum Exposition describes as "the largest industrial show in the world," is now under way at Tulsa, Okla.

The very latest in methods and machinery employed by the enterprising oil industry to get the most out of crude oil is arousing the keen interest of many thousands of visitors.

THE MAN who owns a home usually is a dependable type of citizen, law - abiding, intent upon bringing up a family, imbued with American traditions, not a fanatic carried away by every wild-eyed theory propounded by revolutionaries.

President Roosevelt's latest proposals, to make money available for home improvements and to strengthen building and loan associations, represents a much wiser expenditure of public funds than do many other Washington innovations.

The net cost to the government—to us—is likely to be light, because home owners, by and large, are the kind of people who strive to pay their debts and to discharge all their other responsibilities worthily and honorably.

If the building trades can be spurred into real activity on a sound financial basis, more will be accomplished than by ladling out hundreds of millions to cotton growers to destroy crops and to other farmers to scuttle production.

Consul at Work To Free Jacobs

BARCELONA, Spain, May 16.—(AP.)—United States Consul General Claude Dawson today intervened with Spanish authorities to have Joe Jacobs, American manager of the German heavyweight, Max Schmeling, released from technical arrest for alleged failure to pay taxes.

Jacobs was arrested at the Portblu border yesterday on information that he had failed to pay $2,000 taxes due on Schmeling's share of the receipts from a bout with Paulino Uzcudun Sunday.

Today Jacobs showed a receipt, signed by the promoter of the fight, for 5,000 pesetas ($685), which Jacobs said he was told would take care of all the taxes.

Jacobs said because of the postponement of the fight when it was first scheduled, April 8, Schmeling's expenses had been $12,000 and he had received only $22,500 for the fight. He added:

"I'm quite willing to pay whatever is owing, but there is some mixup because the promoter said 5,000 pesetas would cover all taxes. I don't think they can hold me responsible even if it isn't. Schmeling is liable, but he's well en route to Munich now."

STOCKS DRIFT IN QUIET MARKET

NEW YORK, May 16.—A lower drift in stock prices in the early trading today was followed by a mild recovery around the beginning of the last hour. Metals, which were heavy most of the day, pared their losses.

NEW YORK, May 16.—Financial markets were inclined to dawdle uneasily today as traders and investors displayed no particular urge to take a conspicuous position on the price argument.

Transactions in stocks, during the greater part of the session, were the slowest of the year to date and the ticker tape, for minutes at a time, was almost motionless. Quotations, as a whole, were narrow, although some of the metals lagged noticeably and several of yesterday's substantial gainers pointed downward.

PRICES UNCERTAIN

Commodities provided no especial encouragement for a resumption of the equities advance. Wheat and the other cereals were slightly lower, but quiet. Rain in the drought-stricken districts was still problematical. Cotton, rubber and silver were a little under water. Bonds were somewhat mixed. Foreign exchanges were featureless.

Shares of United Aircraft, American Sugar Refining, Case, Continental Can, American Tobacco B and some others firmed fractionally to around a point. United States Smelting dropped about 6, while American Smelting and Howe Sound were down 1 to 2. Du Pont, Union Carbide, Armour preferred and American Can were off as much. American Telephone, United States Steel, Chrysler, General Motors, Johns-Manville, Great Westrn Sugar, Santa Fe, New York Central and Consolidated Gas were hesitant.

STAND ON MARGIN

Word from Washington that the President had stated he favored statutory margin requirements and the Federal Trade Commission as the regulatory body for stock exchanges did not aid commission house sentiment. There had been hopes of a flexible margin provision in the control bill.

Declaration by the American Telephone directors of the regular quarterly dividend of $2.25 had been generally expected, notwithstanding some circles thought a reduction might be voted in view of the drive for rate cuts in several sections of the country.

Wall street showed signs of recovering from some of its extreme fears, but commentators believed considerable confusion existed regarding the business outlook. It was pointed out that, while there has unquestionably been some recessions during the past 10 days or so, there is no certainty as to how much of this is merely seasonal. There was a feeling that a large part of the anticipated decline would be offset by government spending.

WHEAT PRICES DECLINE

CHICAGO, May 16.—Uncertainties resulting from proposed congressional measures toward drastic further regulation of commodity exchanges did much to drag grain values down much of the time today. Sharp late advances, however, were promoted by the fact that crop reports from the American and Canadian Northwest today were the most unfavorable yet this season.

A leading crop expert telegraphing from Aberdeen, S. D., after 240-mile trip from Yankton, said drought conditions were deplorable, and that in the region named no 1934 crop of wheat could be produced. The market advanced rapidly in the last 15 minutes of the day.

Wheat closed strong, 2⅛@2⅝ cents above yesterday's finish; July, 88½@88¾ cents; corn, ⅞@1⅛ cents advanced; oats, ¾@1¼ cents up, and provisions at a rise of 2 to 12 cents.

HOUSING LOANS NEW FEDERAL STIMULUS

By LEWIS HANEY
Professor of Economics
New York University

NEW YORK, May 16.—The administration's first move to give a "stimulus" to business in the present critical period is to provide a mass of new government agencies for making loans.

The RFC and the Federal Reserve banks are to be authorized to make five-year loans to business men.

The general idea is more credit, and a shifting of private debt to public debt.

EXTENDS CONTROL

Federal participation and control in business and finance is greatly extended. The HCIC (Home Credit Insurance Corporation) and the FSIC (Federal Saving and Loan Insurance Corporation) are to be added to the alphabetical list of government institutions, to say nothing of a flock of "national mortgage associations" to be established under the HOLC (Home Owners' Loan Corporation).

The Federal Home Loan banks are to have their discount functions "liberalized" in making loans on home "modernization," and the Federal Reserve Act is to be amended to make six month loans on residential building eligible for rediscount as commercial loans.

Nobody seems to know how to run business or extend credit except the boys at Washington.

TWO PURPOSES

Another point to note is that the old mixture of motives is apparent. The new move is again for "two purposes:" (1) Relief—to give employment to millions of laborers and to "protect the health and safety of the people;" (2) Stimulation of business—put money in circulation and "prime" the building trades.

I maintain that the two motives don't mix. Relief must be given on a charitable basis. Stimulation must be on a business basis. Business stimulation can come only by making production profitable. Unfortunately, employment and health and safety don't necessarily mean profits or net income.

For example, how is anyone to employ much building trade labor at present wages in a profitable way? Unless we are trying to fool ourselves, we cannot employ high-wage labor for non-income yielding purposes without recognizing that it is a dole system and that it does not stimulate business.

ADD TO DEBT

Another thing to remember is that residences are "consumers' goods." If the loans for bathtubs, paintings, etc., are good loans, the people may get more health and comfort, but they will have less money left to spend for automobiles and clothes. If the loans are "good," residential expenditures must come out of the consumer's dollar.

On the other hand, if the loans are not to be paid by consumers, then they will have to be assumed by the federal government and add to the public debt. That is what I fear will be the case to a very large extent.

These new agencies may easily become a sort of RFC for "those who live in houses," thus shifting individual debts to the government. Particularly the new FSLIC, in undertaking to insure shares and deposits in building and loan associations, with their slow assets, is a dangerous experiment.

NOT IMPORTANT

I think that the "home modernization" aspect of the new move will have little importance as a business stimulant. I think that the effort to stimulate new construction "under government direction" will either have little result or will swell government debt dangerously.

It is time to quit experimenting and to decide on a policy. If we are going to inflate, let's do it. If we are going to stimulate by government spending, let's do it directly and in a big way. Or if we are going to deflate and economize, let's do that.

We want certainty and a clear-cut program.

W. U. OPPOSES WIRE CODE

WASHINGTON, May 16.—(AP.)—Whether Western Union Telegraph Company engaged in an unfair use of propaganda against the proposal to impose a code on the telegraph industry became the center of dispute today at an NRA hearing.

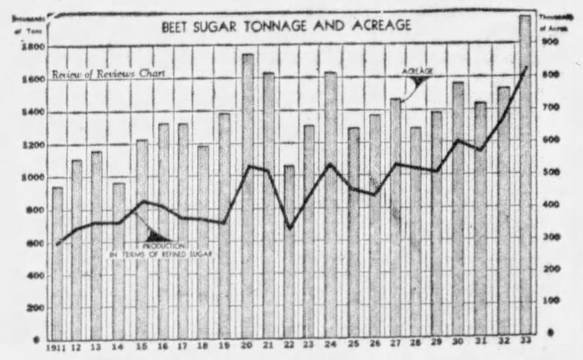
Howard L. Kern, Postal Telegraph executive, contended that Western Union had done so.

J. C. Willever, first vice president of Western Union, testified he had "left it to the discretion of our local people to advise those who would be affected by the proposed code."

Meanwhile, at the Capitol, David Sarnoff, president of the Radio Corporation of America, told the House Interstate Commerce Committee he hoped Congress would establish a central commission with full control over communications.

Legislation to create a communications commission was passed yesterday by the Senate. House approval is expected shortly at the NRA hearing before Leighton H. Peebles, a deputy administrator, R. B. White, Western Union president, said his company "will not willingly agree" to the proposed code. Postal favors it.

Sugar Beet Farmers Obtain Fair Return



By JOSEPH STAGG LAWRENCE
Review of Reviews

Here is an industry which is operating in the shadow of official disapproval—a disapproval which finds its origin in the doctrine of the intellectuals whose advice the present administration esteems.

The beet sugar industry is regarded by these students as an unwarranted interloper in the field of enterprise. It has been termed by Secretary Wallace, and likewise by the President, as "an inefficient industry." This is due, apparently, to the fact that sugar can be produced more efficiently in the cane fields of Cuba and Jawa than it can in the beet sugar fields of Colorado, Idaho, or California.

It is contended by these critics of the beet sugar industry that its annual production is worth approximately 60 million dollars, and that to protect these 60 million dollars it is necessary for the public to submit to a tariff which actually increases the cost of sugar 200 million dollars a year. Such, at least, is the argument.

During 1933 a trifle less than a million acres of land was under beet cultivation in this country. These beets constitute a crop of great cash value to our farmers. Very few farmers who are beet raisers have been forced to surrender their farms or have had mortgages foreclosed on them. The banks and districts where beet sugar is raised are in a much better condition than are banks in other agricultural areas.

It is one of the very few crops out of which the American farmer appears to be securing a fair return for his labor. Another factor in its favor is its position in the scheme of crop rotation. The beet sugar farmer, unlike the wheat farmer or the cotton grower, cannot afford to become a one-crop farmer. It is necessary for him to maintain a systematic rotation and it is unusual to find a farm in which more than 25 per cent of the cultivated acreage is devoted to the beet. The intensive cultivation necessary is very helpful to the soil, and on the whole, it tends to make possible a high-grade, self-sustaining farm unit.

In view of the fact that the two other great cash crops—wheat and cotton—are at present suffering from a loss of foreign markets, it must be said in favor of the sugar beet that it offers a much more tangible hope of relief for the American farmer. It is doubtful if the free-traders can expect to be successful in swapping the sugar which Americans consume for a greater wheat and cotton market abroad. That, however, is the theory of those who characterize the beet sugar industry as inefficient.

Chickie's Daughter

By ELENORE MEHERIN

CHAPTER LXXI

The sun dropped to the far Santa Clara Hills. The western sky looked like a city wild with flame. Burning spires toppled; mountains edged with fire ran out to the purple sea.

Pippin kept her eyes riveted on the splashing color. She held herself intent and watching. In this way she escaped her thought. Whenever she relaxed the images were waiting. They walked in and made a havoc in her heart.

She would see Bill's face with the frightened eyes clinging to hers; feel his lips when she stooped to kiss him, moaning against her cheek: "I love you—so." Or she would see him when death restored him to youth, left him lying there unbeaten, with a faint proud smile on his lips. No one would think him dead. Yet Ellen Lodge and her brother followed a coffin into the baggage car.

Pippin had never before seen any one die. The shock was great. She would halt abruptly as she crossed the campus, say to herself with bitter unbelief: "He's dead—Bill is dead."

Often when she recalled happy things he did, or looked at the ring and felt his hand fumbling for her finger, tears filled her eyes.

But it was not grief that left her with this hard, blind desolation so that often she wanted to fling against a wall, pound with her fists and madly weep. It was Kevin's cold, mystifying betrayal.

He knew surely of Bill's death. All the newspapers told of the plane crash. Reporters came to the hospital; they were waiting at the depot late that Monday night on their return from the South.

Denies Engagement

They indicated Bill had flown west to marry Pippin; they told of the ring.

"You were not engaged to Bill?" Kathleen asked one evening when two weeks had passed.

"No—not engaged."

"I wonder how the reporters learned of the ring? Kevin wrote mother that he read all about it—and that you were engaged—in a New York newspaper."

Pippin said only: "Did he?"

But this made her wilder than before. He knew of this harsh, blighting sadness yet never dropped a word.

Even a stranger would! Sherry, whom Vivian had loved, came all the way from San Francisco wanting to give her solace.

It touched her deeply. He came toward her with the old winged swiftness and the gold hair curling back from his forehead. But so quiet—all the young, careless laughter gone. He took Pippin's hand.

"I've been wanting to come since I learned of it in the papers, Pippin. You did so much for me. I wish I could say something to make you feel better."

Feels Pang for Sherry

He talked on. He had a good job. His younger brother was finishing his freshman year.

"Have you seen him on the campus, Pippin?"

"Yes—he does not look like you, Sherry."

"He is not at all like me!"

He said it grimly.

Above the ache and loneliness in her own heart, Pippin felt a pang for Sherry. It was two and a half years since Vivian had gone. She saw piercingly that two and a half decades might pass; Sherry would never recapture the bright, laughing ardor her going had so dimmed.

He said suddenly: "I deserved it, Pippin. It shouldn't have come to you."

"Oh, Sherry, don't reproach Vivian so. If there is any survival don't you really believe it will make her terribly sad to have you so changed?"

"But you're grieving, too, Pippin. You look so white. You look really very tragic."

She was ashamed of the swift way tears rushed to her eyes, and that she felt so terribly alone; ashamed that too often she visualized Kevin arriving and with strong, tender arms, lifting her out of this bleak, encompassing depression. He could!

Nothing seemed important. A while ago she had contended stoutly, glowingly for trivial honors. When Paula stole the play she felt herself cruelly defrauded.

Doesn't See Play

On her return from Bakersfield the performance was given.

"I think you should go," Colleen Lowell said to her.

"Please let me off. I don't feel in a festive mood."

"But Palma will not be there. You can be sure of this."

For the first time Pippin was aware Paula had not been at the house during the entire week. She asked about it.

Colleen said: "She didn't get over the humiliation that we knew her for a thief. She became intolerable in the house. I told her she could move or I would bring charges and ask she be expelled. She chose to move. I also warned her she was not to attend the play. I'm quite certain she'll obey."

Pippin didn't ask for any details. She didn't care what Paula had done nor why she had left.

Her plays of which she had been so happily proud, was produced. She didn't attend.

Even commencement, to which she had looked forward these four happy years, lost meaning. She had no heart for the blithe rejoicings.

She stole often to the chapel and sat a long while gazing at the mosaics and the sunlight glowing on the stained glass windows. One great picture over the west door showed Mary giving her child to the bitter cross. She dwelt always on this and the deep, lovely, sorrowing face.

Parents Happy

Commencement came. She and Kathleen were partners. They wore the black gowns and the black caps. David and Helena dropped in at the house for a moment before the exercises. They looked at each other with rich, happy pride and then at her with so much love. She pretended to be gay and that it was a wonderful hour to have reached; a big, shining achievement.

She listened to the president's speech. As always, he called upon these young people to go forth and give a needing humanity the finest and the noblest of their efforts. She felt a singing, beautiful devotion. It didn't matter if your own life fell to pieces. There was the great troubled world awaiting; you should go out and make it richer for your presence.

She went back to the house with Kathleen. A warm, sunny day in the middle of June. The sadness of farewell hovered through the rooms like a dark breeze blowing.

Pippin thought, as she absently picked up papers and closed books: "He'll wire me today. He'll surely wire congratulations!" She meant Kevin. At least this he would do. They had talked so often of the burning, momentous hour, when she would be finished; step out buoyantly to take a proud place at his side in the laboratory.

Kevin Silent

But there did not come a word. She felt raging with a black wind of anger against him. She would never let his face or his image into her mind again! He might come across the continent on his bended knees. She would laugh and turn jeeringly from him.

No decision to obliterate Kevin's image had effect.

She went up to the mountains with Helena. She thought of him ceaselessly.

Helena saw her become thinner! saw her white, peaked face and pallid lips. She feared this less than a strange, bright recklessness that grew in her eyes.

Jon had finished his course at the Boston Tech. He was not coming home this vacation. The building industry had ceased. David thought it a good opportunity, as long as he had the money, for Jon to study in Europe. He would be gone for two years more.

One day Helena said: "David and I have talked about this, Pippin. We think you should go east and go with Jon to Europe. You need the change."

Pippin answered absently: "I want these months in the mountains first, mother. I love it here with you."

And she knew—though she denied it hotly to herself—the hope yet surged she might hear from him.

Synopsis

Pippin, pretty daughter of Chickie, falls in love with Kevin McPike. Pippin and Kevin's sister, Kathie, are fast friends. Pippin is thrilled by the first real kiss she ever had—from Kevin. When Kevin goes to Europe to pursue his studies, Pippin meets Bill Lodge, a young ensign. At a friend's home, Chickie meets Barry Dunne, the man who caused her so much sorrow. Pippin goes to a party with Bill, but after returning seems unhappy. She tells her father what she heard about her mother, and that she thought him responsible. David explains to her what really happened and Pippin is again happy. Chickie tells Pippin the real story of her life. Pippin goes on hikes with Gregg McClintock, senior at college. She then returns to college and has Vivian Drake as a room mate. Vivian's love affair with Sherry wanes. Vivian disappears and sends a suicide note. Kevin returns. Edward's family and Pippin disapprove of his choice of a bride. Kevin kisses Pippin while on skiing party. Kevin disappoints Pippin, but saves a man's life. Bill arrives home and takes Pippin on airplane trip. They're forced to land in desolate country, but finally find a house and arrive back in town. Bill leaves. Gregg sails. Kevin goes East. Bill's plane crashes.

George Rogers Clark

CLARK, WASHINGTON OF WEST

George Rogers Clark, a young Virginian, appointed lieutenant colonel by Gov. Patrick Henry of Virginia 1778, gathered men, started a campaign against the British and hostile Indians in the territory west of the Allegheny and Ohio. Surmounting indescribable hardships, he captured the British forts Kaskaskia on the Mississippi, Vincennes on the Wabash River. These victories were instrumental later in the ceding of the lands between Ohio and Mississippi by the British to the United States in the Treaty of Paris, 1783. For this accomplishment, Clark is called the "Washington of the West." (U. S. History)

TREATY OF PARIS—BRITISH ACKNOWLEDGE UNITED STATES

After the surrender of Cornwallis at Yorktown (Oct. 19, 1781) the armed struggle for American liberty ended; but it took almost two years until Great Britain recognized the independence of the United States. The definite treaty was signed September 3, 1783, at Paris, France. The American delegates were John Jay, Benjamin Franklin and John Adams, whose portraits and signatures are shown above. The treaty extended the territory of the Union up to the Mississippi River, a gain, due chiefly to Clark's victories. (U. S. History)

OSTROGOTHS MASTER ROME—THEIR DEFEAT BY JUSTINIAN

After a Drawing by Tegelmeyer

PROPELLER—DOUBLE THREADED SCREW

A screw is a bolt around which the thread—one or more inclined planes—is wound spirally. By turning the screw in a stationary medium (e.g. a wood screw in lumber, a bolt in the nut) the bolt will advance by each revolution with the "pitch" in solid matter, and somewhat less with the actual pitch" (due to slip) in a gaseous medium like air. The advancing tendency of the turning propeller causes its pull (if placed before machine) or push (if placed behind). (Transportation)

THE HABER—AMMONIA PROCESS

Ammonia (NH3), a colorless, pungent, suffocating gas, is formed when organic matter (containing N) decays, or electric spark passes through a mixture of N and H. It is used in refrigerating processes, to make ammonium salts and nitric acid.

The Haber process (diagram above) produces ammonia by direct synthesis from N and H. It is an important method of nitrogen fixation, the introduction of atmospheric nitrogen into compounds.

ARTHROPODA, JOINTED FOOTED ANIMALS

Arthropoda make the 12th and greatest animal phylum consisting of about 632,000 species, including crustaceans, myriapoda, spiders and insects. Crustaceans (about 16,000 species) include the crayfish, lobster, crab, shrimp and some other aquatic animals. Their bodies are protected generally by a limy external skeleton, head and thorax united; they breathe by gills, have two pairs of antennae. Above: Lobster capturing a crab. MADAME ROLAND MOCKED BY PARISIAN WOMEN

Manon Jeanne Philippon, wife of Jean Roland, French statesman, philosopher and Girondin minister of interior, shared studies and work of her illustrous husband. She was called the "Heloise of the eighteenth century."

After the bloodthirsty Jacobins overthrew the moderate Girondins during the French Revolution, Roland fled; his wife was thrown into prison, exposed to insults of the mob and executed (1793). On the way to the guillotine, she exclaimed: "O, Liberty! What crimes are committed in thy name!" Her husband killed himself.

Breaking Into a Trotzky

Old man Trotzky will go down in morose history as the champ agitator. Trotts didn't like any government he didn't start himself.

They had to chase him to Turkey for plotting against himself.

Last winter he was busy working on his fourth revolution. The first three had been so successful in eliminating everything that had gone before that Trotts wanted one that would wipe out everything in the future.

He is complete proof that scheming, revolting and agitating are habit forming. Once started you must continue. You cannot stick your head under the town pump three times and only pull it out twice.

Trotts wants an asylum here. If Europe is scared of the little man with the rubberset chinstrap he must be a tougher bird than a wire-haired penguin.

We wouldn't know just what asylum would fit such a tremendous agitator. He can have his choice of orphan, poor or nuttsy.

They want him to establish a legal voting residence on the Island of Corsica. That was Napoleon's original bus terminal. We would have more modern Napoleons if people could get the right kind of hats.

Nap left Corsica for Russia, but Trotts doesn't like that idea of how he scares Europe. When he travels through a country they put him in a sealed train with both ends locked. While he is on a sidetrack piling up demurrage the cabinet sits down before it falls. He is a national problem.

Wherever he is he cannot help plotting. Trotts is the kind of a hitch-hiker who wants to drive the car. After you pick him up you have to go where he wants to or get out.

Trotts' politics is like bowling. It is underhand to start and knocks everything down at the finish.

You could hardly welcome him on city hall steps. If Trotts knew the ceremony was set for the afternoon he would get around early in the morning and soap 'em.

Giving him the keys to the town wouldn't do. Trotts would probably prefer to make his own skeleton set.

Class Benefits Imperil American Liberties, Warns W. R. Hearst

It is more than that. It is government for the greatest benefit of the WHOLE PEOPLE, government for the equal advantage of ALL CLASSES, ALL SECTS, ALL SECTIONS; government for the equal good of ALL CITIZENS.

Mr. Hearst recently wrote the following letter in reply to a request from Mr. Brisbane for comment by Mr. Hearst on the inequalities of tax conditions and the injustice which the discriminatory policies of the New Deal imposed upon certain groups, as distinguished from other groups or the whole body of American citizenship.

Said Mr. Hearst:

"It is the fundamental guaranty of his rights and liberties.

"As soon as discrimination is introduced, it leads eventually and inevitably to discrimination in favor of the big fellow and against the little fellow.

"It may not start this way, but it ends this way, and the only safeguard against discrimination against the little fellow is freedom from discrimination.

"This is what our fathers realized when they established this republic.

"They established it to obtain freedom from the discrimination under which they had been suffering.

"They established it to create liberty and equality—equality of rights, equality of privileges, equality of opportunities, equality of obligations.

"You cannot have the benefits of equality unless you have equality.

"You cannot discriminate in favor of one class or against one class and have equality.

"You cannot have unequal privileges and unequal obligations, and maintain a government based on equal rights.

"If we want to surrender the ideals of our fathers and go back to the unequal systems which they founded this republic to avoid, we have the right to do so; but we should realize what we are doing.

"We must realize that we are attributing failure to what is universally recognized as the greatest success politically and economically in the world.

"We must realize that we are not going forward, but backward.

"We are not adopting new systems, but returning to old discredited and discarded systems.

"Both Communism and Fascism are government by caste and class.

"Both Communism and Fascism mean the abolition of liberty—political and individual—and the substitution of despotism.

"They mean the end of freedom—freedom of speech, eedom of the press, freedom of thought, freedom of action.

The accompanying editorial is based upon a telegraphic letter from William Randolph Hearst to Arthur Brisbane, which appeared in the Hearst newspapers on May 4 and which is now quoted in these columns. When the letter was originally published, Dr. George J. Ryan, president of the Board of Education of New York City, sent the following telegram to Mr. Hearst:

"In Friday's New York American I read your birthday telegram to Mr. Arthur Brisbane. May I say that this is one of the finest expressions of the American doctrine that I have ever read and that I am hopeful it will have the widest possible publication. For simplicity of style, clarity and brevity I do not recall having read a better statement of the things for which we Americans stand and which we are endeavoring to inculcate in the 1,250,000 children in the public schools of New York City. Many congratulations."

"When the torch of liberty is extinguished, our era of enlightenment is ended, and we return to the dark ages of force and fear.

"All the progress our fathers dreamed of, and all that we have achieved, are based on the democratic principle of equality.

"That is the keystone of the arch; and if we remove it, the whole structure of our democracy crashes to the ground.

"WILLIAM RANDOLPH HEARST."

IN EQUALITY before the law, as Mr. Hearst writes, is the primary protection of the little man, the fundamental guaranty of his rights and liberties.

This truth cannot be too much emphasized.

Every discrimination made in favor of one class of citizens and against another constitutes a precedent which is not only a violation of the democratic principle of equality, but an encouragement of further violations by subsequent administrations.

The radical administrations which discriminate in favor of one class are establishing precedents which a reactionary administration will use to discriminate in favor of a different class.

And in the end, democratic equality will disappear. Government of unjust discrimination will be substituted for the government conceived by our fathers of equal rights and equal liberties.

WE BEHOLD on every hand the results of the current ardor for spoliation—the "soak-the-thrifty" campaign so noisily sounded in congressional speeches.

The obvious arrest of recovery, the palpable decline of business initiative, the stagnation of capital's flow into productive enterprise, the natural and inevitable shrinkage of employment at a much faster rate than the government by artificial means can create it—all attest the profound truth that the effects of unequal treatment before the law are not confined to the classes against which so mistaken a policy is aimed, but envelop the little fellow as well in the evil consequences of governmental discrimination in place of upright impartiality.

"They established it (equality before the law) to obtain freedom from the discrimination under which they had been suffering; to abolish caste and class and special privilege; to create equalty of rights, equality of privileges, equality of opportunities, equality of obligations."

"You cannot discriminate," said he, "in favor of one class or against one class and have equality. You cannot have unequal privileges and unequal obligations and maintain a government based on equal rights."

THE LETTER of Mr. Hearst well deserves careful reading. It carries a timely warning which must be heeded if we are to survive as a great democratic republic.

He touched upon the fact, now becoming more clearly recognized each day, that many of the new measures which have been so hastily adopted do not mark progress, but are clearly retrogressive and reactionary.

"We are not adopting new systems," said Mr. Hearst, "but returning to old, discredited and discarded systems."

The mingled elements of Communism and Fascism which many of the new measures present, mean the "abolition of liberty," as Mr. Hearst declares—"political and individual, and the substitution of despotism."

* * *

THE LOSS is threatened of every hard-won immunity and security, which have been regarded as constituting American liberty, including the freedom of speech, of the press, of thought, and of action.

"When the torch of liberty is extinguished," says Mr. Hearst, "our era of enlightenment is ended, and we return to the dark ages of force and fear."

PROFOUND WISDOM IS THIS! WHO SHALL GAINSAY ITS TRUTH?

Can such warnings, supported by our history and confirmed by our instincts as a people, be disregarded?

It is high time we stopped attributing failure to America—to what, as Mr. Hearst reminds us, "is universally recognized as the greatest success politically and economically in the world."

Such reflections as these are coming rapidly to the surface of American thought. They are broader than all party lines. They are the basic, deep-lodged and permanent convictions of America.

THE shallows murmur, while the deep is still—STILL in the sense in which the deeper thought of the country is outdinned by the clamors at the surface, but NOT STILL in the sense that it is motionless.

Far from it. The depths of American thinking and American purpose and American conviction are stirring.

The irresponsible innovators, now so blithely disfiguring the fair aspect of American life, will soon be overtaken—and disposed of by the oncoming forces of sanity, sobriety and genuine devotion to American principles and ideals.

A Transcendent Pleasure

Life without music would be to some almost intolerable, to many tasteless agreeable.

How essential music is to our happiness may be observed in the homes with radios, pianos and phonographs, in hotels and restaurants, in churches and schools, in theaters and public meetings of all kinds.

The greatest pleasure is to be found in the highest form of classical music, the symphony. Probably nothing else ever written has given so many people such profound delight as Beethoven's Fifth Symphony.

But it is impossible for the majority of people to appreciate symphonies at the first hearing. Brahms' First must be heard several times before it makes an impression; then, with full acquaintance, it stirs the listeners to the very depths of their souls.

There can be no better investment for Pittsburgh than an investment in a symphony orchestra which will teach people to love symphonies and so give them one of the deepest, purest and most beneficial pleasures that life affords.

The Pittsburgh Symphony Society is trying to raise $100,000 to maintain the orchestra for two more years and make possible a greater number of concerts. The campaign was started last night at a dinner, which was honored by the attendance of Dr. Walter Damrosch and Rosa Ponselle.

Give to this fund. Nothing could have higher educational value or contribute more to the happiness of the people than a Pittsburgh Symphony Orchestra which will teach them to appreciate the classics of music and cater to their enjoyment when appreciation has been inculcated.

New School Unit Asked!

The Council of Education Has Sensibly Refused the Request

About as brazen an attempt to extend oxcart government as has been recorded is disclosed in the announcement of the State Council of Education that it has rejected the application of residents of the newly formed borough of Churchill in this county to establish a new school district.

Allegheny County already has 119 independent school districts, which is about 117 too many. The multiplicity of districts makes for a multiplicity of school officials, which multiplies school expenses and decreases efficiency.

But, as if 119 were not enough, people in Churchill proposed another—and that for a community with only 42 elementary pupils and no schoolhouse. If the request had been granted the people of this tiny borough would have had to support a school board, with a secretary, auditor, solicitor and tax collector.

The Council of Education was well advised in rejecting the request.

What we need is elimination of many districts through consolidation.

THE DESERT DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

ON THE WAY, May 16.—Out the window mile after mile of dat ol' debbie desert. An ocean of dreary sand wastes dotted with jets of lifeless sage. Mile after mile. Sage and sand. It's a Biblical prophecy that some day it will bloom like the rose. And the Mojave already nears that fulfillment.

On a rock outcrop a long-eared jack-rabbit poised a quizzical second and was off in a flash, like humanity rushing from imaginative fears. Now and then across the expanse civilization lifts a sun-baked head in an adobe hut or an abandoned box car on a siding.

Arizona has always an eerie beauty at night. The moon tints a patina of heavenly pinks over the yellow scarps, rising like suddenly puffed sails in sheer beauty. Even above the car wheels the mystery is heightened now and then by a thin and long-drawn-out tremulous cry. One thinks of lost souls.

Arizona has shared well in Nature's bounty, save in one particular—water. It is as though a great painter had finished his mighty canvas without the most important stroke. After two fumbles, I made a flying tackle for "Anthony Adverse" crossing the American Sahara. I've been wrong. It's a grand book.

A de luxe coast train is the Nadir of autograph colectors. Ida Watts, the Chief's maid, has an album that will offer her, if needs be, an independency in advanced years. There are good-will messages from all Hollywood's elect—Chaplin, Fairbanks, Pickford, Dressler, etc. Sage philosophy from Will Rogers, Sam Hellman, Mencken, Will Durant, Edna Millay ticked off a sonnet. Chrysler, Otto Kahn, Heiftez and Einstein add to the album's infinite variety.

We arrived at California's frontier Needles at 8:30 a. m. I like to peek at towns through a slit of window curtains from a sleeper berth. And to listen to station loungers' conversation unobserved is as much fun as anyone can have. Two were under my window. Said No. 1: Will Hays, the pitcher feller, is aboard." No. 2: "I seen his wife Helen in a fillum twicet."

More endless wastelands where, incongruously enough, evergreen meanders playfully. I commend this phenomenon as a topic for pulpiteers. Beauty always, even in the jumping off places. And how exquisite the agony of aching thirst! The desert's parched lips in eternal supplication. How I go on! But this is just old-fashioned hemstitching stuff. Remind me sometime to turn on all the adjectives and get flowery. After the desert I'd like to tune up for a good waterfall. Nothing cascades a vocabulary like a mountain of rushing water.

Add sudden ambitions: To be an iceman in the desert.

To while the tedium in the club car we fell to telling of train wrecks—happy inspiration! The bright young man from Washington, D. C. was reminded of an engineer he knew in Barstow, which we were approaching. A devoted family man, the engineer always waved from his cab to his happy family grouped in the door of their home near Barstow. One evening he was indulging the customary salute, looked down the track and too near for warning saw two of his children strolling down the tracks. In the long silence I grabbed the hook and cried: "How horrible! Were they killed?" The smart alec replied: "No. The train, recognizing them, jumped right over!" Grandma always told me never to fall in with strangers traveling.

I remarked to the Clare Briggs-looking dining room steward today that I never trusted fish save on trains and chiefly when crossing a desert. Students of analogy could doubtless explain the fish and desert link. Certainly no two things could be more remote. The steward explained it was a common gastronomic yearning. An extra supply of fish is always put aboard at the desert borders. With the rest of the suckers.

Beyond Barstow landscape begins to color. Palm trees sway in gentle whisper. Clouds of alkali vanish before the sudden scent of wet-green orange groves. Clumps of pony-high walnut trees shimmer like silver birch in the moonlight. The primitive adobe, its two windows shuttered like cataracted eyes, becomes a magnificent Spanish castle with candy-striped awnings and patio. It may be stagecraft—the triumph of man. But what other state has harnessed so much loveliness, natural or artificial? So here, California, is another softie. In spats!

OUR RHYMING OPTIMIST

By ALINE MICHAELIS

Individuality

Into your chamber I might creep
And in your soft bed fall asleep.
With your brush I might smooth my hair,
And your gay silken frocks might wear;
Might don your scarf of shining sable
Or sit as mistress at your table.

We are so like, I do not doubt
That not one soul would find me out
If I should some day take your place
And greet friends with your air, your face.
For I can take your gracious poses
As simply as a rose uncloses.

Yet, though I might deceive the rest
And keep my secret long unguessed,
I could not, howsoe-er I tried,
One hour bridge the chasm wide
Yawning between your soul and mine,
Which you and I alone divine.
Your own self's pattern fits no other,
Though near as sister, near as mother!

LISTEN, WORLD!

By Elsie Robinson

Good as Her Mother; Why Isn't That Good Enough

This is the true story of Elizabeth Edwards. It is also the story of thousands of other loyal, loving hardworking wives who, in spite of their best efforts, aren't making the grade. Actually, it's the story of a changing world, and what that change is doing to women. As such, it's important History. Listen in!

Betty Edwards is 37—pretty, kindly, sensible, a capable wife and mother of the "old school." Meaning that Betty grew up as Nice Young Girls had grown up for thousands of years before. Not much money, but plenty of old-fashioned comfort. A big family. Scads of friends. Everything free and easy.

When Betty finished Hi, she helped around home with mother. A nice girl wouldn't have dreamed of working in those days— unless maybe it was teaching. So 19 happy, carefree years passed—then Betty married Dan.

Dan's one wish was that Betty should become just such a wife and mother as her own mother was. And she has. Today Betty's a grand cook, makes all the youngsters' clothes, loves to have company drop in, boasts that she "hasn't a thought outside her home." Yet, for some mysterious reason, Dan's discontented.

He'll hardly admit it to himself; despises himself whenever the feeling gets the best of him. Yet there it is! Why? WHY? Why does Betty get in his hair?"

Sitting at his desk, Dan wonders. Watches the women workers around him. Dan's young, as executives go — only 41. The women in the office seem young, too, though some of them must be as old as Betty. Perhaps it's the quick, light way they move around, or the crisp smartness of their clothes. Or is it the way they understand a man's need — their speedy pickup of a problem—their enthusiasm — their good sportsmanship?

Sitting across from Betty of an evening, Dan wonders some more. He wouldn't — he swears he wouldn't—give one of Betty's little fingers for that whole outfit of office women. She's a grand girl! He can never be grateful enough for all she's done. And yet—

Why is it that Betty—that all home women—are so different from working women?

Betty isn't hard to look at. Of course, she isn't much for dressing any more. But then, as she laughingly explains, that doesn't really matter, around the house. And then it cost so much for the girls! But it isn't just the dressing.

Other little things. He's a cad to even notice them, but they certainly get his goat. The slow way she moves. Taking everything so easy. Never quite on time. ("But what does it matter, darling, if I'm a few minutes late. Honest, Dan you oughta slow down, yourself. It's awful to let yourself get all nerved up the way you are lately.")

But that isn't the worst. It's the dullness. Mi-gosh, how dull a home is, after the office! Unless sombody comes in for bridge, what's there to do?

Betty says, "It's fun, just us two alone, darling. Here's my chance to give myself a good cold creaming and read that new serial. Wonder if she's really going away with that fellow?"

Maybe Betty's right. Maybe he ought to be content, quiet nights like that. Sitting talking about the children, night after night—maybe that should be enough. But it isn't.

Things are so exciting, nowadays! Down at the office, everybody wondering about the NRA. Always an argument going on about something. These new codes. The latest strike. Rough stuff they're pulling over in Germany. Funny that you can't have talks like that at home. But you can't. Betty doesn't care for stuff like that. Doesn't even know it's happening!

Fierce—the way a fellow feels let down when he comes back to a perfectly nice home! Maybe that's why some fellows quit—go away with some snappy little number.

"Not," says Dan to himself, roughly, "that I'd ever do a thing like that. I'm crazy about Betty. Really crazy. Of course, Sue's an interesting girl; helps me a lot in my work. Wonderful how a girl like Sue understands. But that's just business.

"Not a thing to it when we work together evenings. What's wrong in getting a bite together, when we got a lot of work to do? Betty shouldn't get burned up over a thing like that. She oughta know I wouldn't even look at another woman. I'm not that KIND OF A FELLOW."

Only 41. What's it going to be like, all those years ahead? Coming back to this night after night? What's the use of a fellow driving, driving, if this is all he gets out of it?

BUT DO HOME WOMEN HAVE TO BE LIKE THIS—JUST BECAUSE THEIR MOTHERS WERE? CAN'T THEY SNAP OUT OF IT; BE AS MODERN AS BUSINESS WOMEN?

Well—must they, or musn't they? Can they, or can't they? What's YOUR answer?

Republican Leadership Is Up for Consideration

By James T. Williams, Jr.

WHETHER the Republican National Committee shall select a new leader now, or postpone the choice until nearer the time for the next presidential elections, is the chief question to come up for consideration at the June meeting of the committee.

This meeting has been called to act upon the resignation of Chairman Saunders, whose retirement at this time is said to be due to his health. Otherwise the meeting might have been postponed for another year.

It will be contrary to long time custom if the election of a new chairman of this committee is made next month. The usual procedure is for the committee to remain more or less inactive between presidential campaigns. Its main function is to arrange for the nomination of candidates for President and Vice President every four years and to supervise the conduct of the campaign for the election of the party's nominees for these offices.

The National Committee has nothing to do with the nomination or election of Senators or Representatives in Congress, or Governors or State Legislatures. This year the Republican Congressional Campaign Committee will be in charge of the party's congressional contests.

May Postpone Election for Year

IF the Republican committeemen follow customary procedure at the June meeting they will postpone the election of a successor to Chairman Saunders for another year and allow the vice chairman to act as chairman in the meantime.

But this course is opposed by an active group of committeemen who insist that now is the time for the Republican National Committee, under a new chairman, to begin an active campaign of opposition to the Roosevelt Administration and the New Deal. This group would like to see the committee extend its authority and responsibility in many directions.

The fact that the chairman of the Democratic National Committee is also Postmaster General and chairman of the New York State Committee of his party gives him a power never before exercised by one politician in the history of either party.

If the Republicans elect a new chairman of their national committee at the next meeting, the country will conclude that they are trying to build a Republican Farley to fight a Democratic Farley. And the country will not be far wrong.

It is a question, however, whether the American people are inclined to look with favor upon the attempt of certain members of the Republican National Committee to put a Republican Farley at its head more than a year in advance of the time when there is any useful work for the Republican committee chairman to do.

Before the Republican party can again provide a political opposition in this country which is logical, sincere and based upon principles, rather than upon the greed of special interests, the Republican organizations in the several states must be given new and better leadership.

This initiative can best come from the ranks of the state organizations of the party rather than from the chairman of its Presidential campaign committee. This committee as now organized is too closely affiliated with special interests to offer a leadership which progressive Republicans or independents North, East, South or West, would find attractive.

Politicians Still Trying to Dodge

FURTHERMORE, the division within the Republican National Committee is only the outward visible sign of the division that exists throughout the Republican party at this time. It lacks leadership worthy of great causes because the party politicians are, for the most part, still running away from the great causes, or attempting artfully to dodge the duty of championing them.

A year hence, a group of Republican state chairmen may have made a record in purging their own organizations which will entitle them to serious consideration for the responsibilities connected with the chairmanship of the Republican National Committee.

Then, too, by 1935 the American people will be in a better position to evaluate the fruits of the New Deal and to separate the sweet from the bitter, the permanent from the temporary. In the light of that appraisal they will then be ready to decide, in the great referendum of the following year, to what extent the New Deal was a square deal, for its chances of survival will depend not upon its novelty but upon its squareness to poor and rich and strong and weak alike.

A Republican chairman of the Republican National Committee elected next month might be badly out of step with his party by the time the committee meets more than a year hence to prepare for the Presidential campaign of 1936.

ISN'T IT SO?
